

"Diamond Dick" As He Appears Today

W.M.A. SCHOLL

Would you know "Diamond Dick" if you met him face to face today? The real name of this man is William A. Scholl. He made himself nationally known through the broad newspaper publicity given him a few years back when he made his first importation of the only genuine manufactured diamonds in existence, the product of the laboratories of these two wonderful Paris chemists, Henri Fraie and Valentine Harrit. Scholl first fully satisfied himself, by chemical tests and by the fact that these gems defied detection by the world's foremost diamond experts, that they were genuine diamonds, except that they were manufactured instead of being dug from the earth, then he contracted for the entire output of these Paris laboratories. He made a written contract, signed and sealed, compelling the two chemists, discoverers of the process of producing diamonds, to turn over to him, the entire output of their plant. No one else could purchase these stones, but Scholl. They were properly guarded by patents that prevented their manufacture by anyone else even were they able to discover the secret of their manufacture. Scholl has sold them to some of the most prominent people in this country who have now worn them for years with such satisfactory results that many have recently made more purchases of these gems, after several years' test. The stones are a complete deception; diamond experts cannot distinguish them from nature's product and of course the ordinary person never for a minute suspects that they are manufactured. The stones always sold for considerable less than the natural gem, but since the expiration of the letters of patent last January Mr. Scholl has been able to reduce the price to about one-third their former value and still make just as much for himself, thus enabling all classes to assume the prestige and air of prosperity always accompanying the wearer of rare jewels. For a few days back, and at the present time, "Diamond Dick" is entertaining thousands daily by his demonstrative tests of the gems in the windows of Myers-Dillon Drug Co., at Sixteenth and Farnam streets and incidentally he is selling a large number of the gems. An album of voluntary letters from more than 20,000 pleased purchasers of these gems, is also on exhibition.

minutes your job is gone for keeps. "Never mind about that," replied Commons. "We will see about that later."

President Watties is now advertising for men to take the places of the strikers. He says he may keep those of the strike breakers who are available for permanent work.

The company announced early in the progress of the strike that it had been tendered the services of at least 7,000 men. The cars are running about as they were and will not begin operation at night for the present.

Strike breakers are still carrying heavy arms and are not loth to display them. Mayor Dahlman said he knew the men were armed with concealed weapons.

of any proposals for their consideration. The men waited all day at their meeting hall again on Monday, for some word to be sent to them for their consideration. A letter was sent to Mr. Watties Monday forenoon urging that he appear before his employees and give them any assurances that his company were willing to make, if they would return to work. Not as much as a reply has been received from him.

"In the newspapers we have read a statement of what the company and the mayors have had to say. We feel that Mr. Watties' statements need no reply from us. The public can read, and understand his position. It fully bears out every claim that we have made against the company. It even deprives us of rights that we have previously enjoyed. It is clearly an insult, not only to the car men, but to every patron who rides upon the street cars in this city. Mr. Watties has revealed himself before the public in his true character more forcibly than he could possibly have done. We think that no righteous man or woman, regardless of whether they are in sympathy with organized labor or not, would ask us for one moment to give such a proposition serious consideration.

"The suggestions the company have offered through the newspapers would mean that 10 per cent of the men could never be returned to work, and that the 90 per cent would have to return at the foot of the extra list. If Mr. Watties so desired, under the interpretation of his seniority clause. The seventh clause providing that in the future no man would be given employment unless he obtained himself the right to join a labor union is clearly a violation of the law and surely Mr. Watties does not want to stand before the public as openly advocating violation of the law.

"This company is in a position to pay the increased wage asked for by the men and no better evidence is needed than to point to the fact that they have been paying imported men $5.00 per day with board and keep, and permitted them to retain the greater portion of the receipts taken in upon the cars.

"We still stand for arbitration, and urge an immediate settlement upon any amicable and honorable basis, but if Mr. Watties insists that this is a fight to the finish, our fight has only just begun.

"We ask that all our friends withhold patronage and support from this company until such time as they will recognize the just claims of their former employees. We would also urge that they use every honorable influence to bring about an amicable adjustment, not only in our interests, but in the interests of the entire community.

"We deeply regret that we are forced to continue such an unpleasant warfare, but this company has left us no other alternative.

"Thanking our many friends for the loyal support that they are giving us, both morally and financially, and assuring you of our sincerest appreciation, we beg to remain, gentlemen,
Yours sincerely, time regarding my conference or what the probable action will be."

The conference with Mr. Maupin in his apartments at the Paxton was attended by Ben Commons, C. O. Pratt, both of the national organization, and Ted Morrow and P. J. Lenihan of the executive committee of the street car men's union.

Maupin appeared at Labor temple in person and asked the strike leaders to meet him at the Paxton.

The strikers consider the movement to institute a 3-cent fare agitation a master stroke.

"We will have 500 petitions in circulation by Wednesday night," declared Ben Commons. "Every member of this union will take out a petition and it will be easy to get the required signatures of 15 per cent of the voters. We have a good lawyer at work on this proposition and the petitions will soon be out. I believe it will meet with general public approval."

"We have a lawyer at work in connection with a proposition, to institute prosecutions under the federal law which prohibits any company doing an interstate

The Midwest Life

At the national convention of Insurance Commissioners, held in Colorado Springs, August 24-27, 1909, the following resolution condemning "guaranteed dividends" or "coupon" policies was passed:

"Whereas, There are many companies doing business in the various states that are selling so-called coupon policies purporting to guarantee certain dividends and other frills that are foreign to legitimate life insurance, and which, by creating such confusion and misunderstanding, therefore, "Be it Resolved, That this convention hereby places its stamp of disapproval upon such practices and urges each and every one of its members to discountenance such methods as being deceptive and misleading.

"This convention was composed of representatives from the Insurance Departments of the various states of the union. No greater deception can be practiced today in the name of life insurance than the sale of these so-called "guaranteed dividends" or "coupon" policies, and the above resolution shows clearly the opinion of those most competent to judge of the evil effect of such methods.

The Midwest Life issues all the standard forms of life and endowment policies, but they have no "guaranteed dividend," "coupon" or other misleading frills attached. Home office 107 O Street, Lincoln.

IN THE HEART OF THE SHOPPING DISTRICT

---twelve complete "one-line" stores under a single roof.....

No, we have NOT attempted to carry out the "Everything for Everybody" idea—we do NOT claim to supply every personal need; every household need; every kitchen need—but we DO carry twelve COMPLETE lines that fairly blend into one another—lines that in most establishments are incomplete, neglected; relegated to small, unimportant "sub-divisions" of OTHER departments.

For a while we are content to rest upon our laurels if we have succeeded in presenting to Omahans, the MOST COMPLETE YOUNG PEOPLE'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT IN THE WEST. We commenced along these lines—we've flourished along these lines—we shall ALWAYS be identified along these lines. Think of us when you think of "small women's" attire; when you think of infants' needfuls; when you think of misses', boys' and young men's garments and "fittings."

"Limit your field, but be COMPLETEST in your field," say we. We feature but TWELVE lines, but they are featured thoroughly, satisfactorily, inimitably.

- 12 depts. that are rightly featured here
- SMALL WOMEN'S AND MISSES' DEPT., including suits, coats, etc., that are specially cut for "small women."
 - GIRLS' DEPT., devoted to the apppareling of modern, "tony" girls.
 - HAT AND CAP DEPT., for miss or child.
 - FURNISHING DEPT., for Omaha's most particular young men.
 - LEATHER GOODS DEPT., for Mark Cross' celebrated London, Eng., leather goods.
 - PATTERN DEPT., devoted to the sale of Pictorial Review patterns at 10c and 15c each.
 - INFANTS' DEPT., wherein the babe is outfitted from head to foot—in comfortable, properly styled apparel.
 - CHILDREN'S DEPT., wherein all needfuls for children are fully exploited.
 - HAT AND CAP DEPT., for boys and young men.
 - SHOE DEPT., for women, misses, girls, young men, boys and infants.
 - CLOTHING DEPT., featuring "Sampeck" made clothes for young men and boys.
 - CANDY DEPT., offering purest of "home made" candies, chocolates and the like.

tion of Schuyler's Indians to the pursuit of Ictabead Crane by the headless horseman of Sleepy Hollow. Impersonations and escorts were by the English societies, representing British rule, at the front; the Society of the Colonial Wars; the Junior Order of American Mechanics; the Patriotic Order of Sons of America; the United Irish societies; the Sons of the Revolution; the American Continentals; lineal descendants of Paulding and Van Wart, theassadors of Andrie; the Order of the Cincinnati, and a host of lesser organizations.

Last came the modern period, led by the title car, "United States"; but even here the general tone was retrospective. A float representing the first Erie canal boat, a reproduction of a hand engine in use before the introduction of croton water, and another of an old Broadway sleigh, before the days of subways, trolleys, elevated or even horse cars, were typical.

The historical parade will be repeated in Brooklyn on Friday, October 1.

The story unfolded by the floats and their costumed characters dealt with the history of New York and the country immediately surrounding, in four periods:

The Indian, Dutch, Colonial and Modern.

The last named, however, carried the tale no further than the first Erie canal boat and the introduction of water from Croton reservoir. Leading the parade were the officers of the city and the commission.

The Irish societies led the first division, the members of the various patriotic societies escorted the cars of the modern or United States period, which composed the last division. "The reception to Lafayette," however, was accompanied by 200 members of the French societies, and the car "Garibaldi" was escorted by members of the Italian societies, including the veterans who had served under the Italian liberator.

SUCCESS OF BURLEY TOBACCO POOL. LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 28—James Haggis of New York, owner of the Elmendorf estate here, it was announced today, has signed his crop of burley tobacco to the pooling movement, thereby, the leaders think, assuring the success of the pool. The crop is estimated to be more than 250,000 pounds, the largest crop of burley tobacco in the world.

Strikers Assent Company is Using All Manner of Ruses.

The strikers assert the street railway company is using all manner of ruses to induce old men to return to work. P. J. Lenihan, a member of the executive committee, declared that the union is in possession of positive information that men had been offered as high as $20 to return to work for the purpose of influencing their fellows.

"But do you know that these offers came directly from the company?" he was asked. "Oh, yes," he answered. "They are a good number, and make their offers under that kind of cover."

"They are even calling up the men in the morning and telling them the strike is settled. One of the men they called was W. A. Venable, a motorman. He reported it at our meeting the other day."

and most elaborate ever exhibited. They vary in dimensions from twenty to forty feet high, thirty-two feet long and fourteen feet wide. They could not pass under the elevated railway, and even the electric decorations of the Court of Honor and reviewing stands on Fifth avenue, opposite the new public library, had to be changed at the last moment to accommodate them.

The four main divisions summarized the history of the country. First came the Indian period, with floats depicting the Five Nations with their totems, the legend of Hiawatha, the first sachem of the Iroquois, clothed in hissing snakes and then a succession of allegories.

The Dutch period followed with floats representing the discovery of the Hudson river; the fate of Henry Hudson, who was set adrift by his mutinous crew in Hudson's bay in 1611 and never recovered; the reception of Peter Stuyvesant, most famous of the Dutch governors-general; the first ship built on Manhattan island, and other matters of like typical significance. All impersonations in this division are by the United Holland societies.

The third division, colonial, was treated with greater splendor than any of the others. Twenty-one floats, depicted as many scenes and legends, from the recep-

One of those timid, nervous little women came to the office last Wednesday. Her teeth and gums were so sore and swollen and she had such a sharp pain that she was unable to eat. I removed twenty-two teeth for her without a particle of pain. Doctor, I'm going to send my husband up here. He's worse than I am.
