Dr. Clapp is rearded among the student turning this kitchen, with its accompanying fields of foot ball and base ball. Himself, dining rooms and cafe, over to any first a track athlete and coach of both the basket ball and track teams, he is naturally prejudiced in favor of these two sports as against the major games. The students durin the last year have charedthat he would like to make track and basket ball games the major sports at Nebraska and "kill" foot ball. They point to his opposition to the foot ball training table and his attempt to do away with the athletic board last winter as convincing arguments in their position.

One was that the legislature had made a law which put on certain candidates for state office restrictions and duties in becoming candidates that were not imposed on others. Candidates for supreme judge, for regent of the state university and for state superintendent are required under the law to be attacked to secure a petition of 5,000 names, not more than 500 of which can come from one county. Other candidates may be nominated at a primary election. This is thought to give the candidate who must secure the large petition an unequal chance with the others, and denies to some of them the right to a candidacy, thereby hindering the voter from casting his ballot for whom he desires in an election. Boy Starts Bad Prairie Fire SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 9 - (Special.) During a high wind a few days are a boy and a match were responsible for starting what for some little time threatened to be a disastrous prairie fire in the vicinity of Wessington Springs. The box thought he would aid his father by burn ing some rubbish on a farm five miles southwest of the town. The flerce wind speedily carried the sparks to the adjacent prairie and within a few minutes a bad prairie fire was raging. A call for help was sent in from the neighborhood and scores of farmers from many miles around hurried to the scene to fight the flames After a bard fight the flames were extinguished, but not until the fire had burned over about two square miles of territory and up to a point within half a mile of Wessington Springs. The near approach of the fire, which filled the air with a dence pall of smoke, greatly alarmed the residents, who for a time feared the town would be wiped out. Much pasture land was burned over and some other property was consumed. Rural telephone lines controlling the fire, as those living near where the fire started were able to use the telephones in summoning farmers living at a distance to their aid. It is said
