"It seems to me that if anything were wanting to justify a vote of lack of confi dence in the committee in charge of this bill for neglect of due and proper regard for conscientious and honest endeavor a legislation in this chamber, the proceed ings which have transpired this morning would fill any ommission of that kind. The committee brought in here originally a proposition said to come from the prest dent, to be the result of his wisdom in conjunction with other matters in this bill, to permit 150,000,000 cigars to come in from the Philippine Islands free of duty. The senator from Wisconsin (LaFoliette) in a due and orderly way, as was his right, and backed by the judgment, I suspect, of a good many more senators in this body than might be supposed at first thought, moved to amend that proposition by reducing it to 75,000,000. The committee on finance took that up almost at midnight last night, and have reported this morning without any excuse or reason being given, in favor of cutting the first proposed amendment from 150,000,000 cigars down to 70,000,000 cigars, just 5,000,000 beneath the amount provided for in the amendment offered by Senator LaFollette.

"It seems to me that on a question of this sort, especially when it is involving our relations with the Philippines, we ought to be alone controlled by the highest sense of responsibility and duty. It seems to me this is too important a matter to juggiwith and play, what looks to me, and I suspect it looks the same to others, the Dam of Hudson, Ia., bride of a few at that time. game of petty politics."

The amendment of Senator Burkett regarding admission free of breeding animals, has been adopted by the senate. The adoption of Senator Burkett's amendment is of great importance to importers of breeding animals, as it will admit free of duty by a citizen of the United States, "whether intended to be used by the importer himself, or for sale for such purposes."
