LEADER FOR THE DEMOCRATS

Liberal Man for Chairman of the State Committee.

NOT READY TO NAME HIM YET

Henry Clay Richmond Appears Available, but Says He is Not Choosing the Job Very Hard.

Nebraska's new democratic state chairman will be a man with liberal views. George Rogers, member of the state committee, and also member of the committee to select the state chairman, says so.

"Of course, this rule would work both ways," said Mr. Rogers. "But if we are successful this fall with a liberal man as chairman of the committee it would appear advisable to the party to take the liberal end of the question to next year's campaign, wouldn't it? If we should lose with a liberal man at the head the other side might have a come-back on us, but we intend to win."

Mr. Rogers said that the committee had in mind just the man wanted for chairman, but refused to divulge his name for fear opponents to him would get busy and make such a fuss that the appointment could not be made. The appointment of a state chairman will be deferred until after the primaries and the appointee will be acceptable to the nominees for the supreme bench and for the state board of regents. The committee will be called together in Omaha to make the appointment of chairman.

Dr. P. L. Hall of Lincoln is chairman of the committee instructed with power to select the state chairman, the other members being George Rogers of Omaha, Arthur Mullen of O'Neill, Thomas Byrne of Lincoln and R. B. Wahlgvist of Hastings.

Where Richmond Stands. Henry Clay Richmond, formerly a Fremont editor, later assistant secretary of the democratic national committee, and now a resident of Omaha, has been mentioned for the chairmanship, but says he is not a candidate for the place.

I could not very well refuse the place were it tendered me, however," said Mr. Richmond, when asked if he would take it in event the committee combined on him. It is understood that several members of the committee are insistent that H. H. Hanks of Nebraska City take the chairmanship, but Hanks refused the place when tendered him at the state convention at Lincoln. Dr. Frank Babcock, a Hastings banker, is another prominent candidate for chairman, while Dan V. Stephens of Fremont is also looked upon with favor.

Dahlman Had an Aspirant

Richmond had a long conference Friday with Mayor J. Charles Dahlman and gave out his interview immediately following this conference. The mayor would not be drawn into any discussion of the chairmanship and would go no further than to say he hoped the committee would pick out a strong man capable of making a good showing. Mayor Dahlman scoffed at the idea that the committee might consider him for chairman, though he takes pride in the fact that the party was successful the years he was chairman.

Weak Vinegar Seized by Court

Government Grabs Consignment from Chicago in an Omaha Warehouse.

The first seizure in Omaha under the federal pure food law of July, 1906, was made by the United States authorities Friday, wherein sixty-five barrels of diluted vinegar were attached and seized at the warehouse of the Paxton & Gallagher company, being the part of a consignment received from the firm of Spielman Bros. company of Chicago.

The petition states that on or about July 15, 1909, Spielman Bros. company shipped through interstate commerce to Paxton & Gallagher company of Omaha, seventy-five barrels of vinegar, guaranteed by the shippers as pure apple cider vinegar. The vinegar is said to have been adulterated in the meaning of the pure food law with a dilute acetic acid and a foreign substance high in reducing sugar, so as to lower and injuriously effect its quality and strength, as shown by an analysis by the pure food laboratory operated by the government.

Judge Munger issued the order for seizure on the petition of the district attorney and the seizure was made by the United States officers. But sixty-five barrels of the vinegar were found in the warehouses, the remainder of the consignment from the Chicago firm having been disposed of.

The government authorities attach no blame to the Omaha firm, as it was the innocent purchaser of an adulterated product that was sold to it as a pure product.

The penalty involves the destruction or sale of the adulterated product, the proceeds going to the payment of the costs of the suit.

BOY WAS SHOT WHEN BUYING CHICKEN FEED

Thomas W. Cox Sues on Behalf of Son for Damages Thus Sustained.

Alleging that a feed store employee shot his 10-year-old son with a revolver when he tried to purchase 15 cents worth of chicken feed, Thomas W. Cox is suing the Euter Feed and Coal company for $25,000. The petition states that the boy, Ralph R. Cox, went to the store at 478 Dodge street, bought some chicken feed and offered to pay for it. When he did so, for some reason not set forth in the suit, an employee of the store named Harrison Hendee leveled a revolver at him and fired, the bullet striking him in the leg. The shooting was evidently accidental, but the boy was in the hospital for three weeks and his father asks damages from the man's employers.

GONE CRAZY FROM THE HEAT

Chief Donahue's Explanation of the Joy Rider Mania.

PEDESTRIANS MUST BE ON GUARD

Police Judge Crawford Takes Steps to Cool Out Some of the Guild Who Appear Before Him.

If you don't watch out the joy rider will get you.

July and August, with their heat and humidity, Chief Donahue believes, have a peculiar effect on the minds of automobile drivers that forces them to speed madly over the well paved streets of all cities.

Omaha, says the chief, is now in the clutch of the speed maniacs and pedestrians will need to be watchful all the time that they are not run down by some big racing motor car.

The chief has given strict instructions to his officers to be on the lookout for the joy riders and will do all that is possible during the next three months to prevent excessive speeding. He declares his department is handicapped by the lack of men and motorcycles to assign to the special work of catching the motor law violators.

CLOSER PATROL NEEDED.

"What we need from now on until November 1 are eight motorcycles and special officers to patrol the streets of the city to get all men who break the law. We haven't the men or the motors, so we will have to get along the best way we can in putting a stop to excessive speeding."

"The most of the joy riding is done by chauffeurs who take out their employers' autos. They get speed crazy, or get talking with their companions and become oblivious to the existence of anybody else."

"The owners of machines ought to keep their cars in their barns unless they are with them. They can prevent many accidents by doing that."

HEAVY FINES ENFORCED.

Police Judge Crawford from now on is going to make life miserable for any scoundrels who get into his court.

"These auto drivers must think they own the town," he commented in court Friday morning as he imposed a fine of $10 and costs upon John Showalter, a chauffeur

WOMAN'S WATCH GOES TO JAIL AS RESULT

Young Man Says Woman Gave It to Him, but She Tells Another Story.

For pawning a watch belonging to Mrs. Arthur Miller, Will Pierce, a young man 21 years of age, was fined $25 by Police Judge Crawford Friday morning. He could not pay the fine and was committed to the county jail.

In his hearing Pierce declared he was given the watch by Mrs. Miller while he was staying at her house, 362 Larimore street. He said he was out of money and that she wanted him to stay at her house, so she gave him the watch to pawn that he might get enough coin to keep him until he got work.

Mrs. Miller denied she had permitted Pierce to take the watch and said she did not care whether the fellow stayed at her house or not.

TRANSFER MADE HIM TROUBLE

Clarence Jones of South Omaha Says Trolley Conductor Threw Him Off.

Clarence H. Jones of South Omaha wants $500 from the street railway company because he was ejected from a car at Seventeenth and Cuming streets when he presented a transfer that the conductor refused to honor. Jones sets forth in his petition that it is customary for passengers to ride to Thirteenth and Dodge on one South Omaha line and transfer from there to the Courtland beach line, which crosses Dodge at Fourteenth, by walking a block west. He asked for a transfer good that way, he declared, but when he offered it as his fare the second conductor pitched him off the car. He declares that he is a cripple and was seriously hurt by the conductor's assault.

Big Money for Johnnie Krolik

Boy Witness in Train Robber Case Gets $131 Witness Fee Check.

It pays to be a government witness. Yes.

Little John Krolik, aged 8 years, who was the lad who discovered the cache of the Overland Limited mail robbers near the Brown Park school house can testify to the fact that the government is a good paymaster. Master Krolik was taken to Boise, Idaho, several weeks ago to assist in the identification of Bill Matthews. A day or two ago he received a draft from Chicago for $131 for witness fees and mileage for the Idaho trip. This has nothing to do with the fees he will receive as witness when the trial comes off in September, or the part of the reward he will receive for the apprehension and conviction of the bandit, should they be convicted.

PAWNS A WOMAN'S WATCH, GOES TO JAIL AS RESULT

Young Man Says Woman Gave It to Him, but She Tells Another Story.

Train Robbers' Dynamite Not Very Popular

Federal Building Employees Wish the Blamed Stuff Were Stored Elsewhere.

It became necessary a few days ago to move some of the records and documents in the big vault of the United States marshal's office to permit the vault to be dried out after the break in a water pipe leading through the vault. Among the other things stored there was the four sticks of dynamite that were part of the effects of the Overland Limited mail robbers. The men who were to make the repairs and lift out the articles from the vaults were told to be extremely careful in handling the explosive.

The men kicked at once and promised that they not only would not handle the dynamite, but that they would not do a thing to that vault until the dynamite was removed by some one else than themselves, as a plumber's business activities did not warrant him being around dynamite, much less to handle it.

A compromise was finally effected by the dynamite being removed to the basement of the big building. And now all the men employed in and about the basement wear rubber boots and walk on their tiptoes. Even the watchman on the main floor speak in a whisper for fear that some sudden command might create a shock that would set the dynamite off.

Visitors who have been occasionally shown through the basement have cut that part of the building excursions out.

Nobody but the marshal's office force and the chief engineer of the building know just where the dynamite is stored in the basement and nobody is trying to find out.
