COINCIDENCES IN HISTORY

Secrets of Nature Often Revealed to Two or More Searchers.

RIVALRY FOR GREAT DISCOVERIES

Disputes for Priority in Telegraphy, Telephony, Anesthetics and Evolution Suggest a Moral.

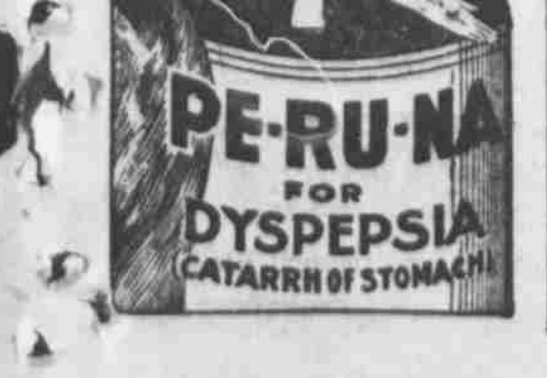

What one man can do others can do. This is a universal law of life which is not suspended even in the 90th parallel of latitude.

Coincidences hardly less astounding have occurred all along the forward march of the world.

Several eminent men in several countries disputed with Morse as the inventor of the telegraph.

His honors were challenged from all sides. Prof. Joseph Henry of the Smithsonian Institution stoutly maintained that he was entitled to them.

Nothing could be more dramatic than the case of Wallace and Darwin.

face for the discovery of the telephone. Here again an old dream was realized.

On a February day in 1874 two men, strangers to each other, walked into the patent office at Washington.

It has always remained a question which was really first. When their papers were laid in a pile of applications, did or did not the clerk follow the order in which they were received?

Two or three electric lights glowed in different lands almost at the same time, and so it has been with most of the important mechanical inventions.

The same wonderful law has manifested itself time and again in the scientific world.

The astronomical world was amazed when the planet Neptune was discovered by two astronomers, a Frenchman and an Englishman, each working in entire ignorance of the other.

Darwin and Wallace. The classic instance, however, was in the double discovery of the evolutionary principle.

Darwin had been quietly developing it for several years, but timidly withholding the announcement from the public.

But instead of destroying the paper of his faraway rival in the Malay straits he resolved to publish it and give him the glory of priority.

write generously large in the preface of that momentous work.

MISSOURI'S "POLECAT KING" Beasts and Handles Them Like Kittens.

Jerry Jones of Clayville, Mo., has earned the title, "Polecat King of Missouri." So far no one has risen to dispute with him that honor.

Clayville is twenty-five miles from Columbia, a postoffice on a bluff of the Missouri river five miles from Jefferson City, the state capital.

The same wonderful law has manifested itself time and again in the scientific world.

According to the polecat king, an animal does not like to give forth his bad smell. He will not do so unless frightened by a dog or some other thing.

Prices of furs vary according to the color. A black animal will sell for $2.50, while a long or a short striped one will bring $1.50.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE

Volume of Business Continues Heavy Despite High Prices.

BIG DEMANDS FOR STEEL

Consumers Are Anxious to Close Contracts at Prevailing Rates—Footwear Market Continues Dull and Inactive.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says: In spite of prevailing high prices, which in some lines work for curtailment of operations...

Copper makes a less favorable showing than some weeks ago and during August the sales of steel rails are the heaviest in two years.

The leather market shows a better tone. Domestic dress goods show a better tone.

Marked dullness continues to rule in the footwear market. The deadlock between buyers and sellers regarding prices still being unbroken.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW OF TRADE

Distinctly Stronger Underdone is Displayed in Week's Report.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Bradstreet's today says: A distinctly stronger underdone is displayed in this week's telegraphed trade reports.

At some cities disappointment is expressed at the proportions of wholesale and jobbing demand, though at the same time admission is made of the fact that 1908 and 1907 aggregates are being heavily exceeded.

Best reports as to current trade come from the central west and northwest, where a free crop movement stimulates demand and helps collections.

PERU SPECIAL

Peru students plan to go to Peru in a special coach over the Burlington leaving Omaha at 4:40 p. m. Monday, September 20.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending with September 15 were 156, against 179 last week, 266 in the like week of 1908, 179 in 1907, 171 in 1906 and 170 in 1905.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending September 15 aggregate 2,386,661 bushels, against 2,415,036 bushels last week and 1,840,263 bushels, against 18,550 bushels last year.

Unredeemed "Shin Plasters" of War Time Fatten the National Treasury.

Are you keeping somewhere in a cabinet one or more of those old government "shin plasters" which in the dark days of the civil war circulated as fractional currency?

Not even the United States government makes itself prominent in every statement issued by the Treasury department from Washington.

John Smith had worked for the Valve Corporation for forty-two years and decided to quit.

There was a little argument, and then a drummer who had not had much to say before suddenly rose and said: "I'll bet the most people pushing the line of goods" money was accordingly put up with a stakeholder, and then the boasting drummer asked: "Now, what is your firm's line of goods?"

Neither division of the missing currency is a pretty tidy little sum, even in these days of the millionaire. But the chances are that far more than the loss estimated in 1873 actually has happened, in spite of the fact
