Dun's Report of Bank Clearings

Bank clearings, although falling off slightly toward the end of the mouth, hold up remarkably well. The figures for May are far above those of last year and are slightly inrger than the record year 1906. Total exchanges for the mouth, according to the state-meant issued by R. G. DUN & Co., for all cities reporting in the United States, embrasing 110 leading centers, were $12,960,938,085, an increase of 19.5 per cent. compared with last year. One less business day in May, 1906, affects unfavorably the comparison with that year; the average dailly figures for May, in which this difference is eliminated, show a gain of 1.6 per cent. and exchanges in that year were at the record for that month. The increase over last year is shared by all sections, but in the comparison with 1906 the depression this year in the iron and steel trades reduced the totals at Phila-delphis and Pittsburg and in turn that of the Middle Atlantic division, but a number of other cities, notably Scranton and Reading, show considerable increases over both years. Large gains appear at New England over last year, but there are small losses at Besion and other leading New England cities, in the comparison with May, 1906, Springfield and Worcester being notable exceptions. In the West improvement is well maintained, especially at Chicage and Kansas City, where the exchanges were the largest ever reported for May. Considerable increases were also made by Detroit, Milwankee, St. Paul, Omaha, St. Joseph, Denver and many of the smaller cities. The majority of the leading conters of the South and Southwest report gains, St. Louis, Memphis, Baltimore, Richmond, Atlanta and other ditias centributing to the increase, while New Orleans and Louisville still report decreases. At Pacific coast points exchanges are very much larger than in either preceding year. Comparison is made below of bank exchanges by sections covering three years; also the average daily figures for each month for the year to date:
