

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER. VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

Entered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter. TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION Daily Bee (without Sunday) per year, $4.00

OFFICES Omaha-The Bee Building, South Omaha-Twenty-fourth and N. Council Bluffs-15 Scott Street.

REMITTANCES Remit by draft, express or postal order, payable to The Bee Publishing Company.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION State of Nebraska, Douglas County, ss. George B. Trachsel, treasurer of The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that the actual number of full and complete copies of The Daily Morning

Table with 3 columns: Number of copies, Date, Total. Rows for various dates from 1st to 15th.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 2d day of August, 1909. M. P. WALKER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

A Punxsutawney man swallowed his false teeth. It is supposed that he was trying to tell where he lived.

The police board has at last done one thing that elicits the commendation of the World-Herald. Hoorary!

At any rate, Mayor Jim would have a cinch in beating Governor Shellenberger out in a bald-headed men's race.

Omaha nearly equals St. Louis as an all around grain market. Next year the rivalry will be with Minneapolis, and the next with Chicago.

Senator Aldrich's manufacture of history in the next session is to consist of a currency measure.

Under the law it is mandatory on the city clerk to provide about four times as many primary election ballots as can possibly be used.

And now they say that longevity can be promoted by removal of part of the intestines. If so, appendicitis will soon cease to occupy the place in surgical fashion it has held for some years.

Omaha is climbing up as a grain market. It is also climbing up as a butter market, and is climbing up generally as a market for all the tributary trade territory.

Philadelphia business men all believe that a tariff revised about enough is always followed by a boom.

Philadelphia business men. Their unchangeable motto is "upward and onward."

President Taft is meditating upon what southern states are to be gathered into the republican fold by means of census appointments and good advice against bourbonism.

There is a lull between the tariff debate and the president's corporation movement which can be devoted to the settlement of the base ball league contents.

How the Aldrich-Cannon machine is going to take revenge on the insurgents becomes more and more a joke.

On motion of a defunct state senator from Papillion a meeting of Epworth leaguers at Lincoln has resolved a demand upon the governor, who hails from Alma.

High prices of stocks support the moderate statement of Senator Clapp that it is reasonable not to force an argument on cause and effect.

To provide against the objection that the insurance would lack stability it is provided that should the employe leave his place or be discharged his money, less the benefits already received, should be returned to him.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army. Except in the large cities, and in a few country sections, where the veterans are especially numerous, the celebrations of Decoration day were scantily attended.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

THE GRAND ARMY'S FUTURE.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army. Except in the large cities, and in a few country sections, where the veterans are especially numerous, the celebrations of Decoration day were scantily attended.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

THE GRAND ARMY'S FUTURE.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army. Except in the large cities, and in a few country sections, where the veterans are especially numerous, the celebrations of Decoration day were scantily attended.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

THE GRAND ARMY'S FUTURE.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army. Except in the large cities, and in a few country sections, where the veterans are especially numerous, the celebrations of Decoration day were scantily attended.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not indicate lower wages and starvation, but rather high wages and abundance.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

ARMY GOSSIP

Matters of Interest On and Back of the Firing Line Cleared from the Army and Navy Register.

The urgent deficiency appropriation act will straighten out the irregularity in the law relating to the payment of the death benefit in the case of officers and enlisted men of the army, navy and marine corps.

The examination of candidates for the regular medical corps of the army has been completed at various places in the United States and the Philippines. Of the candidates authorized to present themselves before the examining board, about 150 passed the physical examination.

Young Mr. Willard of New York is the latest successful aviator. The experts are not improving, but they are getting more numerous. Out of numbers there will sometime come high skill and sure performance.

If the state treasurer of Nebraska tried to distribute his deposits of state money approximately according to the amount contributed in taxes Omaha and Douglas county depositories would be entitled to a lot more of the treasury funds.

Another kidnaping case excites the curiosity of mothers and children. The Viviano children will turn up, but the incident stirs human nature while it lasts.

Where Are the Shackles? Governor Johnson wants the west to cast off its "shackles." But who ever shackled the free, strenuous and self-reliant west?

Beyond Reach of Standard Wrath. Chicago Record-Herald. The house insurgents by depositing them from the various committees.

Senatorial Lemons. Now that the labors of the extraordinary session are over, the house of representatives discovers that it did its work unprofitably.

Let It Go at That. Chicago Tribune. The new tariff law confers many substantial benefits upon consumers.

Comparative Power of West and East in Congress. Charles M. Harney, in Leslie's Weekly.

BASELESS ASSUMPTIONS. Comparative Power of West and East in Congress.

Psychical Metamorphosis. A lot of newspapers are just now indulging in learned discussions suggested by mysterious disappearances and reappearances.

Old Age Pensions. Most European governments have some form of old age pension for workmen in which the employe, the employer and the government participate.

The Tenth cavalry, of San Juan fame, is back in its native land and posted well up north, renewing discussion of the negro problem.

Omaha is to make an effort to enforce rules of the road, particularly upon centers of traffic in the downtown business district.

but any employe may increase his benefits by additional payments.

The Boston & Maine railroad, with 27,000 employes, is the first to try the new plan, and if it works out successfully, this or some modification of the Massachusetts plan may be expected to secure a foothold in other states having a large industrial population.

Decorations day last spring was a better test than the summer's encampment of the declining numbers of the Grand Army.

Without changing radically its substance and purpose, the Grand Army must soon cease to be; and it would be better to quietly close its honorable existence as the chief qualification of membership disappears than to transform its personnel and profess to become something other than union soldiers of the greatest American conflict.

Pay all honor to the veterans of the Grand Army at their memorial days and encampments. For the nation's lifetime, let it remember the men who fought to preserve it.

Strikes and Prosperity. There is more or less truth in the paradox that strikes and other labor troubles do not