GRAND JUROR INHALES GAS

Carelessness of George W. Jensen Halts Work of Body.

WAS ALMOST DEAD WHEN FOUND

Had Inadvertently Turned on Gas After Turning It Off—Deaf Athletes to Pull Off a Field Meet.

The deliberations of the district grand jury, which reconvened Monday came to a sudden termination, at least for the time being, yesterday noon, owing to the fact that one of the members, George W. Jensen, of Norwalk township had a narrow escape from crossing the great divide by the amphitheatre route.

Jensen did not show up at the morning session of the grand jury and when at noon the cause of his absence was investigated he was found unconscious in his room at the Ogdon hotel and the room full of gas.

At the hotel it was stated that Jensen retired to his room about 11 o'clock Monday night. When the door was broken in shortly after noon yesterday he was lying in bed attired in his night clothes.

When Judge Wheeler learned of the cause of Jensen's absence from the session of the grand jury he at once issued an order adjourning the grand jury until next Monday.

OTTUMWA MAN IS PRINCIPAL

C. E. Reed Succeeds Thomas as Head of High School.

The Board of Education at a special meeting held last night in the law office of President Tinley, elected C. E. Reed of Ottumwa, Ia., principal of the high school to succeed Prof. S. L. Thomas, whose resignation takes effect at the end of the present school term.

Mr. Reed is a graduate of Wooster, O., college for two years, was principal of the Marietta high school for five years and he comes to Council Bluffs from Ottumwa, where he has been principal for the last two years. He is 34 years of age and married.

The new principal will receive $1,800 per year, being $100 more than his predecessor. Kindergarten teachers are to be placed on the same footing as grade teachers and henceforth they will receive an increase of $5 a year until a maximum of $70 is reached.

Chairman Reed of the finance committee reported that Treasurer Davis had submitted for bids for refunding $70,000 of the outstanding bonds of the school district. These bids will be received by Treasurer Davis up to 5 p. m. of Friday of this week and it was decided that the board meet that evening to open the bids.

Superintendent Beveridge reported with pardonable pride that 1,062 teachers and pupils had a perfect record for attendance this school year. They will be given badges and a holiday as a reward. This record, Mr. Beveridge, would compare with any city in the state.

PROHIBITIONISTS PULLING

A. C. Rankin and Others Say the Money Comes Easy.

EXPECT TO SWEEP THE STATE

Workers for Prohibition Are Soon to Hold Meeting for Organization and Will Import Noted Speakers.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, May 19.—(Special).—That the constitutional amendment movement is going to sweep the state of Iowa like a clean broom is the statement of A. C. Rankin, state organizer for the temperance forces, who arrived in Des Moines yesterday from five meetings in small county seats, at which he raised over $50. He says the men of the state are more enthusiastic over the constitutional amendment prospects than over any movement in which he has been interested. Money is easily forthcoming and he says the campaign will take on proportions that will completely overwhelm the state and bring about a decided declaration for a constitutional convention to amend the constitution so as to provide absolute prohibition.

There is soon to be a meeting of the board, composed of five men and women, representing the six temperance organizations of the state, at which time arrangements will be made for bringing into the Iowa campaign some of the strongest temperance speakers in the United States. The workers refuse at present to disclose the names of the campaigners, but declare they are among the ablest men of the country and will create a decided stir. It is proposed to have a field or advance man, who will go over the state making dates and advertising the appearance of these speakers. From the way the associated temperance organizations are receiving funds in their constitutional amendment movement it is certain Iowa is to be plunged into a temperance campaign which may have considerable political significance.

Reports that have gone forth that there was dissension among the temperance societies in the combination are branded as untrue and are said to have been started by one organization which refused to affiliate with the other organizations in a united fight for a constitutional amendment.

KIRY SUCCEEDS VAN CLEAVE

Dayton Man Nominated for President of Manufacturers' Association.

MANY SUBJECTS ARE DISCUSSED

Labor and Railroad Legislation, Free Trade with Islands and Ship Subsidies Are Considered.

NEW YORK, May 19.—John Kiry, Jr., of Dayton, O., was the unanimous choice today of the nominating committee as a candidate for president of the National Association of Manufacturers to succeed James W. Van Cleave.

Discussion of the labor problem was the feature of today's session. President Van Cleave protested against the possibility of special legislation in favor of organized labor, pleading for consideration of the subject on the ground that such legislation would constitute a menace to the country's welfare.

The coming session of congress would seem a particularly favorable time to the labor leaders for the urging of legislation to legalize picketing and boycott. Mr. Van Cleave declared: "Reverses in the middle of a presidential term," said the speaker, "usually mean that the opposing party will elect the next president." He continued: "Financial confidence is reviving and there is an improvement in most of the important lines of trade. Unwise labor legislation, however, could quickly check this trade uplift. Here is a direct peril from the program which the American Federation of Labor leaders promise to resume before congress in the coming winter."

F. R. Boocock, secretary of the American Anti-Boycott association severely arraigned the boycott, among other "objectionable" features of organized labor, and said law and reason were labor's two best friends.

Boocock, secretary of the American Anti-Boycott association severely arraigned the boycott, among other 'objectionable' features of organized labor, and said law and reason were labor's two best friends. Railroad Legislation. The committee on interstate commerce presented a report emphasizing 'the folly of recent anti-railroad legislation in many of our states, and especially the arbitrary '2-cent-a-mile' acts.' The report sums up the attitude of the committee toward the railroads in the following language: 'But while earnestly opposed to rash attacks upon the railroads and to everything that may interfere with their efforts to prove faithful servants of the public, we have always been in favor of their regulation by the national government. This regulation, in the hands of a competent horse, should be sufficient to preserve control, but should not chafe, or fret, or hamper, or interfere with the free play of the muscles. Speaking of the tariff revision the committee deplores national extravagance as the cause for the $100,000,000 deficit, and the consequent necessity of increased taxation. It suggests that duties on crude materials and steel might safely have been further reduced to the advantage of the general manufacturing interests. 'The revenue needed to restore the estimated $120,000,000 deficit could have been in considerable measure made up from moderate duties on tea and coffee, of which the consumer need be hardly conscious, and by the inheritance tax as recommended by the president,' the report suggests. Free Trade with Islands. In an address entitled 'The Open Door—Your Opportunity,' S. I. Scudder of the International Banking corporation of New York urged the association to demand of congress free trade with the Philippines and Porto Rico. He was followed by Thomas E. Durban, who spoke on 'Desirable Improvements in Interstate Trade.' He attacked the eccentricity of legislation in certain states, saying that 'it seems that this has almost become a disease in the public mind, and anything that can be done by an average legislator to oppress a manufacturer seems to strike a popular chord in public opinion. In conclusion he said: 'It seems to the writer that any laws that affects the trade relations between the manufacturers of the various states is clearly an attempt to regulate interstate commerce, which can only be done by the federal congress. The tendency of these laws is to localize business and to build a certain restriction or to in a measure protect the local manufacturer.' The report of the committee on merchant marine was read, urging that the following resolution be passed: 'Resolved, That the association recommend to congress the passage of a bill like that under consideration in the last congress, and advocated by President Taft providing for sufficient postal compensation to establish a swift and regular service in American steamships to the principal countries of South America, and to the ports of Australia, Japan, China and the Philippines.'
