MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY

Cleveland Man Lured to Lonely Island and Killed.

SLAYER THEN TAKES POISON

Fearing Arrest for His Crime He Commits Suicide—Alleged Accomplice Tells How Deed Was Done.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 15.—R. Rosenberg, an ex-convict of Cleveland, O., was murdered early this morning on a lonely island in the St. Clair flats, just above the Joe Bedora summer resort. A few hours later Frank Elbera, also of Cleveland, who is charged with the murder, was dead from a dose of poison, self-administered when he found that arrest was imminent. A third Cleveland man, Sam Frisbie, is held here as an accessory to the murder, and has confessed to Prosecutor Stewart details of the killing. Frisbie declares the only thing he did was to drag the body out of the water. The three men met at Bedora's hotel, where they had gone for a vacation. Last night they attended a dance at the hotel, and Rosenberg showed a large sum of money. Frisbie and Elbera were seen to enter the house of Rosenberg.

Rosenberg's body was found lying face down in the rushes on the shore of the island, about 50 feet from the dance hall. There was a deep gash in the back of his head. His money was missing. An officer, who was summoned when the murder was discovered, returned to the hotel with the body, they heard a man inside scream: "I've taken dope! Help!" They rushed to his side, but he died in a few minutes. The man proved to be Frank Elbera. His room was searched, and in a suitcase was found a revolver and some bloody clothes, with nearly $500 in money. The officers then took into custody Elbera's roommate, Frisbie.

According to the story told by Prosecutor Stewart by Frisbie, Elbera knocked Rosenberg on the head with the butt of his revolver, and then held him under water until the chloroform was drowned. Frisbie said that he hated as well as greed seemed to enter into Elbera's attack on Rosenberg. "I'll get that Jew yet," he said Elbera frequently remarked during the several days the men had been together at Bedora's.

ALLEGED DYNAMITER HELD

Chicago Labor Union Man Bound Over to Grand Jury.

MEANS HOT WAR WITH POLICE

Accused and His Friends Say Detectives Are Afraid to Arrest Real Bomb-Throwers for Fear of Exposure.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The holding of Vincent A. Altman, assistant business agent of the carpenters' union, today, for the charge of placing a "bomb" that was exploded in the downtown district the night of June 27, caused a sensation here. Although Altman has been under arrest a week, the strength of the police evidence against him has been carefully guarded. Altman's friends of the labor union predict that it is all a "bluff," and that he will be released. The action today presages a bitter war between the unions and the police force—a war that already has opened. The carpenters have put into the field a young detective force, and charges have been made that the police are afraid to arrest the real bomb thrower, who is said to be in possession of information that the police have protected gambling in this city for years.

Evidence considered of the court proceedings today, was the first time during the two years that bombs have been thrown that evidence of strength has been introduced against any suspect. Altman is charged with throwing the bomb which did great damage to the plant of the Chicago Telephone company and surrounding buildings. The evidence declared that it was all a lie and that the man who identified him never had seen him before. As to the question of the motive behind the bomb-gamblers' war, or labor trouble—the situation so far has failed to clear. The police declare that the whole bomb-throwing mystery is to be cleared up by State Attorney Wayman appeared in person to prosecute Altman before Judge McMurly. He was backed by Acting Chief of Police Schuetter, Acting Assistant Chief Lavin, who has been in charge of the case, and Captain O'Brien of the detective bureau.

Gustave Simons, an employee of the Chicago Telephone company, testified that on the night of June 27 he had occasion to go into the alley where the bomb was placed.

Saw Altman There. "I noticed Altman standing at the mouth of the alley," he said. "I saw him first at 8:30 o'clock. He was in the alley again at 9:30 o'clock, and when I went through two hours later he was standing as before."

James W. Pliker, a clerk for the Du Pont-De Nemours Powder company, identified Altman as the man who had bought 300 feet of fuses from him about two months ago. Nathan Wilkus, fireman for the John R. Thompson restaurant, which opens into the alley where the explosion occurred, identified Altman as the man whom he saw enter the alley with a small red satchel a few minutes before the explosion.

DESERTS HUSBAND'S CAUSE

prised at her attitude, but he emphatically denied that he ever threatened her life. "It is very plain to every one that her story is not true," he said. "I never threatened to kill her. First, she says one thing, and then another."

"Is it true that you made an attempt on White's life the day before the homicide was committed?" he was asked. "If I had you would have learned it before this," replied Thaw.

Several witnesses gave testimony today as to their belief in Thaw's sanity. Among them was Anthony Comstock, president of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice. Court then adjourned until July 25.

Sore on Thaw Family.

Before leaving White Plains tonight, Evelyn Thaw gave out an interview concerning her testimony against her husband and her plans for the future. She said: "If the Thaw family had done the right thing by me I would never have taken the stand to testify against my husband," she said. "But they would not guarantee me the allowance I asked for when the settlement proceedings were begun. If they had done that I would be far away from here today, and Harry would have a better chance of getting his liberty. I don't know what I shall do now. I have no idea what my future course will be."

"I must go out and get a living somehow. I can't go back to the stage. My notoriety would prohibit that. The public would say I testified against my husband to make myself notorious. I will try to get work as a model. I can do it, I am sure."

Can Live on Allowance.

"If I had been compelled I would never have testified against Mr. Thaw, but when my husband cut my allowance to $70 a week and $30 a month he left me with many debts on my hands. I used my allowance to clear off my debts. My studio costs $25 a month and I have to buy food and clothing, and the money I get is not more than enough to get along on."

"The questionable fame of this trial will follow me wherever I may go for years and years and I am living as cheaply as I can. I am Harry Thaw's wife, but I pay the rent. The landlord sends the bill to me. I don't know whether or not my husband will harm me if he is released. He has made me a threat, though and that has terrified me."

"Do you think he is insane?" she was asked. "I cannot answer that," she replied. "I don't want to."

DEATH RECORD

Funeral of Edward V. Johnson. The funeral of Edward V. Johnson, who was a clerk in the quartermaster's department, U. S. A., took place yesterday morning from his late residence, 1222 Georgia avenue; services being held at St. Peter's Catholic church. Mr. Johnson was connected with the army for many years and traveled extensively, having served in the two interventions in Cuba, the Chinese campaign against the Philippine islands. He was taken ill while on duty in Havana in November, and was sent to New Mexico with a view to regaining his health, but did not improve there. He returned to Omaha a short while ago and died Sunday morning last. He was an excellent clerk and popular among his associates. He is survived by a wife, who was formerly Miss Edna De Laney, daughter of Mrs. James De Laney, an old resident of Omaha. The pallbearers, Frederick Murphy, D. O. Curry, T. J. McGrath, Frank Osborne, J. Mahoney and W. S. Corcoran, served with him in both Cuba and the Philippines.

Harrison H. Whaley. (HOT SPRINGS, S. D., July 15.—(Special.)—Harrison H. Whaley, register of deeds of this county, and one of the pioneers of the Black Hills, died this morning of kidney trouble, after a few days' illness. He was 75 years old, a veteran of the civil war and was one of the early day steamboat engineers on the Mississippi river. The body will be taken to his home at Edgemont for burial, and about 100 veterans and friends will accompany it.

Governor Raps Tariff Makers

New Jersey Executive Pays Tribute to Insurgents Who Voted Against Bill.

REAGIRT, N. J., July 15.—Governor Franklin Fort of New Jersey (Republican), speaking at a dinner at the state militia camp today, severely criticized the progress that has been made on the tariff bill. He said:

"For four months the people have been witnessing an exhibition at Washington of a party trying to enact a tariff bill in violation of its pledges to the people. The action of ten of the great senators of the middle west—the very foremost senators in Congress—breaking away from the party and refusing to stand on the passage of their party is unique in the political history of the country. It evidences the spirit of independence abroad, and foretells the doom of caucus action and dictatorship in political policy. "The earnest prayer of all who love their country," he concluded, "is that the American editor may continue to maintain his high standard of independent action."

MILLARD WILL BE REBUILDING THE SITE OF HIS OLD HOME

Senator Once Lived Where the New York Life Building Now Stands.

If the Omaha National bank completes the purchase of the New York Life building, Senator Millard will be transacting business where he used to live.

The property on which the New York Life building stands, at Seventeenth and Farnam streets, was, up to 1887, the Joseph H. Millard homestead. The old Millard home was built there in 1887 or 1888. It was the beginning of the residential district of Omaha, the Millard property comprising two lots 12x26 feet. This house in 1887 was moved to Twenty-fourth and Harney streets.

The Edward Rosewater home was on the opposite corner across Seventeenth street, where the Esch building now stands. The Burley homestead was on the corner across Farnam street, and the Harry Deuel homestead on the present corner house location.

The Millard home was maintained on the New York Life building corner until 1887, when the property was sold to the New York Life Insurance company for $5,000. The Millard home was thereafter removed to the lot on the corner across fourth street between Farnam and Harney streets, where Senator Millard maintained his home until a year ago, when, he removed to his new home at 500 South Thirtieth street.

An offer was made by the Brandeis brothers for the New York Life property of $500,000 a year or more ago, but the company stood out for $800,000.

WESTERN CUSTODIAN OF BANDIT OLD CRIMINAL HUNTER

Sheriff Dyer of Twin Falls County, Idaho, Tells of Primitive Methods of Hanging Men.

Deputy Sheriff C. W. Dyer of Twin Falls county, Idaho, who is here with Marvin, is a western character of more than passing interest. He has passed most of his life in the west and knows and has hunted more criminals in that section than he has been able to keep track of. "The old Idaho has passed into history," he said. "There was a day when it kept us busy looking after the road agents, as we used to call the stage robbers. They constituted a desperate gang. But the time came when they had to be regulated. "The law was hard to enforce, but the greater proportion of the early settlers would prohibit that. The good, steady and moral men. They did not hesitate to take the law into their hands and it required a number of hangings to get things down to a normal state. "The favorite method for a hanging was to use three rails of three saplings, erect them in the form of a tripod and suspend the victim from the top. He was ordinarily seated on a barrel if one was handy and the barrel kicked or yanked from under him. Sometimes in the absence of a barrel they simply pulled a horse from under him. "It was a heroic method of treatment, but the heroic methods were necessary. Law was established and Idaho is one of the best states of the union today. I question whether there is a more law abiding state in the west than Idaho. A criminal cannot find a secure hiding in Idaho today. We will get him sooner or later."

PRINCESS DE SAGAN HAS SON

Prince Happy to Have Heir to His Title and to His Wife's Fortune.

PARIS, July 15.—A son was born today to the Princess de Sagan, who was Miss Anna Gould of New York. Prince Heir de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould were married July 7, 1908, after her divorce from Count Boni de Castellane. Prince Heir de Sagan expressed great satisfaction as the birth of a son not only secured the succession of the Sagan title, but means a Sagan heir to share the fortune of Princess Sagan, with her three children of her previous marriage. The relations of the prince and princess have been described as extremely happy.

HOWE AFTER BIGGER JOB

Would Not Refuse Mexico if Tented to Him.

THINKS HE IS DUE A PROMOTION

Says He is in Line for Advancement and Admits He Talked with Taft About Succeeding D. E. Thompson.

Church Howe, counsel from the United States to Manchester, Eng., may succeed D. E. Thompson as ambassador from this country to Mexico when the Lincoln man steps out of that position soon after the first of the year.

In Omaha on his bi-yearly visit to his home in Auburn, Conn., Howe said he was in line for advancement to a better post and that he would not decline an offer of the diplomatic job in Mexico. He admitted he visited President Taft in Washington last week and discussed with him the question of filling the position to be vacated by Thompson. He also said he had talked about the situation with other parties while in the capital.

Mr. Howe was asked point blank whether he was to be given Thompson's place in Mexico, and he said in reply: "I have been in the consular service for twelve years and naturally am in a way to be advanced to a better job if I want to. The consularship at Manchester is the best the United States has to offer and if a man goes to a better position from that he would have to get an ambassadorship."

Would Not Refuse. "I am not seeking the office in Mexico, but I would not refuse it if it were tendered me. In Manchester, I have done good work, and it is the policy of the United States government to advance its men who are making the best records."

"Since 1897 the government has been paying more attention to both its consular and diplomatic service, with the desire of improving their efficiency. A man must be well trained in order to get into either branch. A training of twelve years in the consular service, of course, ought to make a man well fitted for a good position in the diplomatic line. And the government is now giving some of its consular jobs as diplomats."

"While in Washington I visited President Taft and the subject of a successor to D. E. Thompson was broached. I do not care to say what resulted from that meeting. You must understand that I am not out of the consular service yet and may remain there, for I like the work and do not like to return to Nebraska to mix in politics again."

"The position of ambassador to Mexico, of course, would bring me nearer to the United States, and I surely would like that of course."

Elopers Married at Sioux Falls.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., July 15.—(Special Telegram.)—While Sioux Falls no longer is the mecca for divorce seekers, it appears to be becoming popular as a Gretina Green. The latest elopers to come to Sioux Falls to get married were William F. Porter, jr., and Miss Mabel M. Deans, both of Chicago, who arrived here today, and after procuring a marriage license, were united in marriage by County Judge Medin. On their way to the court house they picked up a little colored urchin, who was the only guest at the wedding, and was declared to be their mascot through life. Soon after being pronounced man and wife the couple departed for Iowa Falls, Ia., where they will visit a few days.
