The Midwest Life

A mortgage on good Nebraska real estate is conceded to be as high class security as a life company can have in its vaults. The Midwest Life has the distinction of having a greater per cent of its assets in mortgages than any other life insurance company east or west, and it has maintained this position for the three years it has been in business. On December 31, 1908, the date of its last annual statement, The Midwest Life had ninety-two per cent of its total assets in mortgages, all on Nebraska real estate. This money will stay in Nebraska and will not be sent elsewhere for investment in case of a panic or business depression. The officers, stockholders and policyholders are physically and financially part and parcel of this state. Their whole interest are here. Every premium paid The Midwest Life for insurance helps a Nebraska institution and every premium paid an eastern company for life insurance helps an eastern institution. Home office of The Midwest Life, 1007 O street, Lincoln.

an insult to the backbone and sinew of this universally observed in our order. His administration of the affairs of the order was such as reflected upon himself as an officer and a man and upon the order which has honored him.

"The writer has with one sweep offered great American nation by his slanderous allusions to the character and manner of living of the Irish, the Scotch, the Germans, the Italians, the Hebrews and to their decendants, of whom the great body of our membership is composed, as well as to the nation itself."

President Monaghan says that it is true that bartenders, saloon keepers and politicians are members of the order and he declares that for these men, as well as men who are engaged in every other honest calling, the members of the organization have the highest respect and most profound love.

"To our distiguished past grand worthy president," said the speaker, "who has been the victim of this foul attack, your present grand worthy president wishes a long and happy life and hopes that to him may come every measure of success, as a politician and as an honored member."

St. Louis Enters Race.

Interest in this morning's session centers around the nomination of officers. Nomination speeches will be made after the reports of several committees have been read. Tonight secret work will be exemplified at the auditorium. The election of officers will come Thursday, the polls being open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Delegates from the west, yesterday, started a demonstration for St. Louis as the convention city in 1910. San Francisco is said to be helping the movement as an aid to its boom for the meeting in 1911. Delegates from the middle west were predicting that St. Louis would win out, but Louisville, St. Paul and Saratoga were still fighting hard.

Senator Grady apparently has it all his way for Grand Worthy vice president.

Two Hours of Activity.

The two hours preceding the opening of the convention were busy ones for the wire pullers, and before the convention was called to order a new turn had been taken in the scrap for the convention in 1910. San Francisco, so it was said, might be forced to take the convention next year, though the California delegation is here avowedly for the meeting the following year. This turn was given to events by the delegates from the east who are working for Buffalo. The easterners are trying to send the convention west next year in order to give a free course for the Niagara Falls city the following year.

Spokane has entered the race with an offer of $25,000 made by the Chamber of Commerce to aid in paying the expenses of the grand aerie should it meet there Del Cary Smith, representing the city, has made the offer to the convention and he is backed by D. Sanders, a millionaire wholesaler and mining man, and Judge N. E. Nuzum, a member of the judiciary committee. In case Spokane does not get the convention this year it will go after a future meeting.

Enthusiastic Crowd.

It was an enthusiastic bunch of delegates that gathered in the Auditorium for the opening session. Many citizens of Omaha were attracted by the only open session of the grand aerie to be held and looked in to see what an Eagles' convention is like. The women were also very liberal in their attendance at the meeting and were given seats of honor in the front.

On the platform were Past President Theodore A. Bell, Grand Worthy President B. J. Monaghan, Grand Worthy Vice President Frank E. Hering, H. H. Thompson, the first grand worthy president of the order; Harry L. Leavett, John A. Cline, R. L. Armstrong, Martin Gray Finley McCrea, Charles S. Flannery, Grand Secretary Conrad H. Mann, Edward Krause, W. J. Gartland, Charles E. McDonald and J. F. Paletiers—all either present or past officers of the order.

City and county officials and many prominent citizens of Omaha also occupied seats on the platform.

Order of Exercises.

Robert F. Bacon, chairman of the local committee on arrangements, had the honor of calling the meeting of the grand aerie to order. He introduced Rev. R. L. Wheeler of South Omaha, who offered the invocation.

Following the invocation he welcomed the delegates to Omaha, wished them an enjoyable session and then introduced Mayor Dahlman as a prodigal son from Texas.

As the mayor stepped forward George Green's band struck up "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and the audience rose and stood during the playing of the national hymn.

"Omaha has been looking forward many months to this great gathering of men and women," said the mayor. "We have heard of your conventions and have been ambitious to have you meet in our city. I believe you will find the citizens of Omaha broad gauged and sympathetic. Omaha told you when you promised to come here it would make good and it is here to make good. I glady turn over the key of the city to your keeping, confident that it will be returned by you without blemish or stain."

George F. West, president of the local aerie, then took the helm and steered the convention during the rest of the session. In a speech sparkling with wit he welcomed the Eagles in behalf of the local aerie.

John J. Ryder, state president, added a word of welcome for the aeries of the state and told some stories that kept the convention in a roar of laughter.

The first to respond on behalf of the visitors was Theodore A. Bell of San Francisco, who predicted an especially valuable session for the order. He also alluded to the principles of the order which he represented.

A. W. Jefferis, representing the business and commercial interests of the city, expressed the appreciation of the city at the honor of entertaining the convention.

Hering Gets Loud Cheers.

Grand Worthy Vice President Frank E. Hering was loudly applauded when he paid a tribute to Rev. Robert L. Wheeler of South Omaha for coming to the defense of the Eagles in an article published broadcast two years ago.

Grand Worthy President Bernard J. Monaghan was the last speaker. He concluded with a direction to the grand conductor to take possession of the Auditorium as soon the meeting was over and to admit none but members of the grand aerie to the hall. The grand aerie session was announced to begin at 2 p. m.

ALTHAUS HEADS STATE F.O.E.

presidency, although there is no law of succession in the state aerie as there is in the grand body, is the position that brings a member into the higher office of president, for it has always been customary with the Nebraska state Eagles to advance the vice president each year with election to the highest office.

Three or four of the aeries out in the state came to the convention pledged to their favorite sons and tried to work up booms for them, but after a little campaigning they found that sentiment favored giving Benson's mayor the position, and they jumped into the Tracy band wagon.

The unwritten law of succession was followed out when Vice President Jule Althaus of Omaha was elected without opposition to the presidency. His was the only name proposed by the convention and it was amid many cheers that he was advanced to the higher office.

Ryder Given Boost.

J. J. Ryder, who has been president of the Nebraska aerie for the last year, and who is secretary of the national convention committee, was made past worthy president with the hearty approval of every delegate present.

Secretary J. M. Tanner had no opposition for re-election and was selected by a unanimous vote. The members declared he had made an excellent officer and they would not consider his suggestion that he withdraw in favor of some Eagle who had not yet held office.

The officers were installed at the close of the regular meeting in a short ceremony, which was conducted by Lee Eavans of Aerie No. 104 of Council Bluffs.

The treasurer's report, which in the absence of State Treasurer L. F. J. Iaeger of Chadron was read by Secretary Tanner, had a balance of $100 in the treasury.

President J. J. Ryder was absent from the convention, owing to his duties at the national aerie, and Vice President Jule Althaus was the presiding officer.

The delegates decided to make Nebraska a leader in the fight for a home for consumptive Eagles. They will try to get the present national convention to take action, but failing in that, they will continue their efforts and will work up a force to bring favorable action at the 1910 aerie.

Hope for Tuberculosis Home.

Hope, however, is expressed that the present session of the grand aerie will pass a resolution giving the grand officers power to levy a tax for building the home.

Since the grand officers came to Omaha the leading men among the Nebraska Eagles in the fight for the home have solicited aid from these men and have been assured that steps will be taken to bring about some action on the matter this week. The grand officers are declared to have the influence to bring about such action if they really care to use it, and it is believed they will be as good as their word in the present case.

Grand Worthy Secretary Mann has openly declared himself in favor of the home and is believed to be a strong supporter of the proposition. He will use his influence to bring the right action. He says the convention will, without doubt, vote an appropriation for the tuberculosis home.

Nebraska's state aerie is one of the few subordinate bodies that has come out openly for state autonomy. Some of the other states are said to favor the new plan, but they have been loath to make a fight.

The Nebraska delegates are disgusted with the present plan of permitting each aerie in a state to be represented in the national conventions; they believe the state aerie ought to select the delegates and they have started to get the national aerie to make a change.

It is not considered likely that such a change will be made by the present convention. Too many of the grand officers, including Secretary Mann, are opposed to state autonomy, and their influence will be, it is thought, too great.

In Autonomy Fight to Stay.

Nevertheless, the Nebraska Eagles have set themselves the task of bringing about the change, and they are going to carry on their fight after this year, if they lose in the present convention. They mean to enlist other states in the cause and make a big fight before the 1910 meeting.

The new method of making state laws, favored by the Nebraska delegates to the state aerie, would do away with the present system of having all the past worthy presidents meet each year to draft proposed changes, and would substitute a committee of five junior past worthy presidents to do the work. The Nebraska convention hopes to get this recommendation before the 1910 convention and have the change made at that time.

The delegates were pleased with the way in which Benson cared for them, and they declared they were willing to return to that city some time in the future.

COMES SEVERAL YEARS LATE

Friend of George Francis Train Wanted to See Quick-Built Hotel.

Among the delegates from the Pacific coast country is J. F. Meads, city comptroller of Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Meads, who is past president of the Tacoma aerie No. 5, says one of the inducements to come to Omaha was to see the hotel built in the early days in sixty days by his friend, the late George Francis Train.

"Mr. Train was always telling about the way he got even with a hotel keeper in Omaha in the very early days by building another hotel and putting him out of business," said Mr. Meads. "It seems that he was compelled to eat breakfast by a broken window one cold morning in an Omaha hotel and paid a negro waiter a dollar to stand by the window and keep the wind from blowing on him. After breakfast he made a kick at the office only to be told that if he did not like it he did not have to stay.

"'All right, I won't stay, and I'll have another hotel here inside of sixty days,' he told the landlord, and proceeded at once to put up Omaha's second hotel. He had it done in less than two months' time and I guess from what he said it was a big hotel, too.

"Mr. Train told me before he died that his hotel was near the river, but all I find there now are big wholesale houses, as big as any we have in Tacoma."

The hotel Train built was lastly occupied by the Omaha Theological seminary, but was torn down several years ago to give way to a modern wholesale building. It stood at Ninth and Harney streets.

Mrs. Donaldson's Voluntary Letter

Says Austro-American Doctors' Gall Stone Treatment Borders on Miraculous.

FREE TO ALL UNTIL OCTOBER 1.

Below is printed a voluntary letter from Mrs. W. M. Donaldson of Benson, Neb. Mrs. Donaldson has been a frightful sufferer from an advanced stage of gall stone trouble until she came to the Austro-American Doctors some months ago, and since taking the treatment last spring she has had not relapse of the trouble.

BENSON, Neb., March 30, 1909.

Austro-American Doctors, 428 Ramge Building, Omaha, Neb.

Dear Sirs: Before taking the Austro-American treatment I vomited daily and could hardly eat even crackers. I could hardly bear weight of clothes. Since commencing my treatment the vomiting has ceased and I feel better than I have for years. Your treatment for gall stones certainly borders on the miraculous. Yours truly, MRS. W. M. DONALDSON.

Mrs. Donaldson was treated by the "new method" treatment which is causing so much comment in medical circles. This consists of removing the cause of disease instead of aimlessly treating its after effects, as many not using the "new method" treatment must do.

The famous Doctor, Theodore Milen, is chief of staff and he is assisted by a staff of the greatest specialists in this country. Doctor Milen has had more than thirty years of practice and research both in this country and in the famous Austrian clinics and he personally directs the handling of every case.

They make it a rule not to charge for consultation or advice. Until October 1 they have decided to treat all persons free except for the cost of medicine who desire to avail themselves of the opportunity before October 1. Suffering people in this community should immediately avail themselves of this grand offer.

Innumerable have been the cures effected by the Austro-American Doctors in such ailments as Paralysis, Rheumatism Goitre, Epilepsy, Gall Stones, Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Blood, Chronic and Nervous Diseases of Men and Women.

Separate quarters and strict privacy for men and women. If any doubt exists as to their ability to give a complete cure, the case will not be accepted.

Elegant offices and laboratories are maintained on the fourth floor of the Ramge Block at Fifteenth and Harney streets, opposite the Orpheum theater. This building may be reached from either depot by the Harney street car.

Musical Events Occupy Women

Concert in Afternoon, Theaters at Night, Mark Tuesday for Fair Visitors.

Two hundred or more visiting Eagle women were entertained at a musicale at the Paxton yesterday afternoon in lieu of the planned but abandoned automobile ride. It is no secret that the visitors were disappointed because the auto ride had to be given up, but this disappointment was dispelled by the success of the musicale.

The songs were furnished by Miss Blanche Sorenson of Omaha and three members of the famous California Eagles' minstrel troup—Syl Newman, Charles Butterworth and Martin Welch. They were assisted by Fred Forner, their pianist. The women's entertainment committee had also provided an orchestra.

The musicale, which was well managed throughout, was somewhat in the nature of a formal reception. Mrs. George Rogers, chairman of the women's st entertainmen committee, was assisted by Mesdames C. J. Weeth, M. J. Ford, A. V. Dresher and C. E. Scarr. The parlors of the Paxton were made handsome with flowers and a punch bowl stood at one side. The various songs, and stories also by the Californians, were warmly applauded.

In the evening 100 of the visiting women were sent to the Boyd and as many more to the Krug. Thursday night there will be parties for them at the Orpheum and Burwood. Wednesday afternoon a trip through the retail stores is on the program and in the evening the card party at the Commercial club.

ROCK ISLAND MAYOR ACTIVE

McCaskrin Whooping It Up for a Compatriot.

Mayor George Washington McCaskrin of Rock Island, Ill., was the big noise in the lobby of the Paxton hotel Tuesday afternoon. It was all about the boom of Dan C. Kelly, water commissioner of Rock Island, for trustee. Mayor McCaskrin hitched up with our "Jim" for the afternoon, but managed to get in a good deal of campaigning for his favorite. His first official act after reaching Omaha was to buy an Ak-Sar-Ben hat to replace his broad brimmed black fedora, which with his long Prince Albert coat and his cane made him a figure to attract attention wherever he went.

Harvest Home at Ames.

AMES, Ia., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—The Harvest Home festival days at Ames this year will be Friday and Saturday, October 1 and 2. The entire college will be thrown open to inspection at this time. Students will be at work in the various laboratories, so that the application of science to the problems of everyday life can be demonstrated. Competent guides will be at hand to explain everything. The animal husbandry department will furnish a parade of high class stock long enough to reach around the campus.

Friday Governor Carroll and Senator Cummins will speak. Saturday an address will be given by Lafe Young of Des Moines. There will be two football games Friday, the freshman-sophomore and the junior-senior class games. Lafe Young of Des Moines will give an address Saturday, and the Ames varsity foot ball team will play Coe college.

A Narrow Escape.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time, and if I did not have consumption, it was very near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Sold by all druggists.

Invitation to Visiting Eagles.

Omaha camp, No. 130, Modern Woodmen of America, extends a cordial invitation to the visiting Eagles and friends on Wednesday evening at their hall in the Continental building, Fifteenth and Douglas streets, to attend a smoker and an evening's entertainment, including refreshments.
