

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

H. E. Finney of the Armour Company Struck on Head with Brick.

MISSILE THROWN AT A CAR

Council Meets and Acts on Faving Contracts, But Postpones Action on the Occupation Tax Ordinance.

Assistant Manager H. E. Finney of Armour & Co. was hit on the head by a brick at the corner of Twenty-fourth and Q streets, South Omaha at 2 P. M. Wednesday. The brick was thrown by someone who seemed to be hiding on the roof of a low building near the corner and who escaped detection. The missile was hurled at a passing car and not at Mr. Finney. It went through the window, however, and cut a long ugly gash in the manager's head. Dr. E. L. Delaney was called and took four stitches in Mr. Finney's scalp before the wound was fully closed. The police were on the ground within a minute or two, but the thrower of the brick had disappeared.

These bricks which are hurled about the corners of the streets in South Omaha have in most of the cases come from concealed parties rather than mobs. The police think the work is done with a purely vindictive spirit and not from any sympathy with the strikers or the strikers.

Yesterday a defamatory leaflet was distributed widely in South Omaha concerning the police and members of the police commission.

Frank Moore was arrested Thursday morning on a complaint sworn out before Justice Cockrell of Omaha, charged with being the impelling power and man behind the bricks that were thrown at Mr. Finney. He was locked up in the county jail to answer.

Council Lets Contracts.

The city council met yesterday afternoon and awarded several contracts for grading and street repair for which bids had been received. The session afterward considered a communication from the Hoffman Plumbing, Heating and Construction company asking that, in case trouble followed the execution of the contract, which may come as a result of the attempt to manufacture and lay sarcos paving, or asphaltic concrete the city should not hold the company for nonperformance of its contract, and thus subject them to a suit for damages. An eastern company, Warren Bros. of Boston, threaten to sue and fully prosecute any attempt to lay sarcos paving in South Omaha as an infringement of its patent. Following this communication, A. H. Murdock, an attorney for the Hoffman company, asked permission to withdraw the communication, saying that the company had agreed to maintain its own rights and take the entire responsibility. When the attorney had reduced this request to writing it was granted by the city council.

In the matter of the occupation tax ordinance the council reached a deadlock to all appearances, although no attempt was made to pass any of the ordinance. After considerable discussion it was agreed to defer the matter until Monday.

Sheep Pen Crowded.

One hundred thousand sheep and lambs in three days in the unprecedented record of the South Omaha market this week. While no day has yet broken the record for big runs, the three days together make a record not equaled at any time. The week promises to be the largest in the history of the South Omaha yards. The trade had the appearance of being slow, but the sheep and lambs were selling fast. The large number on hand from Tuesday, owing to the fact that they could not be sorted up, sold, and shipped for the feeding pens any faster, combined with the 25,000 new consignments of Wednesday, crowded the pens to their capacity. When the shipments ease off during the last three days of the week the estimate expects to get the yards cleaned up again. If Thursday and Friday have large runs some sheep will have to go over until Monday. Compared with the same three days last year the present receipts show three times as great. Last year the figure was 25,000. Prices yesterday were a shade easier and dropped off between a nickel and a dime. Some good Wyoming lambs sold for 45c to 50c. Fat lambs sold about 45c to 50c.

When the Irishman came alongside the derelict was busy going through the pocketbook.

"Just found this wallet at the Ak-Sar-Ben show and I'm at a loss how to return it to its owner," replied the derelict.

"Owner's name in it?"

"Yep; here it is; out South Omaha way."

"Mail it to him," volunteered the policeman.

"Not me," replied the tramp. "I should say not. I haven't the price of a stamp to my name."

"Any dough in the wallet?" asked the officer.

"Not that you can notice," ventured the derelict. "That's just what was worrying me when you happened along."

"It's education along reform lines for me," thought the derelict as he lay on a hard bench in the station house.

Hearst Named For Mayor of New York City

Big Mass Meeting Urges Candidacy of Newspaper Man Who Has Endorsed Tammany Ticket.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—William Randolph Hearst, once defeated for mayor of this city by George H. McClellan and later defeated by Charles E. Hughes for Governor of the state, was nominated for mayor tonight at a mass meeting of 4,000 of his admirers at Cooper Union. This action was taken despite his authoritative statement last evening that he was not to be a candidate. Resolutions were adopted directing that a committee of five be appointed to take steps for the naming of an entire city, county and borough ticket, which will be placed in nomination by petition.

Tonight's meeting was called, according to its leaders, with a view to showing Mr. Hearst that opinion among his followers in the old independence league was so strongly in favor of his running again as to override even his positive declaration. The hopes of the leaders were more than realized, every seat in the big hall was filled and the name of Mr. Hearst was greeted every time it was mentioned with a salvo of cheers. When, after a half dozen "opening speeches," he was formally nominated for mayor, the meeting rose to its feet after the approved manner of political conventions and the demonstration which followed lasted twenty minutes before the chairman's calls for order could be heard.

No indications as to what Mr. Hearst's attitude would be toward the action of the meeting was received before adjournment was taken, but the leaders and speakers expressed confidence that it would be impossible for him to refuse. The third party which is thus suddenly projected into New York's municipal campaign will not be known as the independence league, but will probably bear the title "Citizens' party," or some similar designation.

The platform, as indicated by the speakers, will express distrust of the intentions of both the republican and democratic parties which have already nominated full local tickets, declaring that a silent alliance exists between Tammany and the local republican machine which would make good government under either an impossibility. It will declare in strong terms for municipal ownership of subways, economy of administration and adequate school and transit facilities.

The principal address of the evening was made by William M. Ives, who was the candidate for mayor against Hearst and McClellan four years ago.

A REMARKABLE PERFORMANCE

Carter Car Climbs Rome Miller Hill in Presence of Some Automobile Enthusiasts.

One of the prettiest automobile demonstrations witnessed here yesterday afternoon taking the Rome Miller hill. Many enthusiasts rode out to see the performance. This is perhaps the steepest hill around Omaha, and the road is in wretched repair, the rains having left trenches and small gullies from top to bottom of it.

O. E. Eckert drove the car and carried four passengers, one of whom, N. L. Malony, weighed more than 200 pounds. The car went down the hill, and turning at the foot of it, began its climb without making a running start.

Old automobile men pronounce it a wonderful performance.

Another demonstration was made on the Davenport hill, when the Carter car took the hill backwards, stopping several times in the steepest parts, and then proceeding to the top without apparent effort.

Malony & Clark, business men of Oakland, Ia., are introducing the car into this section of the west. They have established offices at 117 Farnam street and will be known as the Omaha Motor car company.

They claim that superiority of the Carter car over others as hill climbers lies in the friction transmission, as against gear transmission. This consists of an alloy friction disc fastened to the end of a shaft, bolted to the rear of the fly wheel through a cross arm and two thin steel plates. This simple construction, the manufacturers claim, delivers a high percentage of the power developed in the motor to the rear wheels and enables the car to do work which cars with much greater power cannot do.

"It's an important item in the economical maintenance of an automobile."

NEW CARS WAIT ON NEW BARN

Farnam Line Will Not Get Its Twenty-Five Cars—You-Enter Just Now.

The installation of the new cars for service on the Farnam street line depends on the completion of the new car barn at Tenth and Pierce streets. The other car barns on this line will not properly house the big cars.

The company contemplates the use of twenty-five of the big cars on the Farnam line. Of this number ten were bought from a St. Louis manufacturer, while the remaining fifteen are under construction in the company's shops at Twenty-seventh and Lake streets.

The repair of cars crippled in riots is now requiring the attention of the full force in the company's shops. The men employed in the construction department are being utilized in the repair of the damaged cars. Many cars have sustained injury through the violence of riots and the handling of inexperienced men, but the company has made no estimate of the loss from this source.

Italians Honor First Discoverer of Hudson

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Contending that in the discovery of the Hudson river as in the case of the North pole there is "honor enough for two" thousands of Italians, smothered in flags, bunting and gay uniforms paraded down Broadway to the battery this afternoon, when they unveiled a statue of Giovanni de Verrazano, whom historians describe as the first Transatlantic voyager to arrive in New York harbor.

With no intention to belittle the achievements of Henry Hudson, Italians maintain that Verrazano discovered the Hudson in 1524, or eighty-five years before the Half Moon's arrival. But the Florentine navigator, evidently regarding the stream as an ordinary one, left no detailed report of his exploration of the river. On this account he has received but little recognition in the new world for his achievement.

The parade today comprised 350 Italian societies of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Nearly 30,000 Italian men and women and 300 sailors from the Italian cruisers Etna and Etruria were mustered for the demonstration and as they marched down Broadway they attracted great crowds of onlookers in spite of the fact that the city has had a surfeit of parades lately.

A gigantic float reproduced Verrazano's boat in flowers. To some unversed in history, the demonstration evidently seemed out of place and either as indicative of their disapproval or in a spirit of

SOUTH DAKOTA AFTER PRIZES

Oats Farmers Are Going to Win Some Money at National Corn Exposition.

"South Dakota is going to show some of these older states something about corn at the National Corn exposition," said W. Pierce, county commissioner of Gregory county, South Dakota, who is in Omaha to arrange for space at the show.

"We are young in the business, but for all that are raising some corn this year which will startle the natives. Our oats will also open their eyes. The trouble with the farmers in Nebraska is that they are paying all their attention to improving their corn and wheat and are not using enough judgment in their selection of seed oats. That is one reason that our oats crops are better than those of the older states where the farmers take whatever they have left laying around for seed."

"Our seed was all imported and we get correspondingly better crops. Thousands will learn this at the corn show. We are going to carry back some of those corn show medals."
