RAIN IS GENERAL IN WEST
Parched Portions of Kansas and Missouri Are Soaked.
TOO LATE TO SAVE THE CORN CROP
Some Sections of States Have Been Damaged by the Long Dry
Spell—Fall Pastures Are Refreshed.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 2.—The protracted drought in northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas has been broken. Rain began to fall last night and continues to the great benefit of the pastures.
However, it came too late to save the late corn, much of which had been greatly damaged.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—A heavy, soaking rain that began here last night continued today. It was the first precipitation recorded by the weather bureau since August 5. Northeastern Kansas and a number of Missouri points also report rain today. At Baker, Kan., 2.30 inches of rain has fallen during the last twenty-four hours.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 2.—Eastern Kansas was given a thorough soaking last night and this morning. The rainfall continued for nearly twelve hours and an inch and a half of water fell. Corn in this section has not been greatly damaged by the drought, though the late crops have suffered somewhat. Many roads were almost impassable from the accumulation of dust, lawns were parched and cisterns dry. The last previous rain here was on August 4.

KEARNEY HAS SOAKING RAIN
Downpour Seems to Have Covered Nebraska Thoroughly.
KEARNEY, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The long dry spell in this section of the country was broken yesterday, when shortly after sunrise a light drizzle rain started in and soon developed into a soaker. About an inch and a half fell during the day and everyone is feeling better. The dry spell has been exceedingly long and the heat has been terrific.

LYONS, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—A nice shower of rain was received yesterday morning and the prospects are for much more. Corn is in good shape and this will no doubt make it fill well, even though no more rain should come.

ARLINGTON, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—A nice rain commenced to fall at 5 a. m. Wednesday, the first for weeks, and it will put the ground in first-class condition for fall plowing and will start the pastures up again. A large acreage of wheat will be sown this fall. Grading on the public roads was suspended on Friday, the ground being so hard, but will start again at once.

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The rainfall of yesterday and last night, measuring 2.5 inches, was general throughout this section and was the heaviest since early in the spring. Next to this the heaviest rainfall was an inch and a half in the middle of August. Yesterday's rain, although too late to be of the greatest good, has been highly beneficial, both to late crops and in the proper condition of the soil. On account of the heavy yield of winter wheat this year and the partial failure of corn it is probable that more winter wheat will be sown this fall than ever before in this section.

HARVARD, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—A heavy rain fell last night, the aggregate fall as reported by Observer Fleming being 1.92 inch.
GENEVA, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Rain commenced falling at noon yesterday and continued steadily until midnight, a heavy 1.5 inch in all. This will save grass, which was virtually dead, to freshen and help the fall plowing. The corn, or much of it, is injured considerably. The ground was so dry that great cracks, into which one could put his hand, were visible. The potato crop is a good one, as is also the apple, grapes, peaches and plums.

YORK, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The downpour of rain all day yesterday and a greater part of last night puts the ground in York county in a condition to finish plowing winter wheat and makes it exceptionally good for the sowing of wheat. This rain has revived pasture land and was just what was needed for the corn that had commenced to feel the effects of dry weather. York county will have a heavy crop of corn, not as heavy as last year and about the same as in years past.

ST. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—A fine rain commenced falling yesterday morning about 8 o'clock and continued coming down gently nearly all day. Altogether the rainfall amounted to 1.30 inch and will be of great benefit to the thirty fields.
