

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER.

VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

Entered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily Bee (without Sunday), one year, $4.00...

OFFICES. Omaha—The Bee Building, South Omaha—Twenty-fourth and N. Council Bluffs—13 West Street.

REMITTANCES. Remit by draft, express or postal order, payable to The Bee Publishing Company.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION. State of Nebraska, Douglas County: George B. Tschuck, treasurer of The Bee Publishing Company.

Table with 2 columns: Circulation figures for various months and years, including 1908 and 1909.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 1st day of May, 1909.

WHEN OUT OF TOWN. Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them.

The tax assessor is also coming down the home stretch.

A Milwaukee paper reminds us that Christmas is just seven months away.

Just because Mr. Hitchcock has had a lease on the city prosecutorship for three years he thinks he is entitled to perpetual ownership.

People who go out automobile riding around Omaha right now should take witnesses along to prove that they are not train robbers.

If they must have snow at this time of the year up in Montana and the Black Hills, will they please blow their breath the other way?

The wheat, etc. can take notice that Nebraska's growing crops are amply supplied with moisture no matter what may be happening elsewhere.

With the jobs for the jobless record of the legislature before him it makes Mayor Jim sad to see some of the local pie slip out of the democratic commissary wagon.

An English scientist has published a book on "How Much and What Should a Man Eat?"

The railroads are again being greatly troubled with high water.

Lincoln police are having a hard time of it holding down the lid.

Andrew Carnegie is to provide a fund to purchase hero medals for the people of France who deserve them.

How about it? Did the voting of those $6,500,000 water bonds take all the disease germs out of the water?

A Boston girl has made a record of a high jump of four feet three inches.

That Norseman who discovered this continent so many years before Columbus and penetrated as far inland as Minnesota was evidently only springing out the land for his countrymen.

Mayor Jim is denouncing in unmeasured terms the four democratic councilmen who made a deal with the Republicans on council organization.

Isn't it pressing the limit to come nance talking about contesting Hetty Green's will before she is dead, or even enjoying poor health?

President Winchell of the Rock Island has joined the chorus for co-operation between the railroads, the shippers and the public.

Farmer and Speculator.

An eastern financial paper, discussing the prospects of the future tendency of the wheat market, points out that the speculator will soon have a new condition to contend with.

Some years ago the financial conditions of the farmer was by no means so good as now and wheat, being his first marketable crop of the year, was sold as soon as possible after harvest.

Market statistics show that last year the farmers held onto their corn longer on the average than usual, sending it to market only as there was a market demand.

The marketing of the crop only in response to demand would be of financial benefit to the farmer and also to the consumer.

The age of Ann has been determined, nobody cares any more who struck Billy Patterson, and Charley Ross has been given up as definitely lost.

Mr. Bryan continues to run his blue pencil through the names on the party membership list and to assert that the party is irrevocably committed against protection.

It is a merry life this thing of trying to be a democrat and figure out whether your ticket is for the upper or lower berth or whether, perchance, you must do penance by walking to Fairview with peas in your shoes for daring to vote without taking a cue from the great Chautauquan.

During all the talk about the great increase in the German navy and the scare it has produced in Great Britain, Germany has been busily engaged building warships and saying practically nothing.

During all the talk about the great increase in the German navy and the scare it has produced in Great Britain, Germany has been busily engaged building warships and saying practically nothing.

ventlow, in discussing the situation, stated plainly that Germany was living in constant fear of attack by Great Britain and that every step forward by Germany in shipping and commerce makes the danger greater.

How much of this talk, both in Germany and in Great Britain, is for the purpose of forcing through the appropriations considered necessary for naval development, no one of course knows except those in authority.

The message sent by Mayor Dahman to the new council has the merit of being short and to the point and free from all attempts at fancy writing.

The principal part of the message is a repetition of the platform declarations upon which the mayor was re-elected and a reminder to the councilmen—both republican and democratic—that the campaign pledges were largely identical in all platforms.

Mr. Bryan is preserving a sphinxlike silence on the tariff issue. He will be encouraged in this policy by the reception given in the senate to some few innocent remarks from Governor John A. Johnson.

Not only are the independent steel companies to restore wages, but those railroads which reduced the pay of the salaried class of employees following the panic of 1907 are announcing a return to the old compensation.

Lucky Guam! The people felt that they were burdened with unnecessarily high duties and complaints to Captain Dorn, the naval governor.

Against this select group of nineteen men is the great army of senators who are well fixed, comfortably well off, and poor.

It is a notable circumstance that the senate's tariff bill has practically no defenders in the press of the country.

Finally the well springs of news in the United States senate are dried up. The prolonged debate on tariff is held up as a culprit responsible for a new drought of such severity that Washington correspondents are forced to the extremity of sliding up the "most august assemblage on earth" as a millonaires club.

Senator Aldrich will be allowed to select his own route and name his own prices for a season of chautauqua lectures. This is quite in line with his experience in arranging tariff schedules for other people.

Evening sessions ordered and the flow of senate talk unchecked. That North Carolina member of other days, who represented the county of Buncombe and pleaded to a wearied house that he was "talking for Buncombe" has his disciples at every session, although not all are as frank as he.

PERSONAL NOTES. M. Paderewski, having recovered his health, is enjoying himself in agricultural pursuits at his chateau on the banks of the Lake of Lucerne. There is an impression in Chicago that Carter H. Harrison, four times mayor of the city, is likely to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for mayor in 1911.

Thursday Morning. We will place on sale 100 suits left over from last spring's stock, which we must close out before our regular semi-annual inventory. These suits are every bit as good in style and materials as any of this season's models, but there is only one or two of a kind and that is our reason for closing them out. We sold these suits last spring from $15 to $28, most of them were formerly $20. "No Clothing Fits Like Ours." We have all sizes in the assortment. Thursday morning at 9 o'clock we will place them on sale at— $7.50. The chance of buying a Browning, King & Co. suit for so little money is not to be overlooked. See Douglas Street Windows. Look for our advertisement of Boys' and Children's Suits in another part of this paper. Browning, King & Co. 15th and Douglas Sts. R. S. WILCOX, Mgr.
