Wordsworth Up to Date. She was a Phantom of a Fright When first she gleamed upon my sight! A shapeless shape in scanty dress, To haunt, to startle, to distress.

I saw her upon nearer view; The things that woman had to do! She had to breathe a certain way. And walk and walk for mues each day.

She 'couldn't eat a thing that's good For human nature's daily food, But just some hygienic stuff, And stop before she'd had enough!

You'd think no one, however thin, Her sheath-like garments could get in; E'en If you understood the cuit You'd be surprised at the result!

Goss.

A perfect woman, nobly gowned, With hips scarce thirty inches round! A slot-like form, a haiting gait. And something like an anget's weight! --Carolyn Wells in Harper's Magazine.
