Judge McPherson took the matter under advisement and Tuesday announced that he had sustained the contention of the trustees and that the order appointing Mr. Clark as receiver was revoked. Mr. Clark once more became a private citizen and for the time being did not have the management of the pleasure resort on his hands.

Judge Smith McPherson, in vacating the order appointing Mr. Clark as receiver, held that the Courtland Beach Amusement company was not of the class against which involuntary bankruptcy proceedings could be sustained in the United States ourt. His decision left the management of the resort in the hands of Albert J. Thomas and William J. Klank writes to a friend on The Bee to say that they will filt past Omahs Friday or Saturday enroute to Kansas City and Denver in their auto, starting from Humbolt, Ia., Gotch's home.

"Frank has just been over the road to Omaha and knows the bad places, and he thinks we can break all records," said Klank. "We will stop and see you, but can't spend much time, for all our stops will be short ones. Frank, himself, will be at the wheel and he's awful stingy of time when he's running the ship."

But Gotch may go back on the stage this fall, as he has a big offer.

The Spirit of Nebraska

Many writers have exhausted themselves in discussing the spirit of Nebraska. The hopefulness, the courage, the enthusiasm of the Nebraska citizens cannot be avoided. His pride is boundless, his faith is far reaching. His belief in the men, his admiration for the women, and his confidence in the institutions of his locality, makes him eloquent as he espouses them. It is a fine spirit and the right one. It will carry a man far, and it will carry a community farther if its men all join

Sylvan

It is sufficient to state here that a tidal wave of progressiveness has struck the county seats and small cities of Nebraska. Opportunity has knocked at their door, and they hastened to undo the latch. If the city and country towns are to hold their own, in the present strenuous struggle for existence and advancement, they must adapt measures to remove every possible cause of friction in their machinery of trade.

Publicity is the key to the twentieth century business success. He who has a business must get it before the world, or the world will pass him by. The general laws of publicity, which apply to ordinary business institutions apply with additional force to municipalities, to communities and cities. To settle up a country you must attract emigration by exploiting its resources. To build up a town or city you must advertise to the world its industrial and commercial possibilities.

For this purpose there has sprung up in nearly every town and villiage in Nebraska some kind of public organization, working for the industrial development of the community. All these have one aim in view-the betterment of the town and the small city, that it may be a more pleasant place in which to live and therefore more prosperous. These associations are found in nearly every live community. To these bodies are intrusted the unscheduled and undefinable possessions of the public. It is for them to marshal and exploit the resources of their particular territory by advertising them as they would goods in their own personal business.

The woking capital, or more strictly speaking, the stock in trade of any municipality is the unoccupied territory. The industrial, raw material, and the business opportunities within its particular sphere of influence. Every home town is a center of industry, the throbbing, dominating heart of its surronding community.

Why Not Now?

It is quite plain that the time has arrived for a stirring up of the community conscience to a realization of the duty the individual owes to his town. Every good citizen owes allegiance first to his family; second to the communty in which he rives; and third, to the nation. Selfishness, when home is an object, is almost a virtue. What is needed are more and more who will appreciate their obligation to organized communities. The country towns and small cities in Nebraska that from whatever cause fail to take advantage of every trade wind that blows to retain its legitimate local bush ness, will lose out in the race. But the town that organizes its fores and makes an intelligent and #stematic fight for its own will win out and prosper and wax strong

The introdution of the telephone, the rural fre de livery, the trolley line and the utomobile, instead of decreasing has enlarged the trade territory of the country town. The Nebraskapeople are noted for their habit deetting together and talking tings over. This custom of interchaging ideas among various class of workers, as the farmer, the janufacturer, the artisan, the merhant, the banker and the profesional man, is most strongly established in these prairie counties whee civilization has made the gratest strides.
