

Council Bluffs SALOON KEEPERS ARE FINED Two Avoca Publicans Are Adjudged in Contempt of Court. TWO OTHER CASES CONTINUED

John Erickson and James Hansen of Council Bluffs Allege that Violation of the Law Was Only Technical.

A. Wahl and C. Wendt, joint proprietors of a saloon in Avoca, were yesterday adjudged by Judge Wheeler of the district court to be in contempt of court in that they continued to sell liquor in a building which was within the distance prescribed by statute of a church, after an injunction restraining them from the illegal sale of liquor had been obtained by County Attorney Hess against them.

The contempt case against Henry Kuhl, similar to that of Wahl and Wendt, was continued until next week, owing to a death in the defendant's family. The hearing in the contempt case against John Erickson and James Hansen, who up to the night of June 5, conducted a saloon at 330 West Broadway was partially held and continued until Monday.

E. G. Goodrich, proprietor of the saloon in the State hotel building, on South Main street, against whom an indictment was recently returned by the grand jury and against whom an injunction was obtained March 22, was yesterday summoned to appear before Judge Wheeler, Monday, and answer to the charge of being in contempt.
