French Capital Resens City in State of Siege

STRIKERS COMMITTEE CONFIDENT

Leaders Say Movement is Extending Rapidly and Suspension Will Be General Within Three Days.

PARIS, May 12.—Paris today resembled a city in a state of siege. During the night troops took possession of the central postal telegraph stations, and at daylight squads of infantrymen were picketed around every branch office to protect postal employees who are willing to work. The streets are patrolled by the mounted republican guards, all exposed telegraphers are being carefully watched and soldiers have been introduced even into the sewers of the city to prevent the meeting of wires.

Furthermore, 500 military telegraphers and several hundred automobiles have been hastily mobilized and massed in the Galerie des Machines, ready for instant service. General Dalstein, the military governor of Paris, has 60,000 troops in reserve. The walls of Paris are covered this morning with posters announcing that the strike will continue until the employees' grievances are redressed.

"The right to form trades unions will be obtained, cost what it may," but beyond the railroad mail clerks, the number who have abandoned work were comparatively small. The first two deliveries of mail were effected without the aid of troops, but the distribution of the newspaper mail was not attempted. At the postal headquarters secrecy prevails. The leaders content themselves with saying that the strike had only begun.

Troops throughout provinces.

In the provinces the tactics adopted by the government here are being repeated. The various postoffices were encircled by cordons of troops at daylight today.

Last night the postmen of Lyons and Bordeaux decided to join their Paris colleagues.

The press generally reproaches the chamber of deputies for its cowardice yesterday in postponing a vote on the postal situation, thus throwing the entire responsibility on the government. It is understood, however, that Premier Clemenceau preferred non-parliamentary action for tactical reasons.

Toward noon today eight strikers were arrested while trying to enter the central bureau.

Nancy is the first city where the telegraphers and telephoneists went out.

It was officially announced early this afternoon that the strikers numbered 700 men, chiefly railroad clerks. But at strike headquarters a much larger number was claimed. The leaders say the movement is extending rapidly and that there will be complete suspension in three days.

The Chamber of Deputies after a stormy session of four hours yesterday adjourned the debate on the postal situation until May 13. The response of the postal employees was quick and decisive. Within half an hour the federal committee had issued an order for a general strike and the railway mail clerks walked out in a body. An hour later a meeting of 6,000 postal employees at the Hippodrome took up the game of battle and unanimously voted to strike. There was no great enthusiasm shown, but determination and resolution to force the hand of the government were apparent.

"The government is playing for time; we must not be caught napping," was the spirit of the meeting as expressed by Faure, a dismissed postman and one of the most active organizers of the movement.

During the debate in the chamber M. Bismarck and Secretary Sincay declared the position of the strikers affirming their right to organize themselves into a syndicate as the only way of redressing their grievances and charging the government with failure to keep its promises at the conclusion of the previous strike, especially with regard to the retirement of M. Sincay, under secretary of posts and telegraphs.

M. Duchesne considered the crisis very grave. He laid the responsibility for the present situation largely on "parliamentarism," which he said was working in a circle and considered the only remedy would be the introduction of real civil service, based on merit, to end favoritism and the spoils system.

M. Barthou, minister of public works, the government's only spokesman, insisted that neither he nor Premier Clemenceau had promised Secretary Sincay's retirement. He produced the official journal as proof of what he had said. The minister reaffirmed the government's unalterable opposition to conceding the right of state employees to form a syndicate, as there was no analogy between their case and that of ordinary workmen, who are not protected against stoppage of work and are not guaranteed promotion and pensions in old age.

"If parliament asks us to reverse our attitude," continued M. Barthou, "we will retire and leave to others the obligation which would be a mortal blow to the inalienable rights that parliament holds for the nation and to the essential, vital and permanent interests of the nation itself."

A permanent strike and branch committees were created and delegates were dispatched to the provinces to pursue an active propaganda to make the strike complete. The secret committee, composed of men whose names were not made public, so that they might escape the government's surveillance, was abolished. Dispatches were received from many cities announcing the sympathy and support not only of the postal employees but the various trades unions.

Faure assured the meeting that with the aid of M. Pataud, the electrician leader, a way could be found to upset the wireless system. The proceedings closed with the adoption of a resolution condemning the disloyalty of the government and bidding all present to remain on strike until full satisfaction had been given.

Tensleep Raid Mystery Cleared by Confession

Two Men Under Arrest at Basin Admit Guilt and Implicate Five Others.

RABIN, Wyo., May 12.—(Special.)—There is no longer any mystery attached to the Tensleep sheep camp raid in which three men were murdered. Sheriff Alston, Prosecuting Attorney Meigs and Special Prosecutors Simpson and Esterline, as well as the members of the grand jury, know who committed the murders, why they committed them and how they committed them. Their knowledge is the result of confessions by two of the guilty men, which statements implicate the confessors and five others in the assassinations. All seven men are in the county jail here and under heavy guard of especially picked deputy sheriffs. They are safe alike from friend or foe, neither a rescuing party nor a lynching party can reach them.

Neither Sheriff Alston, the attorneys nor any member of the grand jury will divulge the identity of the two men who have confessed. The confessions in crime they have betrayed do not know of their confessions. They are among the following who are the men they name as having made the raid and whom they say are the only persons implicated therein: George Saban, a prominent ranchman; Herman Brink, an ex-bartender and cowboy; Ed Eaton, cowboy; M. A. Alexander, William Kise, Charles Ferris and Thomas Dixon, small ranchmen.

Sheriff Felix Alston, who has been repeatedly threatened with death since he began the work of running down the murderers of Emge, Laxler and Allemand, is taking no chances with his prisoners. They are guarded day and night and they are not tried during the coming term of court the county jail will be rebuilt to make their imprisonment the more secure. This is the first time the perpetrators of a range raid have been held with absolute evidence against them and no chance involving a possibility of their escape will be taken.
