Anyhow, it's good for the shoe-maker.

The weather man knows his business, too.

New plays of the year are not all fit to be seen.

Mr. Taft talks about the tariff as if he never heard of nervousness.

While Mars and the comet are traveling in our neighborhood nothing short of a savant should talk at length.

Pa Rourke's boys may not be able to win the pennant, but they certainly know how to handle the Lincoln team.

Minister Wu again predicts that war will be abolished.

President Taft will find the Omaha people good-natured even if they have been put to some little inconvenience of late.

In rejuvenating the democratic party the Cleveland and Tilden men evidently inoculated it with infantile paralysis.

People are worried over the bank reserve as they were worried over the gold reserve in the late G. Cleveland's incumbency.

Chicago bids defiance to Paris and proposes to set the styles.

A patent flux-puller is doing the work in Ontario.

At the North Pole it is always 12 o'clock and nobody is late for school or church.

The Ballinger-Glavis exchange of views lasted such a short time that it is hardly remembered as an incident.

Los Angeles wishes another state which will separate it from San Francisco.

Julia Marlowe is working on a new version of Cleopatra's character.

Omaha owes another debt of gratitude to President Taft.

The Atlanta Constitution and other southern papers are debating with J. Hill.

Maryland, having a disfranchising amendment as its foremost issue this High Cost of Meat.

In Omaha and the other packing centers the causes of high live stock prices are fairly well understood, but it is a big subject and all explanations become interesting.

These are not bad guesses, but are not the whole of the subject. They do not explain the high prices of hogs and pork, which are in part produced by the difficulty of raising hogs when diseases ravage the herds so often.

After all, however, the dominating cause is the unceasing increase of mouths to be fed. The west needs beef and pork as much as the east.

Money Rates. Money prices are to those who professionally deal in that apparently mysterious commodity as simple as the price of corn and cotton.

Toward a Central Bank. Officials of the treasury are convinced that both the public and the country banks have laid aside most of their prejudice against the central bank idea.

A DANGEROUS BOOSTER. Suppose the Rush to the Farm Depopulated the Cities, What Then? If Secretary Wilson respects the use of the Department of Agriculture, much longer grass will be growing on the main streets of the big cities.

Local Christianity seems to be the sort that overcomes small difficulties easily. The churches Sunday were filled with worshippers, who felt sufficient interest in the future to overlook the present.

When a friend of a principal these days enters a dispute he always begins by saying that the other fellows cloud the main issue.

Embodiment of Power.

In some of his recent speeches Mr. Bryan has again been using a favorite expression, "Embodiment of Power," with which he characterizes the reputation by any public officer of the pledges made in order to secure the votes necessary to elect him.

Room for Improvement. American railways can boast that the fastest long distance train in the world runs in this country.

Concerning the Eskimo. The Eskimo is affable, brave and loyal. He speaks a language which is highly inflected—many of its words are of a certain rudimentary idea of a warm and habitable heaven and a cold and cheerless hell.

NARROW VIEWS OF BANKERS. Opposition to Postal Savings Banks Distinctly Selfish. Chicago Says. The time to enact postal savings bank legislation is at the coming session of congress.

Democratic Tariff Reformers Stamped by Pittsburg Dispatch. Judging from Mr. Bryan's speech in Texas, that gentleman has no delusions about the democrats carrying the next year.

Has No Delusions. Democratic Tariff Reformers Stamped by Pittsburg Dispatch. Judging from Mr. Bryan's speech in Texas, that gentleman has no delusions about the democrats carrying the next year.

Brevity of Harriman's Will. Mr. Harriman's will was brief, as well became the wisdom of a man with a good wife who left her estate in her hands.

Your nerves must be fed with pure, rich blood, or there will be trouble. Poorly fed nerves mean nervousness, neuralgia, headaches, debility.

Around New York

Whistles on the Current of Life as Seen in the Great American Metropolis from Day to Day.

Great Expectations Spoiled. Washington Post. The howls of foreign countries over the new tariff law make it look as if they had expected an enactment for the benefit of nations.

A Hitch in the Hope. Washington Herald. After all, it is not so much a question of whether there is glory enough for two, apparently, as it is whether there is glory enough for two.

A Neglected Mystery. Chicago News. Mr. Bryan seldom speaks now of the "mystery of 1908." Being able to see it in perspective, he probably discovers that there is nothing mysterious about it.

Road to the Top of the Hill. Chicago Record-Herald. Judge Lovett is another of the many distinguished railroad men who got their start in the railroad business by polking the handles of the doors in lawyers' offices.

Room for Improvement. New York Tribune. American railways can boast that the fastest long distance train in the world runs in this country.

Finding of Santa Claus Land. Building-American. It seems to have been overlooked that the little folk have the keenest interest in the discovery of the pole.

Concerning the Eskimo. St. Louis Republic. The Eskimo is affable, brave and loyal. He speaks a language which is highly inflected.
