Tessy Alderman. Now, wouldn't that frisk you? A man who pitches like that boy ought never be called Tessy. Poor old Lincoln. Dry town and dry team. Cheer up, boys, Omaha is only fifty-five miles away and there is a live town and a live team here. Charley Hallman, the old boy who has been helping Denver with the catching this season, has been relieved and gone back to his home in Philadelphia. The team is now long on catchers. Father Higgins still insists he is going to have Pat Ragan, if possible to get him away from Murphy. If not, then he will land some other pitcher. Father is on the second inning, two passes, two singles and Konetchy's two-bagger scoring pitcher or two.

There's a chap down at Lincoln with a hole in his hat. He has been yelping about Omaha being in the Lincoln class simply because Omaha has lost a few games of late. Why, bless your soul, John B, Gough, Lincoln is the confirmed tall-ender, while Omaha is fighting for the pennant. See the difference? Hard luck streaks come to all great clubs. luck streaks come to all great clubs. There are now but two player managers in the American league—Lajoie in Cleveland and Billy Sullivan in Chicago—while in the National league there are five—Fred Clarke of Pittsburg, Chance of Chicago, Bresnahan of St. Louis, Bowerman of Boston and Lumley of Brooklyn—making three catchers and one ex-catcher in Chance of Chicago, who was a catcher before he took to first base, playing under Frank Selee.

Frank Selee.

Charley Ganzel trotted out to see a game of ball in New Bedford not long ago, and it so happened that the substitute umpire delegated to take charge of the game contracted cold feet and did not appear. Charley was pressed into service and the veteran umpired a splendid game. One of the youngsters attempted to teach the vet a lesson on the rules, but Charley said, "Young man, don't try to teach me anything about the rules. I have been playing the game longer than you've been living." About this new pitcher, Edmondson, Pa

About this new pitcher. Edmondson, Pahas run across, we can't say much. But it has been discovered by the Topcka Capital that he lives in Lawrence. That being true, he will do to watch, for any man who has the ambish to get up and shake Lawrence and try to do better, has something in him. Edmondson played in the Texas league for some seasons, too. Of course, if this isn't true, we don't want Edmondson to come back on us. We are just repeating what the Capital says. just repeating what the Capital says.

A very bright chap indeed is John Lush, the clever left hander of the St. Louis Cardinals. Lush has been doing some great work for that club this season and ascribes a lot of his success to the spiendid handling he has been receiving from the new manager of the club, Roger Bresnahan. "I learned more ball in a couple of months from Bresnahan than I ever did in my life," said John, ir a talk I had with him while his club was east on its first trip, "and I will tell you." said he, continuing, "that he will make a fine record with the club this season. He is a good manager and he is bound to succeed." And Lush is a veteran, too, pretty well along to admit learning anything.

The Wichita papers are laying down the gospel truth to the "fans" in their town shout the lack of just repeating what the Capital says.
