DETECTIVES SEEK KIDNAPERS

Policeman Follows Clue—Thinks He Saw Juveniles in Company of Italian Recently in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Thomas and Grace Vidiano, the St. Louis children who were stolen from their homes at St. Louis August 2, were again clasped in the arms of their fathers here today.
The mothers of the youngsters, who are counts and scarcely more than babies, remained at St. Louis to prepare a warm welcome.
The brothers, who are men of wealth, in an interview with the police declared that no ransom had been paid. Both asserted that they would bend every energy to running down the kidnapers.
A clue that may prove of value was furnished today by John Rayburn, formerly a railroad policeman. Rayburn identified the children as the same ones he had seen on a Wabash train, accompanied by an Italian, on the day of the kidnaping.
When the train reached Chicago the Italian inquired the way to Jefferson and Superior streets.
"About a week later I saw a man standing on Blue Island avenue. I jumped from the car on which I was riding, but the Italian disappeared."
After hearing Rayburn's story detectives were sent in force to make a house to house search in the neighborhood of Superior and Jefferson streets.
The children are believed to have been treated brutally.

IOWA PIONEERS CELEBRATE

First White Settlers of Emmet County Observe Anniversary.
ESTHERVILLE, Ia., Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ridley of this city celebrated their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary last Friday, October 15. They have been residents of this place for the last fifty-two years, coming to Emmet county from Dubuque, Ia., by means of oxen in 1857, shortly after the Epinal Lake massacre. "Aunt Esther," as Mrs. Ridley is familiarly known, was the first white woman in Emmet county, the city of Estherville being named in her honor. Mrs. Ridley was born near Portland, Me., April 8, 1851. Mr. Ridley was born July 1, 1853, at Litchfield, Mass., at which place he was a shipbuilder prior to his coming to Iowa.
To this couple were born three children, Mrs. Anna J. Dana of Sparta, Wis., who was the first white girl baby born in Emmet county; Mrs. Eva Hoover, deceased, and George Ellsworth Ridley, a resident of Estherville, Mo., and Mrs. Ridley have twelve grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.
These two pioneers, who have lived and struggled through the growth and hardships of this sturdy western town, are both hale and hearty and are much loved and respected by the whole community.

RAFFIA WORK AT DUNLAP SCHOOL

Beginning of Manual Training Successfully Under Way.
DUNLAP, Ia., Oct. 16.—(Special.)—As in other towns of Harrison county, manual training for the Dunlap schools has been under consideration for some time by the school officials and others, but owing to want of adequate room in addition to other contingencies the Board of Education will defer action until a future date. However, in addition to standard work from the high school down, most excellent kindergarten work is being done, also along this line in the fourth and fifth grades, principally with raffia. Though nothing elaborate has been attempted, yet good work is being accomplished by the pupils under the direction of teachers. The work consists of learning to braid the raffia and to weave it in different ways, and learning different forms of knotting. The pupils in these grades have woven mats of artistic design, the lavender, red and blue and many similar articles in daily use. When the article is completed the pupils take them to their homes.
Superintendent Searley says that a wholesome interest has been aroused in such work in the Dunlap schools and good results in hand and eye training has also been secured.

state guaranty law, expressed pleasure but no surprise when he learned of the decision handed down by Judge T. C. Munger and Judge Vanderventer in the federal court.

"We contended the law on the ground that it was unconstitutional, in that it appropriated the assets of one bank to meet the obligations of another. It meant that the property of one person could be taken without compensation to pay another person's debts, which I contended could not be done under the constitution of the United States. The law further was presumed to have been enacted under the police power of the state. The police power of the state is not powerful enough to take the property of one to pay the debts of another. Further, the guaranty law in effect prohibits the operation of private banks. This, too, is unconstitutional, as we contended that no business not in itself vicious or harmful can be prohibited."
Mr. Webster now has under way three suits in the circuit court at Topeka seeking to set aside the Kansas guaranty law. The law of this state differs from the Nebraska law in that it requires that the guaranty plan is not compulsory, but voluntary. The suits in Kansas represent 12 national banks, forty-seven state banks and a number of stockholders. He condemns the Kansas law even more than the Nebraska law.

"We are contending in this case," he said, "that the law is beyond the police power of the state and that it makes an unlawful discrimination between banks. The fact that the guaranty is voluntary creates this unlawful discrimination."
Mr. Webster ventures the prophecy that the big Oklahoma bank failure and subsequent developments will mean the end of the guaranty law in that state.
Senator W. V. Allen has been associated with Mr. Webster in the prosecution of the Nebraska bank guaranty case.

MEANS DEATH OF GUARANTY

President of Nebraska National Bank Far-Reachng Effect.
Henry W. Yates, president of the Nebraska National bank, declared with apparent pleasure that the decision handed down declaring the bank guaranty law invalid was as he had anticipated.
"I presume, not having seen the decision, that it was decided on constitutional grounds only. This decision, while it may be carried up to the supreme court, ends the controversy for the time. It means the death of all similar guaranty laws."
"That talk of a special session of the guaranty law is now proved to be all wind. The state legislature has not the power to amend the constitution of the United States, and that is what it would have to do to support that law. It has appeared to me clearly unconstitutional to levy a tax upon the banks for the guaranty fund to assess one bank to meet the obligations of another. This decision is as I had expected. I have been certain that it would be that way."
"This will mean that the Oklahoma guaranty law is also invalid. The Kansas law will not be affected directly by this decision, as in that state the guaranty is not compulsory. There will, however, be for a long lifetime. And while the thoughtless youngsters dispersed for their homes, this little group, with Uncle Joe in the center, moved away silently, saying nothing, but thinking much.

Dredge Cost $20,000.

This dredge built on the shore of Omaha's watering place has cost the park board $20,000. It will dredge out about 2,000,000 yards of earth from the lake bottom and place it about the shores that are to be elevated, at a cost of probably $100,000, and the work will consume, it is expected, five years. Its seventy-foot timbers were transported here from Oregon, trained and put together on the shores of the lake.
Looking like a one-story house of more than ordinary length, without windows, the dredge has a business-like air, and when fully equipped with engines, knife-like swinging nose and ponderous discharge pipe at the stern, it will do business, say its builders. Its life may be greater than the span of the work it has to do, but those who know will be satisfied if it stands the strain until the work now planned is done. When finished it will have a cabin and present a much more pleasing appearance than it does today, arakite and unadorned.

MISSIONARY WORK ACTIVE
Baptists at Mitchell Disclose Amount of Field Endeavor.
MITCHELL, S. D., Oct. 16.—(Special.)—The feature of the Baptist convention today King King covering the work of the last year. Seven church buildings have been completed and dedicated, at Farmington, Okavans and Lucas. Four more are completed and will be dedicated shortly at Florence, LeBeau, McIntosh and Lake Norden, the latter a Swedish church. New churches are now being constructed at Sioux Falls, Aberdeen, Garlock and Colome. Speaking of the increased activity of the missionary work, Secretary King said: "It is gratifying to be able to report a very evident awakening of the missionary spirit among our churches. This is seen in the increased offerings for all such work. For the American Baptist Foreign Missionary society this was 194, per cent. The increase to the Home Mission society is peculiarly gratifying, reaching 100 per cent. Some comparisons will emphasize the growth of the missionary spirit. From October, 1907, to October, 1908, the receipts to the general fund were $1,024,543; while from October 1, 1908, to the present

Billions of Dollars Spent Annually in So-Called 'Superfluous' Necessities.

Perhaps the better method of grasping the idea of the way in which former luxuries since becoming necessities have swelled the cost of living, which causes so much talk, would be to tabulate a few of the principal items so that they may be compared at a single glance. Here they are, together with their annual cost:
European trips..... $170,924,231
Railroad (passenger trips) and..... 28,521,000
Theaters and other amusements..... 250,000,000
Yachts..... 25,000,000
Automobiles..... 110,000,000
Chariots..... 55,750,276
Pianos..... 48,000,000
Tailing machines..... 16,000,000
Ammunition and fireworks..... 21,850,521
Liquors, wines and soda..... 605,921,000
Cigars, tobacco and smoking articles..... 358,303,094
Billiard tables..... 10,000,000
Perfumery and cosmetics..... 2,222,222
Jewelry..... 76,998,449
Imported millinery..... 15,807,502
Laces and embroideries (imported)..... 38,611,010
Silks..... 197,600,000
Imported toys..... 7,209,423
Fancy articles "not specified" (domestic only)..... 11,961,513
Total..... $2,894,379,096
So, then, a few of our important superfluities which have grown into necessities at wholesale prices in round numbers total $2,900,000,000. In 1908 the total expenditures of the United States government were $2,922,125. In other words, the cost of these superfluities would run the national government nearly four years, or, if figured at the total retail cost to the consumer, nearly eight years. However, it is not at all likely that anyone will forego a trip to Europe or to the theater, or a silk dress for his wife, or a toy for the baby in order to contribute the money thus saved toward running expenses of the government.
Yes, the cost of living is very high. Won't somebody please show us how to make it higher?—Technical World.
