

Gossip About Plays, Players and Playhouses

THE Woodward Stock company is still doing its full duty at the Boyd theater, entertaining at such performance as many people can get into the house, and doing it as no other stock company ever assembled here has done.

rectal the moving picture display will be resumed. The Air Dome theater, at the corner of Eighteenth and Douglas streets, has been attended by large crowds the last week in spite of bad weather.

number of fine solos, a "smoking good" kiss duet, and a couple of lively waltzes. The story is woven around the "Old Fiddle," whose lifting for ballet dancers is a matter of record.

Moves in the game between the contending factions are being made slowly, but enough noise is kept up to make an outsider think the fate of the universe depended on the outcome.

MOURNFUL MOTION PICTURES Harrowing Scenes that Seem to Please the Audience. NEW YORK, June 12.—If the proprietors of the moving picture shows rightly judge their audience the latter come not to be amused so much as to be instructed, and most of all to be horrified.

A brilliant medal shining on the manly breast of Jefferson De Angelis is dazzling the eyes of the audiences that gather to watch the performance of "The Heroic Spot" at the Herald Square theater, New York.

WEEK AT THE OMAHA THEATERS

"Brows of Harvard" at the Boyd—Burwood and Alton. "Brows of Harvard" will be the bill at the Boyd this week, the first performance to be given at the matinee today. This fine four-act comedy by Rida Johnson Young has been seen but once in Omaha, but is remembered as one of the best college plays ever written.

The first shock was when the screen announced by a "Waiter" and the whirring of the picture machine introduced us to a happy home, obviously French, with a child, a doll and the proper number of parents.

Edward Bressa, who made a pronounced success in the "Eastern" comedy in some of the "Mouse" company, playing the role of John Burckett Hyder, is to be starred next season in "The Earth" in London. He has scored heavily in London. "The Earth" is by James Bernard Pagan, who the author of "The Rebel" and "The King."

Strange though it may seem, the greater portion of the big audiences that have welcomed the opening week of the annual summer moving picture display at the Burwood the last week was composed of people who rarely attend motion picture shows.

The ending of the piece is cheerful and its early progress was uneventful, but its early progress was uneventful, but its early progress was uneventful.

Who will be next to plan a revival of "The School for Scandal"? Bearborn Tree started the ball rolling by giving a most elaborate production in London a few weeks ago.

About Music, Musicians and Musical Events

WITH this issue, the Music department of the Bee, which has been furnishing musical reviews, remarks and letters under the above heading for the past season, will go into retirement for the summer, and will try to recover from some of the blasts of trying winter.

with all the musical readers, some lines on criticism from two different sources. They may be found instructive. The first is from an article by Felix Burrowski, the well known musician and music critic of the Chicago Record-Herald.

It would be a good thing if one could read notices of musical entertainments with some assurance that they were not written by a little intelligent and friendly criticism.

Once and for all, the aforementioned music critic wishes to thank most sincerely and gratefully those persons who, during the past season, have been kind enough to send letters of warm recognition of what the writer of this column was trying to do.

While the object of newspaper criticism is to give the "news" to the readers of the journal, and at the same time to instruct as well as entertain them, it should be a short-sighted critic who should expect the public to take his judgment as the word and beauty, to take a larger interest in art in general, its function has been fulfilled, even if the reader is in disagreement with the dictum of the critic.

These two articles are recommended to the sincere connoisseurs of all musical readers. If the articles can be passed on to others who are outside the Bee's sphere of influence, so much the better.

What more would you want in buying a piano? We make it a point to discriminate between the cheap thump box and the good, dependable piano.

HAYDEN'S Did you ever stop to consider the difference in the price of pianos since we started our piano department? We established this department over 20 years ago, and we were the first department store in the United States to open a piano department. We have taken the piano out of the "Realm of Mystery," which for years has surrounded the purchase of a piano. We have made it possible for a piano buyer to buy a piano that will last them a life-time, and only ask an honest and reasonable profit. We make the same margin of profit on a pair of shoes or a hat as we do on a piano, that is the amount invested taken into consideration. Quality is not lost sight of in our store and during this GREAT CLEARANCE SALE we are offering special inducements to piano buyers.
