Mayor Tucker of Florence is for Consolidation

One Outside Chief Executive Who Will Pull for a Greater Omaha.

Mayor F. S. Tucker of Florence is for a Greater Omaha and advises the people of his city to vote for consolidation. "I am heartily in favor of consolidating the cities of Florence and Omaha under the one name of Omaha—'Greater Omaha'—and hope the people in our little city to the north will vote this fall to come into the municipality of the larger city," said Mayor Tucker.

BERGER SUCCEEDS CRAMER

Railway Mail Service Man is Appointed Superintendent of Mails at the Postoffice.

J. O. Berger, formerly of the Railway Mail Service, has been appointed to the position of superintendent of the mails of the Omaha postoffice, succeeding Joseph E. Cramer, who is transferred as superintendent of Station B, at Leavenworth street and Park avenue.

Mr. Berger has entered upon his new duties. He has been connected with the railway mail service for about fifteen years, and is regarded as one of the most competent men in the service.

Mr. Berger, the retiring superintendent of the mails, has held that position for about ten years. His new position draws a salary of $4,000 per annum, and the station to which he has been assigned is one of the most important in the city.

New York and Philadelphia cannot be more pleasantly or conveniently reached than by the Grand Trunk-Lehigh Valley double track route via Niagara Falls. Solid through trains of coaches and sleeping cars. Magnificent scenery.

Our Letter Box

Contributions on Timely Subjects, Not Exceeding Two Hundred Words, Are Invited from Our Readers.

Appreciation of an Editorial.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 15.—To the Editor of The Bee: The scholarly and interesting editorial, "Exploded North Pole Theories," in The Sunday Bee, should be republished in every up-to-date and twentieth century newspaper in the country and be read by or to every person within its and their call. Seldom are found more interesting and historical fact condensations in as few words and indited in as forceful and elegant diction. It was fully up to The Bee's standard.

But, I fear, its fate will be like David Hume's best production, "Still-born," the manuscript of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," "disrespectfully declined," Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus," translated from John O'Grady's house to Land's End with no takers; Macaulay's "Essays from a Chamberlain," "cut them down," and Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "ring her off." By the faces of these The Bee may console itself and their recollection and may recalling them serve as a balm to the neglected and unappreciated author of that elegant article, an article too good to be generally appreciated.

When we recall that almost within the memory of man the transmigration of the soul is or as it is now geographically known, Believing trait, was more difficult, if not less possible, than Ponce de Leon's search for Himmil, or the fabled "fountain of eternal youth," or squaring of the circle is in the kindergarten or the diabolical navigation of Charley's to the ancient Romans, is it any wonder that there are many North pole exploded theories?

But then history is blurred and blotched with exploded theories. When our patriarchal ancestors realized that the horse was being used by the young men and women to carry them to trying places or beyond patriarchal control more expeditiously than their venerable "shank's mare" or the typical team of the times, a bull and an ass could waddle to undertake them, that animal, the noblest and most useful of all animals, was put under the ban.

To serve more than three courses at meals, to make or sell calico, to build cottages, to make buttons, other than velvet buttons, to have more than 2,000 sheep at one time were crimes, some of these almost within the memory of man, and one of these laws, at least, although disregarded, neither repealed, abrogated nor annulled, were of the crimes of our nearby British ancestors.

Is it any wonder that every age and every people are studded with men "out of joint with the times," heteroclitics and socialists, when with 188 capital crimes in England, a "maiden assize" was as rare as an execution is today? When man's servile could neither send their sons to school nor give their daughters in marriage without the express license from the superior "lord" and when James Plena, Lori Say and Seal faced the fatal charges: "Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school; and, whereas before our forefathers had no other books than the score and tally, thou hast caused printing to be used; and contrary to the kind, his crown and dignity, thou hast built a paper mill. It was my providence to thy face that thou hast met about thee, who usually talk of a noun and a verb, and such abominable words as no Christian ear can endure."

Notwithstanding the sacrifice of questioning that sacred political document, the Declaration of Independence, in that oft-quoted sentence, "A decent regard for the opinions of others," I urge The Bee to continue in its iconoclastic course and work.

Omaha Club in Mourning for Three

Never Before Had as Many on the Death Roll in Any One Month.

The Omaha club has a custom of "wearing" mourning for thirty days when any of its members dies. At present it has carried up for three members, all of whom died within one month. This is the largest number ever mourned at any one time in the history of the club.

These members are Clinton H. Briggs, who died at St. Paul August 16; Frank J. Moriarty, died in Omaha August 21, and Frank D. Brown, Omaha, September 15.

The names of these three men are posted in the customary place at the club.

TWENTY-ONE BEFORE THE BAR

Largest Number Ever Arraigned at Once Face Judge Sutton.

TWO CHARGED WITH MURDER

Of All the Number Only One Person Pleads Guilty and That is James Austin, Negro, for Burglary.

Twenty-one accused persons, the largest number ever assembled before a Douglas county judge at one time, were arraigned before Judge Sutton Wednesday morning to answer for penitentiary offenses. There were in the crowd, eight white men, three colored women and ten colored men.

Two were charged with murder, Gus Chivers accused of shooting another colored man, Charles Johnson, in a pistol duel over a white woman and Jesse Smith, a white man, who is accused of shooting a colored musician in a Third ward saloon. Only one of the twenty-one pleaded guilty to his accusation, James Austin, a colored man, up for burglary, and only one broke down before the judge, Quedella Robinson, a colored girl, one of the two women of the Third ward said to have stolen $2,000 from a western man in a resort. She had to be led from the court room.

The list of those who pleaded not guilty is: Jesse Smith, murder, first degree; Grace Doyle, colored, larceny; Quedella Robinson, larceny; Daniel Branch, colored, assault; Harry Roy, colored, forgery; James Cooper, colored, robbery; Andrew Williams, colored, robbery; John Barson, assault; William Lewis, assault; Henry Smith, John O'Day, pickpocket; James Moore, pickpocket; George Wheeler, pickpocket; W. D. White, breaking and entering; Luella Loving, colored, larceny; Robert Ferguson, colored, stabbing; Thomas Mayer, larceny; Gus Chivers, colored, murder, second degree, and for burglary; Henry Smith, colored; Henry Johnson, colored; Charles Olson, white, and James Austin, colored. James Austin, the one who pleaded guilty, will be sentenced as soon as Judge Sutton can investigate his case.

REGISTRATION FIRST DAY FAR SHORT OF THE MARK

Fewer Than One-Third as Many as Should Have Filed Their Names.

Twenty-five hundred voters registered on the first registration day, less than one-third as many as should have registered, according to the city clerk's office. There are two more registration days, but the clerk points out the fact that unless the voters do better on these other days only about 7,000, instead of 20,000, will be allowed to cast their ballots in the fall election.

The next registration day is Tuesday, October 5, and the last registration day is Saturday, October 23.

A new board of registrars will sit on these last days, the board which sat on the first registration day being the same as appointed one year ago. The city council will appoint the new board of registrars. The board is composed of three members in each precinct. Candidates will recommend registrars from their individual wards, republican councilmen from republican wards recommending the names of two republicans and one democrat, and democrats from democratic wards recommending the names of two democrats and one republican.

Of the 2,500 voters who registered the first day 1,323 are republicans, 806 are democrats and 251 gave no party affiliation, under the privilege granted by the new so-called open primary law.

The first day's registration by wards is as follows:

Ward	Rep.	Dem.	None.
First ward	70	72	10
Second ward	109	109	12
Third ward	178	128	12
Fourth ward	99	97	12
Fifth ward	105	87	12
Sixth ward	141	64	8
Seventh ward	94	42	12
Eighth ward	121	88	12
Ninth ward	78	70	12
Tenth ward	98	28	12
Eleventh ward	60	28	12
Twelfth ward	60	28	12
Totals	1,323	806	251

Another Theater, Says Considine

Firm that Just Sold One House Talks of Building Another in Omaha.

Omaha is to again become a member of the South-Considine vaudeville circuit and is to have a new theater for producing the acts of this company.

This is the statement made by John W. Considine, president of the Sullivan-Considine company, who is in the city to attend the convention of Eagles.

The new play house will be built in Omaha within the next year and a half and will be one of the finest vaudeville houses in the west. Its seating capacity will be 1,500 or more.

"I will say positively," declared Mr. Considine in discussing the project, "that we will build a theater in Omaha. This will be done within the next year and a half. We have had our general manager, L. Lincoln, in your city during the last month looking over the field and we have decided to place a house here."

"The Burwood was our property until a short time ago. We sold it with the intention of putting up a more modern play house here. It is our plan now to give Omaha one of the best vaudeville theaters in the west. Omaha is regarded as one of the best show towns in this part of the country, and we believe it will support another first class vaudeville house. Our general manager will be in Omaha again within a few weeks, and will then be able to give out some more details regarding our plans."

Mr. Considine came to Omaha from New York Wednesday morning. On his way here he stopped in Chicago, where he met Martin Beck, Morris Meyerfeld, Jr., and J. Abrahamson, general manager, president and vice president, respectively, of the Orpheum vaudeville houses. He said they were on an inspection tour of their houses and would come to Omaha Thursday to look over the house in this city.

Not Guilty is Plea of Anderson

Man Who Confessed Looting Till and Firing Building Denies Formal Charge.

Pale, unshaven, silent, Guy Anderson, manager of the Nebraska cotton glove factory, who confessed that he looted the company's safe and fired the plant with a slow fuse, stood before Judge Crawford in police court at his arraignment. He was cold and unchanged when the warrants charging him with arson and larceny were read to him.

"Not guilty," was the plea in each case entered by J. W. Woodruff, attorney for Anderson.

The defendant was released on bond of $5,000. Andrew Anderson of Woodbine, Ia., his father, signed the bond. The father was much dejected and refused to discuss his son's case. The preliminary examination will be held September 27.
