NOT LIKE THE "ANNIE LAURIE" DAYS

Songs Are Born, Live and Die In a Few Short Months

Singers didn't set such a swift pace in the days when "Annie Laurie" was written.

In those days it took years to popularize a song-now a song "hit" is made "over night" and the public demands copies of it "next day," so that the ditty may be warbled in the homes at once. Omaha was prone to be a bit slow in this respect, until the A. Hospe Co., of 1513 Douglas St., made arrangements with America's leading publishers and Omaha's theatrical managers, to offer he latest, catchlest "hits" over the counters the very day they are sung in
