Stovail. 1,295,865,19 The present number of Smith's Magazine is one of the best we have ever seen of this publication; and for interest var 2,106,437.83 lety, and brightness is a good hot weather magazine. It opens with a complete novel, "The Owner," by Kathryn Jarboe, and contains a dozen or more short stories.

Gertrude King's story, "The Debtor," is one of the great short stories of the year a tale of old southern ideals. It is given 1,319,263.00 a prominent place in this month's Smart 25,500.00 Set. The Smart Set for July is an exceptionally interesting midsummer munber,

If any one has an ambition to elimit mountains as a vacation pastime. Miss Annie S. Peck's description of her experlences in making the famous ascent of Mount Huascaran, which appears in The Delineator for July, will be conductive to second thought. In this number of the magazine, Mabel Potter Daggett tells what the gospel-workers of a great city do toward "Saving New York in Summer," For the benefit of girls who are planning a trip abroad for the purpose of pursuing some branch of education. Mildred Scapley presents "The Other Side of Studying in Paris." In her series, "After College Days, What?" Ruth Cranston gives encouragement and advice to the girl who lives at home. A feature of this issue is "Cheating," a new song by Clare Kummer, composer of "Darele" and other successful songs. The fiction includes "A Discord" by Arthur Conan Doyle, "The Dead Past, by Alice Brown and "Billy Brad and the 3,379.70 Big Lie", by Ellis Parker Butler. F. Marion Crawford's serial, "Stradella," is continued in this midsummer number. Rud-167,730.00 yard Kipling has written five stories for 9,600.00 The Delineator. The first, "Cold Iron," will appear in the September number, The fashions for July are beautifully illustrated. Edouard La Fontaine writes of "Fetes and Frocks in Paris." and Mrs. Clara E. Simcox points out a variety of 'The Penny Dreadfuls in Dress."

William Archer, the great English critic. in an article in the July McClure's tells the truth for the first time about the negro problem in the south; Mrs. Fremont Older in "The Story of a Reformer's Wife" has written a fact story about San Francisco's graft prosecutions; Burton J. Hendrick shows that more has been Jearned about cancer in the last six years than in the preceding six thousand; Albertus Mc-Creary describes the Battle of Gettysburg as he saw it when a boy, and George F. Parker concludes his Cleveland papers with the story of the events leading up to 645,276.73 the president's famous Venezuela message. > The People's Magazine for July has a complete novel by William MacLeod Raine, which is called "Edric Ashbrook's Wife." People's readers will recall many of this writer's charming western stories which have won him reputation. The story in this number is, we think, the best Raine has ever done, combining his strong feeling for the genuine western character and landscape with a love element that is decidedly original.

> "The Spell of Italy," by Caroline Atwater Mason, is a most delightful book of travel in Italy, interwoven with history and interesting information of important personages and events. The text is beautifully and generously illustrated in Sepia colored plates with a frontispiece in color. Published by L. C. Page & Co.

"A Royal Ward," by Percy Brebner, author of "The Princess Maritma,", "Wayenne," etc., deals with the wooing of Lady Betty Walmisley-the royal ward-and the English adventures of a young Frenchman. Striking pictures of English life of the period, desperate encounters, wild rides and narrow escapes alternate with dances and routs and lovemaking. The reader catches a glimpse of smugglers on the Devon coast outwitting the revenue officers, sees great men playing secretly against the government for their own stakes, and is shown the brilliancy and viciousness of the court life of the time. Altogether it is a book that will captivate and entertain, one that may be commended to those who like a story of love and adventure. Published by
