CUDAHYS PAY BIG PENALTY

Packing Company Settles Oleo Case for $97,777.50.

CRIMINAL LIABILITY INCLUDED

Government Produces Samples of Product Alleged to Be Colored and Subject to Internal Revenue Tax.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 11.—The case against the Cudahy Packing company for the violation of the internal revenue laws by failing to place stamps of proper denomination on packages of oleomargarine came to an end in the federal court here today by a compromise, when the packing company was fined $900 and agreed to pay a back stamp tax of $97,777.50. The total tax of $98,677.50 was to be paid by the packing company to the government.

The Cudahy company was indicted by a federal grand jury in Topeka April last on 60 counts. Samples of oleomargarine had been collected by the revenue department from every section of the United States. It was alleged the packing company colored the oleomargarine, which should have subjected the company to a tax of 10 cents a pound, and that it was disposed of as the uncolored product upon which the revenue is but a quarter of a cent a pound.

Evidence Based on Analysis. H. J. Bone, United States district attorney, for the government, produced a great deal of evidence consisting principally of analysis of the samples seized by the department at Washington. These samples represented $13,000 pounds, and it was upon the basis of this quantity of the product that the stamp tax was levied.

An effort was made by the Cudahy company to compromise the case, but no formal action was taken until today. The stamp tax of $97,777.50 was paid some time ago, under protest, but the government refused to dismiss the case. The law provides for a maximum penalty for $1,000 on each count which would have made the packing company liable for a maximum fine of $60,000 in the event of conviction.

Gravest fears are entertained for the safety of these men, the apprehension being intensified by recollections of the hurricane of 1906, when 140 men lost their lives and great damage to property was done in that section.

It is said that the construction camps are better fortified now and it is known that the engineers on the work have been preparing for a big blow for a number of days past.

Directed Verdict Loses Bond Case For U. S. Grant

Motion of Defense Ruled Upon Favorably by Judge Kennedy and Suit is Ended.

Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., lost his bond suit yesterday afternoon, when Judge Kennedy directed a peremptory verdict for the defendants. The motion was made on the ground that the plaintiff had not shown that the McCormick bank of Salt Lake City had not acted in good faith and in due order in purchasing the bonds from O. C. Dranga. This was the third time a defendant in the case. The first was that Grant had lost title by his giving the bonds to Homer G. Tabor of Los Angeles to sell for him and again by a deal with Dranga. The second of these defenses was that the bonds were procured to be brought into this jurisdiction by fraud and trickery. The Dranga-Tabor assertions were pretty well met by the evidence for the state and the defense did not make good either on the charge of trickery in the replevining of the bonds here, but the success of the plaintiff in these respects did not count for much in the upshot, since the third defense proved impregnable.

W. O. Gilbert, for the McCormicks, made the principal argument in behalf of the motion to direct and quoted many authorities on interpretation of the law which holds that title to negotiable instruments like these bonds is valid if the purchaser is not informed of a claim by another party. Mr. Grant was greatly disappointed at the outcome, though he said little. He had been hoping against hope the last few days that the attorney fought over the matter pretty clearly where the danger lay. Mr. Grant left a few hours after the trial closed for his home in San Diego. He has left recourse to a lawsuit against O. C. Dranga, who, with Tabor, is responsible for Grant's managing to let go of his $40,000 worth of bonds without being recompensed for them. Dranga is now engaged in the banking business at Caliente, Nev.

The jury had a cold time of it the last day. The court room was bad enough, but it was warmer than the damp and chilly corridors where the jury had to sit while the attorneys fought over the admissibility of the state's rebuttal evidence and the motion to direct a verdict.

CRANE'S FATE IN BALANCE

States alone; if made at all it would be made in conjunction with other leading powers. In such an event it would be unlikely, it is argued, that China would be averse to a restating of these treaties in the direction of greater liberty for herself, and as for Japan, she could hardly afford to resist a united representation on the part of a number of the great powers to the effect that these treaties carried with them a violation of her own pledges as embodied in the treaty of Portsmouth.

In a word it is believed in diplomatic circles that the Crane matter is of no serious moment as affecting any international question, except as the situation referred to may have prematurely "showed the hand" of the State department.

The matter is generally regarded as one chiefly personal to Mr. Crane and embodying almost exclusively the question whether he has exhibited a lack of that discretion which in the eyes of the diplomat is a first essential in the representative of a great government at such a center of international interest as the capital of China.

SUPERLATIVE HOTEL COMFORT AT THE ST. REGIS, NEW YORK

The One American Hotel that is not Surpassed by the Famous Hotels of Europe.

The great cities of Europe have long been famed for splendid hotels, in which the highest possible degree of luxury was obtainable. In America, it has been said, we had no first class hotels—measured on the best European standard. This statement, formerly, may have been true, but it is not true today. The Hotel St. Regis, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-Fifth Street, New York City, was designed, built and furnished, and is being operated and maintained upon a standard equal in all respects to the famous hotels of London and Paris. It even exceeds them all in some of its attributes, and in one respect at least—that of its price. It is setting an example of moderation and economy that appeals most favorably to America's great "middle class." American citizens should not be expected to pay—and at the St. Regis are not asked to—more than a fair compensation for the services rendered. Although living at the highest degree of hotel comfort with the best features of home-likeness and refinement, there is no advance in its price over those of other first class hotels. Rooms may be had there as low as $3 and $4 a day for a large, handsomely furnished single bedroom; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people) or $10 a day; and up for an elegant suite consisting of parlor, bedroom and private bath.
