

WORK OF JUVENILE COURT

Monday Morning Session Hears a Trio of Cases.

BOY WHO "SHOT UP" A PARTY

Baby that Was Neglected at a Boarding House and Mother Who Disobeyed Her Offspring.

Philip Hartfelder, a 16-year-old boy, was brought into juvenile court on the charge of shooting up a children's party in a most approved wild west fashion and sending one of his playmates, Joseph Kinlicka of 1205 South Twelfth street, to the hospital for several weeks. The boy found an old revolver, cleaned it and got a cartridge for it. A children's party was going on at the Prague hotel at Thirteenth and William streets, and he went there with his gun and tried to frighten his friends. The Kinlicka boy received a wound in the abdomen that came near proving serious. Since the two boys were still friends in spite of the affair, and his mother promised to make the best restitution possible, Philip was released on a promise to conquer his passion for firearms.

Investigate Babies' Boarding House.
Teddy Blatz, 2 years old, possessed of an engaging smile and an evident disregard of the fact that the state is concerned over his welfare, was brought into juvenile court with Mrs. Jack Wetmore of 1210 North Twenty-fourth street on a complaint that he is being neglected. Teddy's father and mother have separated and his mother, who is working in an Omaha hotel, placed him at Mrs. Wetmore's to be taken care of, as Mrs. Wetmore has made a business of boarding babies. One of her charges died, and as a result it was discovered according to evidence brought against her in court that they were being left poorly fed, unemptied and uncared for. It was said that Teddy was found lying on the floor in filth and dirt, annoyed by flies and ill from malnutrition. Judge Kennedy turned him over to the Detention home and Mrs. Wetmore's home will be investigated.

On Neighbors' Complaint.
Left to take care of the three smaller children, 13-year-old Fannie Fiedler of 413 North Seventeenth street ran away from home the other day and when her mother, Mrs. Morris Fiedler, returned from work, she found the babies crying and the house in disorder. As a result Fannie was chased through the house and down the street to the grocery store, where her mother struck her with a stick and dragged her home. The neighbors complained to the probation officers and Mrs. Fiedler was brought into juvenile court on a charge of abusing her children. The child admitted that she had made considerable noise to avoid a whipping and her parents were released.

Safety Guard
Rail a Puzzle

Many Omaha People Do Not Know Just What to Make of It.

The safety guard rail on one of the Farnam street cars has proved to be a puzzle to street car conductors that to many people in Omaha some of the inventions of this age are new things.

Since the rail was put on some passengers have tried to get off the car before the guard was lifted; others have tried to stand on the outside of the rail and still others have gone to the other side of the car, thinking the one on which the rail was attached was closed. Probably the most comical situation developed Saturday night, when an old man tried to board the car for the first time since the rail has been put on.

He waited at Seventeenth and Farnam for the car. Under his left arm he carried a small package. The car rumbling up, stopped to let him on; the motorman pulled the lever that controls the guard and shot it upward. The old man, who was standing very close to the car, seeing the rail come out at him, dropped his bundle and clutched excitedly at the rail, catching hold of it and stopping it when it was half way up.

The conductor yelled at him to let go and the old man fell back, suddenly realizing that he had made a foolish mistake. "I thought the old thing was going to hit me in the face," was his only comment as he stepped into a seat.

Politics Makes
Traveling Mates

Republicans and Democrats Will Go to Lincoln on the Same Burlington Train.

Republican and democratic delegates to the state conventions from this county will go to Lincoln today on the same train—the Burlington—which leaves at 9:15 this morning. The republicans have ninety-five and the democrats fifty-four delegates, but a special train will not be run. Extra coaches will be attached to the regular to accommodate all.

Myron Leonard, member of the republican state committee, laughed when asked if he thought there would be any danger of the two delegations getting mixed en route and said he thought not, and Tom Flynn of the democrats said that close watch would be kept of his contingent to see that none strayed away.

Both conventions are called to meet at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

BATHING SUITS OR NO SWIM

Another Edit for the Lads Who Take Pleasure in Cut-Off's Tempting Waters.

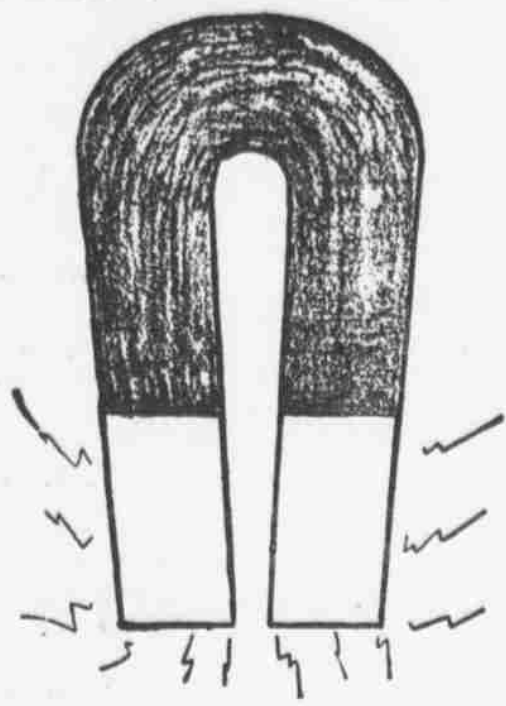

Small boys in the habit of swimming in Cut-Off lake near Locust street must either wear bathing suits in the future or go swimming in bath tubs.

This order has gone forth from the juvenile officers, to whom complaint was made by Missouri Pacific officials, who, in turn, received complaints from passengers on their trains. The railroad officials notified the probation officers that small boys were passing and that their undignified antics were not conducive to the peace of mind of the passengers.

If the lads are unable to get bathing suits elsewhere the probation officers will see that they are provided if application is made.

Ball Game for Blood in Sight

Live Stock Exchange Challenges the Commercial Club and Trouble Starts at Once.

All the amateur games of the season past and prospective are thrown into hopeless obscurity by the coming contest between the Live Stock exchange of South Omaha and the Omaha Commercial club.

The former issued a deft Monday which was taken at once and things are now simply seething. W. E. Reed of the Clay-Robinson company issued the challenge in behalf of the Magic City players. Mr. Reed will captain that nine and Lynde Abbott will head the near-Rourke. Mr. Reed has not divulged his lineup, but some of the doughty opponents are known. Looming large among these is A. W. Jeffers. He and Abbott used to play together on the University of Michigan nine.

Another glittering batsman and fielder is Frank Crawford and it is said that Edward Creighton has been signed. Tom Creigh, E. D. Brande and Guy Pratt will also play for Omaha.

The game probably will be pulled off at the Field club at a date yet to be set.
