Mrs. Walker Before Commission.

Mrs. Thomas J. Walker of Graham avenue, against whom her husband filed an information on April 22, charging her with being insane, was before the commissioners yesterday. She had evaded the officers until Thursday evening, when she was located at Lake Manawa, where she was attending the picnic of the Lady Maccabees. The hearing before the commissioners was continued until next Monday morning and Mrs. Walker was turned over to the care of her sister, Mrs. George Jacobs.

On June 1 Mrs. Walker commenced suit in the district court for a divorce, charging her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment. On two occasions, in 1906 and in 1907, Mrs. Walker filed information against her husband, charging him with being mentally deranged, but on both occasions he was discharged. At that time Mrs. Walker had a divorce suit pending, but they patched up their troubles and the action was never prosecuted.

SALOON MEN ARE SUMMONED

Three Publicans at Avoca Cited for Alleged Contempt of Court.

VIOLATION OF ORDER IS CHARGED

Two Men Who Conducted Saloon on Broadway Near Bryant Must Make Answer to Similar Accusation.

Henry Kuhl, A. Wahl and A. C. Wendt, saloonkeepers of Avoca, have been summoned to appear before Judge Wheeler in the district court here this morning and show cause why they should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court. County Attorney Hess recently secured in the district court at Avoca injunctions against several saloonmen, including the three defendants. The injunctions restrained the defendants from selling liquor in violation of the law. Kuhl, Wahl and Wendt continued to do business as before, except that they tried to conform to the provisions of the mulct law, but it appears that they overlooked one essential matter and that is that their saloons are within the prescribed distance of 300 feet of a church. This is in violation of the law and the matter was called to the attention of the county attorney, who promptly instituted contempt proceedings against the three saloonmen.

John Ericksen and James Hansen, who until last Saturday night conducted a saloon on Broadway near Bryant, have also been summoned to appear in court this morning and make answer to a charge of contempt. An injunction was recently returned against them, and it is alleged they violated the law by keeping their saloon open Saturday night after 10 o'clock. They closed their saloon on Broadway Saturday night, as their tenancy of the building had expired.

Suit to enjoin the illegal sale of liquor was brought yesterday by County Attorney Hess in the name of the state of Iowa against C. F. Davis, the negro proprietor of a saloon at the corner of Broadway and Eleventh street, and Fred Pabst, reputed owner of the building.

Mrs. Matilda C. Schoening seeks a divorce from William L. Schoening, to whom she was married September 5, 1892, in Mineola, Ia., and $2,000 alimony. Mrs. Schoening asks the court to award her the custody of their five minor children. She charges her husband with treating her in a cruel and inhuman manner and with being an habitual drunkard.

Judge Wheeler yesterday issued an order authorizing M. Flammant, administrator of the estate of the late C. B. Jacquemin, to continue operation of the Jacquemin jewelry store in this city until further order of the court. Appraisement is to be made by F. F. Everest, O. Mauthe and W. H. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the family residence, and burial will be in Walnut Hill cemetery. Rev. T. J. SALOON MEN FIGHT BACK

Men Withdrawing Names from Petition Will Be Published.

It was stated yesterday that some of the men who had signed the new saloon general petition of consent were raising a fund to defray the expense of publishing in the daily newspapers a list of those who signed the petition and then withdrew their names at the instance of the Anti-Saloon league forces. This, it is said, they propose doing because of the announcement made by R. C. F. Chambers, district superintendent of the Iowa Anti-Saloon league, that the names of all signing the consent petition would be published in the organization's official organ, "The Dial of Progress."

"Mr. Chambers says in a published interview that this announcement that the names of those signing the saloon petition of consent are to be published must not be construed as a threat. If it is not a threat, then what is it?" said a well-known business man yesterday. "I signed the petition and I declined to withdraw my name when called upon by a committee from the antis. I, like hundreds of others, signed the petition in good faith, and if they want to publish my name they are at liberty to do so. I am not ashamed of it being known that I signed the petition, far from it. We, however, intend to come back at the antis by publishing all the names of the 'backsliders' who withdrew their names. They will not be published in "The Dial of Progress," but in a daily newspaper, where one can read them. The expense will not be very great, as I do not anticipate the list will be a very long one."

"Big Jim," one of the veteran fire horses at No. 4 engine house, is to be killed. The animal has been suffering from fistula in the neck. The committee of the whole of the city council examined the horse yesterday afternoon and decided that it would be best to put it out of its misery. Veterinary Surgeon Hollingsworth was directed to kill the animal.

The committee of the whole at its meeting yesterday afternoon disposed of a number of matters of minor importance. The principal matter before the committee was the proposition to repave Sixth street three blocks south of Fifth avenue. The committee will recommend to the council next Monday night that this be done.

DRAINAGE MATTER GOES OVER

County Board Hears Arguments and Adjourns Until Today.

The county supervisors, sitting as a drainage board, failed yesterday to reach any decision in the matter of the establishment of the Nishnabotna drainage district and adjourned to this morning, when some action is looked for. Supervisor Baker expressed the opinion last evening that the board would decide in favor of the establishment of the drainage district, as he failed to see where the opponents to the proposition had presented any valid argument why the ditch should not be constructed.

A number of landowners who are opposed to the ditch were present in person at the meeting or were represented by attorneys. The board spent the entire day listening to the arguments of the objectors and in going over the awards for damages recommended by the appraisers. These awards were finally increased $2,400. Through some error on the part of the engineer, Mrs. Anna B. Stevens had been awarded but $5 and the board decided she would be entitled to $1,200. Other increases were as follows: James O'Neill, from $160 to $400; W. A. Scott, from $225 to $400; William Thels, from $160 to $200; A. C. Bates estate, from $560 to $1,000; T. W. Jefferson, from $200 to $450; R. V. Churchill, C. J. Stillwell and J. H. Mayne.

Attorney Frank Shinn of Carson, who represented a large number of the objectors, stated that if the board decided on establishing the ditch that the matter would have to be finally determined by the courts, as his clients will use every means in their power to prevent it if possible.

The proposed ditch will, if constructed, be twelve and one-half miles long and, according to the present survey, will cross the bed of the old river no less than eighty-one times.

Two Arrests Follow Fight.

After causing the arrest of H. D. Nelson, a bartender employed at the Manhattan saloon, on a charge of forgery, P. A. Petersen, representing the Round Jewelry company of Omaha, went to the saloon, where he became involved in an altercation with H. A. Larson, the proprietor. Larson had Petersen arrested by the police on a charge of disturbing the peace, and Petersen retaliated by causing the arrest of Larson on an assault and battery charge, filing the complaint in the court of Justice Cooper. Petersen put up a cash bond for his appearance in police court this morning, while Larson gave bond for his appearance before Justice Cooper on Tuesday, June 22.

Nelson, the bartender, is accused by Petersen of forging the name of M. Durr of 624 South Third street of this city to an order for certain articles of jewelry. He gave bond in the sum of $300 for his appearance at the preliminary hearing to be held Thursday of next week before Justice Cooper.

Tells Jury Secret, Attempts Suicide

Iowa Man Goaded to Seek Death Because He Related Forbidden Facts.

PLYMOUTH, Ia., June 11.—(Special.)—Brooding until he became despondent and temporarily insane over the fear that he had betrayed secrets of the grand jury room, which he thought he should have kept inviolate, William Bonker, a farmer living two miles west of here, attempted to commit sucide last night in a furniture store here by cutting his throat.

While in the furniture store Bonker saw a team go by, which he imagined was the team belonging to the sheriff of Mason City. Bonker imagined that the sheriff had come after him. Without a word he turned, went into a small rear room and slashed his throat. His gory body was found upon the floor. He was removed to Mason City and taken to a hospital, where an operation to save his life was performed. The physicians think that his life may be saved.

Bonker recently served on a jury, and unintentionally he talked about it while it was in progress. The thought that he had committed an awful wrong took possession of him.

Todd, senior member of the wholesale fruit firm of Todd & Kraft of this city. Todd was taken to the hospital and the peddler to the police station. Before the latter could be searched, he drank the contents of a two-ounce bottle of carbolic acid and died within thirty minutes. An examination revealed that Todd had been shot in the right arm and in the hip. It is believed that he will recover.

WAR ON PATENT PAVING

Marshalltown Council, Threatened with Suits, Changes Specifications to Admit All Classes.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., June 11.—(Special.)—Threatened with 175 lawsuits and remonstrances by the score, the city council, in session today, amended the specifications of six miles of prospective concrete paving, making it open to competitive bidding instead of leaving them so that only a patented process paving could be used.

The city has been in turmoil ever since the council adopted the specifications which made it possible only for contractors who were willing to pay a tribute to the owner of the paving for the patented process to compete in the bidding.

Both friends and enemies of the administration were so aroused that the city council was swamped with written threats of injunctions and lawsuits and remonstrances if they passed the specifications in their original form.

When the city council met today every attorney but one in the city was present representing clients who objected to having the patented high-priced paving put down adjacent to their property.

DES MOINES MERCHANT SHOT

Moses Rice Attempts to Kill A. H. Todd and Commits Suicide.

STREET FORCE IS REDUCED

Laborers and Teamsters Are Laid Off Because of Difference of Opinion in Council Over Contract Work.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Ia., June 11.—(Special Telegram.)—Twenty minutes after he had failed to kill A. H. Todd, senior partner of the firm of Todd & Kraft, commission merchants, in front of the company's building, Moses Rice, 27 years old, a peddler, died in the city jail from drinking carbolic acid. Police believe the man took the poison before firing the shots at Mr. Todd. His face and chin were badly burned by the acid. Rice was roughly handled by employes of the company when they wrested the smoking revolver from his grasp and a rumor was afloat this morning that this treatment was contributory to the man's death, but authorities believe it to be without foundation. Todd will recover from the effects of the shooting.

Street Force Reduced.

As the result of the refusal of the council to atuhorize the department of streets and public improvements to complete work which has already been started between 125 and 150 laborers and teamsters went to their homes tonight without jobs. The wholesale reduction of forces and subsequent tieing up of city work was made compulsory when Mayor Mathis and Councilmen Hanery and Ash refused to vote for a resolution introduced by Councilman MacVicar directing him to finish jobs already under way. They refused because the cost of the work would exceed $200 and had not been let to contractors as the statute provides.

Porteous Will Referee.

Dave Porteous, the well known Kansas City referee, has been decided upon as referee of the Gotch-Jenkins bout to take place at the stock pavilion next Monday evening. Poteous has referred many important matches.

Hog Cholera Serum Laboratory.

Dr. Paul Koto, state veterinarian, is laying his laboratory plans for the establishment of a state laboratory near Des Moines this summer for the manufacture of hog cholera serum, to be distributed free of charge to farmers throughout the state. The law providing for the establishment of this laboratory, passed by the Thirty-third general assembly last winter, becomes effective July 4. It carries with it an appropriation of $5,000. All this amount, however, cannot be placed in a laboratory, as a portion will have to be retained to buy animals with which to manufacture the serum.

The serum, after it is made, is tested on guinea pigs to ascertain the strength. The operation of inoculating animals, extracting the blood, then extracting from it the serum, the testing of the serum on other animals—all will go to make an interesting process, which will probably be inspected by every stockraiser that comes to the capital city. As yet a location for the laboratory has not been made. It will be near the city.

Sanitation in Food.

"Pure food agitation is going to eventually settle down to the question of sanitation," said State Food and Dairy Commissioner Wright, in commenting on conditions. "The pure food laws have done marvels in bringing about purer food. The work of the department is growing smaller all the time with reference to detecting harmful preservatives and the like in foods. One of the chief developments will be in inspecting foods to prevent dirt. We will probably in the future secure more stringent laws along this line. I am sure we will when the people awaken to a consideration of what they really are eating.

Iowa

What we need is a law covering methods employed in bakeries, meat markets, etc., and the wagons used to deliver the goods. I have seen deliverymen wipe the perspiration from their face on their coatsleeves and then load up the same arm with bread that was to be sold and served on the table. New York has some stringent laws on management and operation of such places. Iowa will have them, but the advancement cannot all be made at once. People are demanding purer and cleaner food. They will get more stringent laws as they realize conditions existing."

Contingent Fees.

Des Moines lawyers are more inclined to a law fixing a definite percentage of judgment which an attorney may charge as a fee, rather than one permitting the trial court to fix his fee as is suggested by the law reform committee of the State Bar association, which holds its annual state convention in Marshalltown, beginning June 24. Local lawyers are not inclined to believe the fee matter should be left to the judges, as it would leave opportunity for too much expansion and contraction according to the judge's notions. They say a law would be better that would positively say that a lawyer shall receive as his fee not more than 10 or 15 per cent of the judgment returned for damages. If a law on fees is to be asked of the legislature, they say, "let it be a positive one, with opportunity for no favoritism, but a rule to which all must conform."

Norwegians Discuss Schools.

The recommendation of President T. H. Dahl of the United Norweigan church for a radical change in the delegated representation of the church will be acted upon tomorrow morning. Today a committee report favored the changes suggested, but submitted its recommendation to a vote of the convention.

The plan is to divide the church into districts with a membership in each of only 1,500 congregations. Each district is to have a superintendent and the larger districts are to meet in annual convention.

The committee on President Dahl's annual report recommends that children should be sent to parochial schools in preference to public schools or that religious instruction should be imparted in the public schools. This question will be voted on tomorrow.
