Horse Breaks Man's Leg—James Shaw, horsehooper, 115 South Twenty-fifth avenue, had his left leg broken when a horse he was shoeing fell over on him. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. Shaw is 23 years of age.
A. T. Kioopp Sells to Sam Kaplan—A. T. Kioopp has sold a building on Douglas, above Fourteenth street, to Sam Kaplan for $1,000. The property is only twenty-two feet and is part of the east one-half of the southwest corner lot.
Mrs. Shaw Sues for Insurance—Mrs. Ella T. Shaw is suing the Travelers' Protective association for $5,000. Her petition relates that her husband, Ed H. Shaw, was insured to that amount and that she has been unable to collect the money since his death.
Frank H. Dunlop is Sued for Divorce—Frank H. Dunlop, formerly of Omaha, has been sued for divorce by his wife, Augusta Bowen Dunlop. He went from here to Denver, where he cut such a wide swath that he finally drew a sentence to the penitentiary for an illegitimate scheme. Desertion is claimed by Mrs. Dunlop.
Milk Inspectors Change Venue—In the milk case of the State of Nebraska against Joseph Scully and E. J. Daemon, milk inspectors, which was set for trial in Judge Cockrell's court at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the defendants took a change of venue to Judge Eastman's court. The case will be heard there Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.
Stray Shots from Milk War—The milk war is still booming, so far as police court is concerned. Fred Gitter, a Florence dairyman, has been fined $15 and costs on the charge of selling milk without a license. Health Commissioner Connell asserts that Gitter had not been granted a permit to sell milk, because Gitter's dairy was unsanitary and some of his cows were diseased. The case has been appealed to the district court. L. Newman, another Florence man arrested on the same charge, is to have a hearing next Wednesday.

Babe Cries for Papa, Who Is In Jail—Going to the Creech to see his little daughter, who was kept there, James Griggby was locked out of the place by the matron on the grounds that he was drunk. So instead of seeing his little girl, he was locked up in jail and the next morning sentenced to serve fifteen days. In the meantime the little daughter pines for her papa.
Brewery Agent Sued Over—On the charge of selling liquor without a license Jacob Singer, local agent of the Fremont-Brewing company, has been bound over to the district court in the sum of $250. His defense was the assertion that the brewery's license to sell beer at wholesale was sufficient permit for him to make sales in Omaha. Singer's place of business is at 588 Cuming street.
Bellevue Chautauqua is Sued—The Bellevue Chautauqua association, of which Judge Sutton is president, is being sued for $150 by the Mutual Lyceum bureau of Chicago. The petition alleges that the balance of the contract price for the Farland-Newhall company and the George G. Price moving pictures, which appeared here in the 1908 season, was never paid. The suit is for $150 as the balance, and for interest from August 1 of last year.
Shooting With Intent to Kill—A complaint alleging shooting with intent to kill has been filed in police court against John Deleen, the man who used a gun on Patrolman H. A. Cunningham when the latter attempted to arrest him Monday night. Deleen was arraigned, pleaded not guilty and arrested for a continuance until Monday. Cunningham has a large powder burn on his uniform coat as a souvenir of the affair. Nothing but his skill and alertness saved his life.
Professional Etiquette Violated—For an entertainer to rob his fellow performers of the tips contributed to all, is something novel among entertainers working together. But that was the charge made against Frank Smith, colored, by James Green. Both were employed as musicians at Frank Divil's saloon, Tenth street and Capitol avenue, until Smith was arrested. When the police judge heard the case in court he sentenced Smith to pay a fine of $1 and costs, but the man Smith went to jail in default of payment.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Health Commissioner Given Use of Council Chamber for Lecture.
TALK TO BE TO THE MILKMEN
Arc Lights Ordered in at Railway Crossings—Several Paving Ordinances Introduced and Read First Time.

Dr. Ralph W. Connell, city commissioner of health, will take the lecture platform. He will lecture before milkmen for the health of the city, and to this end has secured permission to use the council chamber in the city hall for the accommodation of his auditors. The city council last night gave him this permission.
It is the intention of the health commissioner to tell the dairymen how they can improve their dairies and bring up the standard of their product. He says that with a few exceptions the dairymen in and about Omaha wish to give good service and furnish their customers with pure milk, and he has taken it upon himself to help them in this endeavor as much as possible.
The mayor and members of the council have been invited by the proprietor to inspect the Alba dairy at Shenandoah, Ia., from which comes considerable milk consumed in Omaha. The invitation was referred to the health commissioner.
The council re-ordered in sixteen electric arc lamps at railway crossings to simplify matters and do away with constant litigation. The lamps are ordered at the crossings of the tracks of seven companies, most of which have refused at one time or another to pay for the lights. The result has been that the city has been compelled to pay about $1,000 a year for a number of years for lights at railway crossings, when the railway companies should bear the expense.
Where Lights are Placed.
The lamps are ordered placed at the following street intersections:
Eighth and Dodge streets, Eighth and Farnam streets and Tenth and Fort streets on the Omaha tracks; Seventh and Jones streets, Tenth and Jones streets and Seventeenth and Pierce streets at the Union Pacific tracks; Sixth and Pacific streets, Eighth and Pacific streets, Eighth and Farnam streets, Seventeenth and Pierce streets and Fifth and Pierce streets on the Burlington tracks; Fifteenth and Nicholas streets, Fifteenth and Webster streets and Sherman and Commercial avenues on the Missouri Pacific tracks.
Arc lamps were also ordered installed, at the expense of the city, at the following street intersections: Fortieth and Pratt streets, Thirty-fourth street and Curtis street, Twenty-second and Pinkney streets, thirty-fourth street and Ames avenue, Thirty-third street and Fort Omaha avenue, and Fourteenth street and Ames avenue. Gas lamps were ordered installed at Twenty-first and Twenty-third streets and the intersections with Grand avenue.
Paving Ordinances.
Ordinances were introduced ordering the paving of the following streets: Twenty-first between California and Burt streets, Thirtieth between Harney and Howard streets, Howard between Seventeenth and Twentieth streets, California between Sixteenth and Twentieth streets, and Webster between Thirty-eighth and Fortieth streets. Improvements and building trades were given a boost by the introduction of an ordinance repealing an ordinance making a charge for the use of streets for building material while new buildings are in course of construction.
By the adoption of an ordinance introduced by Councilman McGovern, City Engineer Craig is given detective duty. The resolution directs him to take possession of brick removed from sidewalks along Fourteenth street between Webster and Cass streets and to find out what became

LOBECK OUT FOR GOVERNOR

City Comptroller Launches His Candidacy Against Mayor James.
SAYS HE WILL SKIN DAHLMAN
Comes Out as the County Option Candidate of Democracy in a Speech at an Oakland Picnic.

Charles Otto Lobeck, city comptroller and the county option candidate of the local democracy, has formally launched his boom for governor at Oakland. There was a picnic at Oakland and Lobeck spoke there as a substitute for Governor Shallenberger.
"No, I am not joking; I am really a candidate, and also believe that Cook found the North Pole," said Mr. Lobeck before leaving for the interior town.
"Yes, county option will be my plank, but my dear old aunt over in Iowa says it is not best to begin a campaign or talk much so early," he parried.
"Mayor Dahlman does not stand a ghost of a show," he replied to another question, adding the information that he thought Omaha would one day be the greatest city in the west.
"Shallenberger will draw votes from Dahlman, not from me," was another bit of information gleaned despite the comptroller's persistent endeavor to change the subject by asking if there was any possibility of Pa. Rourke's team winning the pennant.
"County option is home rule and I am for home rule," said the would-be comptroller-governor, "just as I am for a Greater Omaha."
"Don't say anything about that bluff of a year ago. I really did not intend to run for governor then, but now I think it a great coincidence that Cook and Peary found the pole at practically the same time. And would it not have made a fine newspaper story if Peary had found Cook climbing up the other side of the pole?"
While the comptroller gives every assurance of being a full-fledged candidate for governor of Nebraska, he is loath to talk about it, for, as he says, "Brag is a great dog, but hold fast is better." He says it is too early to talk about it, that people will get sick of a man if he is always rushing into print, and that a hard campaign at the end will do more good than a weaker campaign spread over twelve to fourteen months.
GREEN LIGHT OR NOTHING
So John H. Dolan Demands, and the Council Gives Him the Answer.
"Where there's a will, there's a way." Some time ago John H. Dolan, who lives at 1331 South Eleventh street, raised his voice in supplication to the city council, requesting that a gas street lamp at Eleventh and Francis streets be removed, or that the glass be painted green, after it had honored the neighborhood with its presence for twenty years.
Other residents of the vicinity, including Police Captain J. H. Savage and Sergeant Anton Vanous, objected to being left in the dark. When the council decided the matter Tuesday, Dolan learned the light was to remain.
But the light from the gas lamp was too much for his eyes and he determined to shut it out of his life. Accordingly, he built a regular barricade in his front yard, just as near the light as possible, and yet within his own property lines. The barricade is intended to ward off all attacks made upon the Dolan premises by marauding rays of light. So now Dolan is in the dark and his neighbors are in the dark as to why Dolan wants to be in the dark.

Pension Roll Mounting Up

Fire and Police, According to Estimate, Will Require Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Pensions to employees of the fire department will amount to from $15,000 to $20,000 annually in case of five years, according to statements made at the meeting of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners last night. Those interested in the matter were complaining at the delay and the members of the board explained that the legal questions being determined at present would stand as precedents for the years to come and great care is being exercised.
That the board is an excellent collecting agency was the opinion expressed by one of the members last night after reports had been made showing that about a dozen bills had been paid under compulsion of the board. Men who work for the city must pay their bills and several cases have been reported to and acted upon by the board. The next meeting will be September 21, the city being given over to the Eagles next week.
Complaint was made by gas company officials that a member of the police force had beaten the company out of his gas bill since February. The complaint stated that he had connected up his house after the meter was taken out and used the gas unknown to the company. The matter was referred to the captain for investigation.
The case of Ernest Underwood, a fire man convicted of larceny in police court and fined $50, will be heard at the next meeting, as will several other complaints.

How a Little Wisdom Came to the Wises

The Wise's house looked homelike to the long legged bird that hovered overhead. Favorably impressed, he softly deposited on the steps, his wee burden of blessedness.

The Wise's pleasure at the Stork's thoughtfulness was tempered by Mrs. Wise's following illness and her inability to provide nourishment for the Blessing.

It looked as tho the precious gift might be taken away.

Wise's doctor saved the day. He said "DIGESTO." Mrs. Wise became healthy and rosy and the Blessing became healthy and rosy.

One more credit mark for DIGESTO. It is a necessity before and after the Stork's visit.
