150,000 building at Fond Du Lac, Wis. CRESTON-A novel plan for booming the Creation chautauqua, which opens next week, was hil upon by the committee and management when nearly every automobile in town was emlisted in the work Friday and every little town within a radius of fifteen miles was visited and canvassed. All of the cars were plastered with chau-tauqua literature and full of workers. Committees of prominent business men were appointed to canvass the city and all have met with a response which shows that this year's assembly will probably exceed any other in the history of the associa-tion. Now Secretary Hayward has written them agreeing to walve this one provision temporarily while the case is pending in the courts and accepts their agreement to comply with the other features of the law. The other features of the law include the payment of a fee based on a per cent of the capitalization. which in the case of the Western Union means a fee of $125,000. It is believed the company's attorney did not know of this fee when he agreed to comply. The case is one of the most important, because it involves the first test of the copies of their incorporation and resolu-
