BRYAN'S CHOICE FOR SENATOR

Edgar Howard Intimates Peerless Leader is for W. H. Thompson.

WHAT COLUMBUS EDITOR SAYS

Fairview Orator Will Not Directly Designate His Choice in Justice to the Other Candidates.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, June 27.—(Special.)—Lincoln democrats and those who are temporarily housed in the capitol, are considerably interested in Edgar Howard's announcement of W. H. Thompson as Mr. Bryan's candidate for United States senator.

In an editorial in his paper received at the state house this week Judge Howard does not mention the name of the Grand Island man, in a discussion of Mr. Bryan's wishes in the senatorial matter, but those democrats around the state house who know the close tie that binds the Columbus editor and the Little Giant, know that he refers to Mr. Thompson, even if they hold to the belief that he has not fittingly described him. In his opening statement in the editorial Judge Howard says Mr. Bryan has openly stated that he will not be a candidate for the senate, and it is not more than fair that his wishes in the matter be respected by his friends. The editorial then goes on to say that Mr. Bryan has a personal choice of candidate, but in justice to the other candidates that choice will not be designated. Then the editorial describes Mr. Thompson in the following paragraph:

The Telegram has a personal choice for senator, now that Mr. Bryan has definitely stated his position. Our choice is one who has stood at the elbow of the great Commoner from the hour when the first bugle was sounded for the real fight in Nebraska, and in due time we shall plead for the election of the man of our choice as earnestly as we have been advocating the cause of Mr. Bryan through the years. There is no occasion for any contention among Nebraska democrats over this senatorial matter. There are twenty democrats in Nebraska who could be sent to the senate with every assurance that once there they would be found advocating the principles which have made the democracy of Nebraska a pattern for the democracy of the nation. That one of the twenty who shall be the choice of the Telegram has been as loyal to those principles as Mr. Bryan himself, and he is personally near and dear to the faithful workers for the cause in every nook and corner of the state. No need to mention his name to democrats. The name will suggest itself to all democrats when they turn to the record in Nebraska.

This announcement following the suggestion of the Fremont Herald for ex-Mayor Brown for governor and rumors of an effort to make a combination of Governor Shallenberger for senator and Mayor Brown for governor has caused quite a flurry around the democratic offices in the state house and the appointees of Governor Shallenberger are beginning to worry for fear the governor is to leave them to their fate and go after the higher place.

In the meantime Rev. I. F. Roach, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist church here, will speak at the Fourth of July celebration at Crawford on July 4, between Mayor Dahlman and Governor Shallenberger. The minister will be on hand to hear the mayor of Omaha speak Saturday and he will discuss that speech as well as the recent address of the governor at Kearney. It is told by some of the friends of Rev. Mr Roach he intends to call down the governor for not taking a stand on the liquor question in his Kearney speech—either for or against county option.

Metcalfe Will Preside.

Richard L. Metcalfe has accepted an invitation to preside at the temperance meeting in York on the night of July 8. Several prominent speakers will be on hand at the night meeting and Mr. Metcalfe will tell why the democratic party should endorse county option.

Bank Law Arguments Today.

Arguments will be made in the new banking law case before Judges Vandeventer and T. C. Munger in the federal court tomorrow morning. John L. Webster and W. V. Allen will appear for the plaintiffs and Judge I. L. Albert and C. O. Whedon will assist the attorney general in the defense of the law.

The program has been completed, about half of the tent space has been reserved and the park is being placed in readiness for the big assembly.

News from Peru Normal.

PERU, Neb., June 27.—(Special.)—One of the swiftest games ever played on the normal field was played by the Nebraska City Boosters and the Normal base ball teams yesterday afternoon to a draw. The game was called by agreement at the end of the ninth inning in order that the Boosters could catch a train for the city. Time after time both sides had men on bases, but good pitching and sharp fielding prevented scoring. The Boosters had the Syracuse battery, Hicks and Kirthley. The Peru battery was Garey and McAdams. Heretofore no inter-collegiate games of base ball have been scheduled during the summer session, but this year the demand was so great that the athletic board saw fit to arrange a schedule of games. These games are being well patronized, which will likely make them a permanent feature of the summer school.

The second number of the Normal summer lecture course was given in the Normal auditorium last evening by Ernest Harold Baynes, naturalist. Mr. Baynes is secretary of the American Bison society, of which ex-President Roosevelt is president. His lecture was illustrated by many stereopticon views of birds and animals which he has taken with his own camera.

The Young Men's Christian association social, which was held Thursday evening in the gymnasium, was one of the social events of the summer term. An excellent program, consisting of a short basket ball game, an indoor base ball game and a boxing match was given. After this members of the association delivered addresses. Ice cream and wafers were served as refreshments.

Sham Battle Ends Reunion.

KEARNEY, Neb., June 27.—(Special.)—The Fort Kearney National Park association reunion closed yesterday. A large crowd filled the grounds all day long, and many were loath to leave in the evening. While the gathering has not been the success that was planned for it, on account of the unfavorable weather, there is great satisfaction for the promotors in the great enthusiasm that has been shown. Yesterday's program consisted of various addresses and a sham battle between the old veterans and a company of militia. The veterans had an old brass cannon behind the breast works, where the fort proper stood, and they shot this with the rapidity that generally prevails with an old-time cannon. Colonel Maxon of Minden was elected commander of the association, while Dr. Hoover of Kearney will act as secretary for the ensuing year. The plans are to hold another reunion next year and each succeeding year.

Two Days' Celebration.

CALLAWAY, Neb., June 27.—(Special.)—Callaway will hold a race meet and celebration on July 2 and 3. The first day will be devoted entirely to races, while the second day will be taken up with a celebration of the old style during the forenoon, and racing and other attractions in the afternoon. Already many good horses have been heard from and will be here to take part in the meet and contest for the good purses offered. One of the principal attractions for the third will be the baloon ascension by Prof. U. Sorensen, of Berwyn, who took the perilous flight through the air while testing his air ship a few days ago. The principal speaker of the day will be N. T. Gadd, county attorney of Custer county. There will be two great days for Callaway, and a big crowd is looked for both days.

Young Women's Narrow Escape.

HARVARD, Neb., June 27.—(Special.)—A peculiar accident took place here as the daughters of Mr. Schnell, a farmer living five miles southeast from town were driving in. Two blocks south of the Burlington tracks the horse took fright at a pile of boxes and other material near the road and started to run, the young ladies being unable to hold him. He crossed the Burlington tracks at a rapid pace, and just at that time a Northwestern freight train was switching cars on the main track. The horse showed no signs of stopping and the girls jumped from the buggy just before the horse came with full speed against the moving train. The horse was instantly killed and the buggy badly broken. It is not thought the young women were seriously hurt.

The York Business and Commercial clubs, with the assistance of the local committee, have arranged for sleeping places for 1,500. The meetings will be held in the Chautauqua, which has a seating capacity of 4,000. At this meeting the opening gun of the campaign for county option and ultimate state-wide prohibition will be fired.

STOCK MARKET SHAKEN UP

Break in Prices Followed by Rally to Higher Level.

VIOLENT REACTION IN COPPER

Disclosure of Stock Increase in Europe Assigned as the Cause—Bank Reserve is Low Now.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The stock market last week got an effective shaking up, in the course of which the weakness took on an appearance of demoralization. The secondary effect of this break in prices was shown later in the week, in the effective rally to a level rather above that at which the preceding week ended.

The whole episode represented rather a clearing up of speculative accounts than the effect of any potent factor in the course of events affecting values. The result, nevertheless, was to cause the unsettlement of speculative sentiment usual in such conditions, and which finds expression in the varying views amongst professional operators as to the healthfulness of its reaction. The weak technical position into which the market had fallen undoubtedly was affected largely by the great profits which had accrued and which prompted their realization by sales.

The distribution of speculative holdings into weak hands had been affected in that way. Meantime many of the powerful forces in the market had retired for a period for opportunity to enjoy summer vacations and foreign travel. Such an influence, while apart from the purely financial considerations governing a market, is to be reckoned with in estimating its action. It may be taken as a presage of a coming period of abstention from market operations by such forces which would promise dullness and quiet.

The withdrawal of such a force is a presumption of some dissatisfaction, promise for future advantage, as well as a desire to realize benefits already accrued. Fears for the stability of prices at the high level to which they had been pushed was an element in this dissatisfaction.

Reaction in Copper.

A violent reaction in price of refined copper caused by the disclosure of the heavy increase of stocks in Europe, was one illustration of the doubt that existed. A descrepancy was pointed out between the reports of large orders from railroads for new freight cars and the increase in the already large total of freight cars in the country lying idle. On the side of the money situation, the persistent ease of interest rates in face of every requirement and demand forms a factor calculated to sustain the stock speculation. The July settlements will be heavy and the existing surplus reserve of the New York banks is not large. Yet call loan rates hang at 2 per cent or below and rates for time loans have receded during the week. Large sums, estimated at as high as $100,000,000, have been borrowed abroad and the active demand for exchange in connection with the London stock market settlements show that large amounts of stock are held in London for New York account. Gold went out during the week both to South America and Europe. There are large new issues of securities in prospect in connection with necessary financing of railroad and other corporations.

Effect of Taft Program.

Some repressive effect on the speculation came from Washington, owing to the proposed tax on net earnings of corporations and the incidental effects to follow from the law.

The extent of the rebounds in prices of stocks and the effect produced by the circulation of many revived reports of projects intended by several railroad companies show the vitality remaining in the speculation and keep the market two-sided and irregular from day to day.

Negro Politician is Murdered

T. W. Ashford of Cheyenne Shot Down by Another Negro with Whom He Had Quarreled.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 27.—(Special.)—West Cheyenne was the scene of another murder yesterday. The killing was the result of a quarrel over a worthless dog.

T. W. Ashford, for many years one of Cheyenne's leading colored residents, and proprietor of a salon on West Seventeenth street, was shot down in the street in front of his place of business by Harry Allen, also colored, shortly after 7 o'clock. Ashford was hurried to St. John's hospital in an automobile, but died before reaching the operating table. Allen was arrested and is in the county jail.

Ashford, for many years had been prominent in politics, and had held numerous semi-political positions. His saloon has been the headquarters for the colored men who came to the city, and at the present time there is a large number of strangers here, the colored men having followed the Ninth cavalry to the city.

Chinese Mission is Broken Up by Police Officers

Hint to Young Teachers Has No Effect, and Chastic Measures Are Taken.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Twenty Chinese students grouped about six young women teachers were routed today from a mission which has been conducted for several weeks in the basement of a south side apartment building by three sisters.

The police were roused to action by the complaints of residents near the mission. The police informed the sisters that under the building laws the basement could not be used as a school, and hinted that it might bel well to close it up entirely. The teachers refused to do this, and moved the entire school upstairs into some private rooms.

When the police entered the Chinese made breaks for the doors and windows. Only six of them returned for the adjourned session upstairs.

THINK WOMAN WAS DRUGGED

relics of an atrocious murder cannot be conjectured.

The search of the cabin revealed further evidence of the fact that the murder was committed there. At the place where the head of the bed rested, a part of the older flooring had been ripped up and new planks laid loosely down. Beneath these planks the floor beam had been newly scraped with a chisel or some other sharp instrument. But the efforts to remove all blood stains had failed. They still were there. The wood had absorbed a quantity of the girl's blood.

Search was made today for any possible fragments of a champaigne bottle which might tend to bear out Eastman's claim that Mrs. Woodill was murdered by another woman in a jealous frenzy. Two whisky and three wine glasses were discovered, but there was no evidence of champaigne bottles ever having been around the shack.

Wrote Letters to Himself.

It is becoming more and more evident that Eastman was a prolific letter writer. It is said that whenever he left St. Michaels to go to Baltimore or Washington he always mailed letters back here addressed to himself as Roberts. It is claimed that he also wrote to Postmaster Taylor the letter signed "F. B. Wellington," telling the postmaster what a fine fellow Roberts was and how much he (Wellington), an uncle living in Denver, was interested in him. The writer asked that Roberts be considerately treated. It is further claimed by the authorities that they have discovered that Eastman was an expert penman.

This leads them to believe the "Howarth" letter, telling of a proposed visit of men named "Ryan and Shotwell" on June 16, was a fake which might help divert attention from himself. A New York newspaper man named Shotwell appeared as a witness against Eastman in criminal proceedings, and the authorities here have an idea that in trying to lay the blame on others Eastman hit upon the plan of possibly drawing his enemies into the affair. The Howarth he knew in New York, however, died about a year ago. No one named Howarth lives at Easton, from which place the letter was dated. No persons named Ryan or Shotwell arrived at Oxford on a boat as the letter said they would, so far as the records of the steamship companies show.

Attorney A. S. Rosenthal of New York, who was a former lawyer for Eastman, and was the representative of persons who lost heavily as sureties on Eastman's bond when he took flight from New York, declared today that he would endeavor to have the state of New York discharge the bonds upon proof of Eastman's death, and thus relieve the sureties. Mr. Rosenthal denied that he had thought it possible to make delivery of the body in New York. The local authorities have endeavored to communicate with District Attorney Jerome as to the status of the reward offered there for Eastman. An attorney, said to represent Mrs. Eastman, endeavored last night to have the undertakers carry out their plan to bury the body at once.

Woodill Inquest Today.

Final inquest into the cause and responsibility for Mrs. Woodill's death will be held tomorrow. State's Attorney Turner, after a conference with the foreman of the coroner's jury, has determined to summon certain witnesses who have not been heard before.

"I do not want to give the names of these witnesses," said Mr. Turner, "as some of them may get away if the fact that they are wanted becomes known.

"What we want to do," he continued, "is to establish the facts, and for this reason I shall have a rigid and most searching investigation. Among the witnesses summoned, we wish to question closely the persons who most intimately knew 'Roberts,' as they assert that 'Roberts' could not have killed the girl.

"So far I have been unable to get any tangible evidence whatever to show that anyone other than 'Roberts' committed the murder. All we have is his letter saying the deed was committed by a woman. There is nothing to back this up, unless we can draw something from witnesses that has not yet been told."

Wife Knew His Part.

Mrs. Eastman, widow of the suicide and accused murderer, has not changed her opinion since coming to Easton that her husband did not kill Mrs. Woodill. She declared today that Eastman had told her he was a fugitive from justice and that he would rather commit suicide than serve twenty years in the penitentiary on the charge of grand larceny. Mrs. Eastman says she will return to the stage to earn a living for herself and little boy and that in the meantime her mother will care for the infant.

GOV. HANLY AT AUDITORIUM

Former Indiana Executive Talks Under Auspices of Anti-Saloon League.

SAYS CHURCH SHOULD WAKE UP

It Lacks the Power Which Comes with a Great Conviction—Fight for Prohibition.

"The Christian church of America today lacks the power which comes of a great conviction," said ex-Governor J. Frank Hanley of Indiana at the Auditorium, Sunday night in addressing an audiance of 5,000 people, which had gathered to hear Mr. Hanley. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league and nearly all the churches of Omaha did not hold night services that the congregations might attend the lecture.

"If the church had this conviction it would take this continent by storm in half a decade. It lacks consecration. There are too many tin horn soldiers in its ranks who can only be mustered on dress parade. There are plenty of men and women who dislike unrighteousness, but who will not take arms against unrighteousness."

For Hanley held the audiance for an hour and a half as he told of the workings of the fight for prohibition as it has come under his observation, while governor of Indiana.

"From the beginning of civilization until the present," he said, "there has been waged an irrepressible conflict between the forces for good and evil. Some phase of the conflict has characterized every land and marked every age. Sometimes it has been tried by appeal to reason and sometimes by might of the sword. Sometimes it has been waged to free the limbs of fellow beings and sometimes to free the souls of men.

End of Fight Far Away.

"A great civil war which nearly ruptured the union was but a phase of the struggle and today this country is engaged in another great struggle. Some sanguine souls think they see even now the beginning of the end of this struggle, but I do not share in their opinion. The hour of jubilee has not come. Before that time comes many men will fall and many ambitions will be crucified and many party affiliations changed and we will find ourselves armed and marching toward the sound of the gun.

"We are a Christian people. Our institutions and our literature are Christian. The Christian church had its birth amongst scenes of grief and sacrifice. Sacrifice is the altar on which the Christian church is builded. No just cause ever dies. A cause may lose a battle now and then, but we will not lose this war.

"The issues involve the faithful administration of government in every city and state and the field is nation-wide. The foe is the organized liquor traffic of America, a foe well worth while. It has great wealth and touches the financial interests of many men and is prepared for anything. It obeys no law and respects neither age nor sex and its god is mammon. Its religion is the greed of gain. It has no pity that avarice does not strangle.

Church Cannot Run Away.

"The Christian church of my country must meet it or run away. Thank God it cannot run away. It must stay and fight, not one, but a hundred battles. If it fights it will need men, not in heaven, but in Omaha. There is more need for men in Omaha tonight than in heaven.

"The liquor dealers tell us they have $2,000,000,000 invested in the business, but I beg oyu to remember that there are some things worth more than property interests. There are some primal things—public health, public peace and public morals—and without these there can be no public rights. These primal things will not be sacrificed by the children of the men who brought back scars from Appotomax.

"Local option will come as near restricting and prohibition as near prohibiting as regulation will to regulate, and you will soon find that out in Omaha. You cannot keep saloons and the manhood and the womanhood and the childhood of a city together and keep all unimpaired.

"Personal liberty is not personal license to do as you please." Governor Hanley gave several homely illustrations of the fallacy of the personal liberty arguments, saying "the rights of the individual cannot rise above the rights of the community."

J. C. Wharton presided at the meeting and introduced Governor Hanly, who was greeted with loud cheers and the chautauqua salute.

At the close of the meeting Governor Hanly made a plea for $2,500 for the Anti-Saloon league and the sixty ushers present passed around subscription cards.

YOU'D BETTER GO A-FISHING

While the fishing's fine!

There's one so—long a-waiting to grab your hook and line

Among the Minnesota Lakes on the Northern Pacific Railway

Thousands of beautiful lakes abounding in game fish—easily reached by convenient train service.

Those who get their requests in before the books are all gone will receive a copy of "Minnesota Lakes"—a work of art to make the angler's mouth water.

Well illustrated, with cover in handsome colors, it describes the various outing spots, lakes, hotels and rates, how reached, kinds of fish, etc. Address
