Nebraska MAUPIN HEADS FEDERATION

State Official Chosen President of New Labor Organization.

FRANK A. HART IS SECRETARY

Animated Debate Attends the Adoption of the Constitution—Will Affiliate with American Federation.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, June 22.—(Special.)—The Nebraska Federation of Labor today adopted a constitution, selected South Omaha for the next meeting place and elected the following officers to serve during the year: Will M. Maupin of Lincoln, president; Frank A. Hart of South Omaha, secretary; George Stephens of South Omaha, first vice president; A. Booth of Fremont, second vice president; L. C. Mason of Alliance third vice president; J. C. Birmingham of Beatrice fourth vice president; Ira A. Duncan of Hastings, fifth vice president; George Enick of McCook, sergeant at arms.

Louis V. Guye of Omaha, delegate to the American Federation of Labor. Fred Murray of Omaha competed with Labor Commissioner Maupin for the presidency, but the vote was thirty-eight for Maupin and thirty for Murray, a portion of the Omaha delegation voting for the labor commissioner. When a motion was made for a secret ballot, Murray, who was presiding over the convention, made a speech in which he said he did not want a secret ballot and neither could the convention give any honor to him, for he had been honored in other localities. He insisted that politics be kept out of the meeting and that every man answer to his name in the open.

E. M. Flood, an organizer from Chicago, in answer to this speech insisted that the chairman was a way off and that it was perfectly proper for the secret ballot to be used. Mr. Hart was elected by acclamation. Jerry Howard Has Resolution. The feature of the day was a resolution introduced by Jeremiah Howard of Douglas county and member of the late legislature, which criticized Labor Commissioner Maupin for not looking after the enforcement of the child labor law. The convention voted almost unanimously to table the resolution and both Howard and Maupin had talked. Maupin explained that he was doing the best he could and that he had twenty-one different kinds of duties to perform as labor commissioner with not enough appropriation to do the work. He had only one assistant in the office he said, and though this assistant was most efficient more help was needed.

A vigorous debate occurred over the adoption of the constitution, Maupin opposing affiliation with the American Federation of Labor at this time because he believed it would have the effect of shutting out the railroad trainmen from the state federation. However, he was voted down after Ford and Louis V. Guye and several others had made speeches in favor of affiliation.

Ford of Omaha moved to strike from the constitution a clause empowering the strict enforcement of the laws of the state and the liquor traffic and I. J. Copenhaver led the fight for the clause. Mr. Copenhaver assured the delegates he believed in personal liberties, but he wanted it distinctly understood the saloon was no longer the poor man's club. He believed the saloons were entitled to no special protection but he wanted to reserve the right to violate a law. The motion by Ford was lost by a vote of 10 to 15.

After the election of the president, Mr. Maupin was escorted to the chair by a committee and was duly installed by taking the oath administered by Secretary Frank Hart.

South Omaha, Hastings and Lincoln were voted on for the next meeting place. The following legislative committee was elected: S. D. Smith, First district; James Kotera, Second district; J. W. Elliott, Third district; W. W. Walters, Fourth district; W. C. Allison, Fourth district; S. H. Grace, Sixth district.

SAVES BOYS FROM FLAMES

Minister's Wife at Ponca Uses Bed Sheet as Fire Escape.

PONCA, Neb., June 22.—(Special.)—The home of Rev. George Bray and his wife here last night about 11 o'clock and members of the family had a narrow escape. Mrs. Bray and her two youngest sons were at home at the time, and she let the boys down from a second-story window with a sheet, and then climbed down herself. She could not get at the phone to call the fire department, and Ambray, an officer in sleeping in his home for the night, went to the hill, got on a horse and went to the fire house and rang the fire bell. There is not sufficient pressure at that point so the department was helpless and simply watched the house burn. The house is a total loss. They had recently bought another house and moved part of their goods last week, but about 10 books were burned, with several beds and other furniture, valued at about $50. There is $1,000 insurance on the house. The loss on the house at present values is $2,500. Mrs. Bray is unable to give any account of the origin of the fire.
