

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky, and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig out the corners and drive out the decayed food particles. Moreover, soap leaves your dishes with a soapy, animal fat smell that is far from inviting.

GOLD DUST is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. GOLD DUST sterilizes, as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, GOLD DUST will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

"Let the GOLD DUST Twins do your work."

HEGIRA OF OLD DWELLINGS

Moving Houses, Like Flies, Go No One Knows Where.

THAT IS, NO ONE BUT PETRIE

He is the Man Who Moves Them, and Says Many and Sets Them Wherever the Owner Tells Him.

"Where do all these old houses go?" asked a visitor to the office of the building inspector.

"They're like the flies," said Dick Grotter; "they go no one knows where, unless it might be Petrie."

Petrie is a housemover and when asked the same question that was fired at Grotter he woke up with enthusiasm.

"This house we are moving now from Farnam street to Twenty-fifth and Mason was built probably twenty or more years ago. You will notice that the joists are dry and sound and are also a full two inches. This was bought by Judge Neville for about $500, I believe, and we are taking it to some lots he owns at the location named. It will be made into a very fine residence when placed on the new foundation."

Old Her Home Goes West.

"The old Her home at Sixteenth and Jackson we bought ourselves. We will place it on our property at Thirty-fourth and Howard, making it into a double house. We bought all the houses on the Her property for $600 and we figure that the small ones, five in number, will reimburse our original outlay. But, of course, such a lucky deal isn't made every day. Take this present job, what with removing obstructions, cutting wires, raising cables and one thing and another, we very likely put us in the hole before we get it to the new location."

Petrie Brox, like other house movers, by a good many old houses, take them off their foundations, fix them up in good shape and then sell them on the skids, letting the owner say where they are to be taken.

"The best bidder takes the house," said H. P. Petrie. "I name a price, letting the people who want the houses do that."

The houses now being moved from the site of the new Morris theater, at Douglas and Eighteenth, will be taken to Twenty-first and Paul streets, where the circus ground has been for years, and the Dr. Grossman residence, from the corner below, will be taken to the same place. John Swanson is the buyer and he will rearrange and put his purchase in shape for renting.

Many in the Business.

It will surprise some people to know that a good many men in Omaha find it a very profitable business to purchase old houses and remove them to new locations where they own vacant property. Within the last two or three years, with the remarkable growth of Omaha in a business way, hundreds of substantial residences have been sold for little or nothing, moved and re-erected until the original owners would know them and rented for good prices. It is a fact, too, that these old-time residences of the early settlers, and of some who came later, are as a rule built much better than the houses of today. They were constructed of good material, by conscientious mechanics, and were worked the day, and they stand moving in good shape.

"We don't even disturb mantels or anything else," said Mr. Petrie. "We move them any distance, over rough roads or smooth, and set them down just as they were before we lifted them."

Deserts Union and is Charged with Embezzlement

Henry Ivey of Lincoln, Former Car-men's Organizer, is Arrested in Omaha.

Henry Ivey, organizer of the street carmen's union at Lincoln, was arrested in Omaha by Detectives Ring and Murphy to answer a charge of embezzlement. Ivey is held at the city jail and will probably be taken to Lincoln for trial.

Ivey came to Omaha early during the street car strike and gained employment with the street railway company. He has been a motorman on Sherman avenue. According to information from Lincoln received by Chief of Detectives Savage, Ivey absconded with $27 belonging to the union which he had fathered.

Ivey was located here three weeks ago by the leaders of the striking carmen, but they did not cause his arrest at that time. They now admit that they were familiar with the nature of the case and intimate it had been planned to cause his arrest later when it should become an effective move.

FARM DATA FOR THE KAISER

Information of American Agriculture Gathered by Two Agents.

GERMAN STUDENTS COME HERE

Consul General Geisler and Nikola Kaumanns Inspect This State and Will Make Report to Emperor William.

For the purpose of securing data of interest to the German government on agricultural and allied conditions in Nebraska, Consul Alfred Geisler and Nikola Kaumanns, Imperial German special commissioner for agriculture in the United States, spent Tuesday in Omaha and then went westward to inspect the irrigation works around Scott's Bluff.

Mr. Kaumanns is just now completing a special report to his government on agriculture in Nebraska, and this trip has for a partial object the securing of information on the watered farms of the western part of the state.

"Irrigation has reached its highest development in this country," he said, discussing his trip. "and there is much information of value to my government to be secured from your irrigated regions. Contrary to general belief Germany has many regions in which it is necessary to irrigate the farm land. This is especially true in the African colonies. I have practically finished my report on agricultural conditions in this state, but wanted some more information on the irrigated region."

"We are much interested in Nebraska, because so many of your citizens are Germans. A part of the purpose of my report is to show favorable to the state. I consider it one of the best agricultural states."

Kaiser Gets Report First.

Mr. Kaumanns' report will not be published until it is submitted to the German government. Those who have read advance sheets of it declare it is good "boost" literature for Nebraska farms.

The subject of dairying, cattle raising, sugar beet raising and various other departments of agriculture are touched on in it. Mr. Kaumanns has already sent samples of various Nebraska grains to Germany to be tested in the soil and climate conditions of his country. He has been engaged to deliver some lectures before the students at the agricultural school in Lincoln on his way back. Mr. Kaumanns will read an address before the Dry Farming congress on intensive farming in Germany.

Consul Geisler was late in arriving in Omaha, having stopped in Davenport on his way.

Consul Geisler has until recently been stationed at Seattle and is greatly in love with the west. He will also stop at the Dry Farming congress in Billings, and then go on to Seattle to bring his family back to Chicago, to which city he has been transferred.

The two eminent Germans were met in Omaha by Dr. A. T. Peters and Dean E. A. Burnett of the state agricultural school at Lincoln, and by W. F. Stoecker, who took them over the city in an automobile. They first visited the stockyards and packing houses in South Omaha and returned to the Commercial club for lunch.

At the lunch the visitors met the executive committee of the Commercial club. C. J. Ernst and T. F. Sturgess were also guests.

Several addresses followed the luncheon. J. B. Rahm presided and H. H. Baidric made the address as a representative of Omaha.

"Omaha will some day be as large as Chicago," predicted Consul General Geisler when he was called on to speak. "In the course of time farming in Nebraska will be carried on as intensively as it is in Germany today. Then this country will support a city as large as Chicago."

Consul Geisler said he was more than pleased with what he has seen in Omaha and was amazed at the growth of the city. He was greatly impressed by his visit to the stock yards and the Swift packing house and anticipated with pleasure his trip to the western part of the state.

Dean Burnett of the agricultural college and Mr. Kaumanns followed with short addresses.

The luncheon was prolonged so that the intended visit to the Davis and Woods dairy farms on West Dodge street had to be given up for lack of time. The party motored to Riverside park where they viewed the Schiller monument and the Linden tree planted there at the celebration of the centenary of Schiller's birth.

HERE'S A TEN-DOLLAR STORY

At Least, it Made That Much of a Hit with the Police Judge.

T. B. Downey, citizen at large, illuminated into an impersonation of the welcome arch, strolled into a restaurant and requested Officer Byrnes to lay aside his night stick.

"I would take pleasure in whipping you," he remarked.

"The pleasure is all mine," rejoined the officer, advancing toward the radiantly confident Downey.

"Didn't mean it," said the joyous one, beating a retreat that carried him into the clutches of Detective Maloney.

"That's worth $10 and costs," decided Judge Crawford, when he heard the story.

OLD MAN STRUCK BY A TRAIN

John Keating of Elkhorn Has Several Ribs Broken and is in Serious Condition.

John Keating, an elderly man, was struck by Union Pacific train No. 16 at Elkhorn Monday evening and quite severely injured. He was brought to Omaha on the same train and met at the station by Dr. Smith, a company physician, who took him to St. Joseph's hospital, where it was found several ribs were broken. Mr. Keating has been living at the home of John McCormick in Elkhorn.

More Contracts for Double Tracks

Work Let by the Union Pacific for Line Between Rawlins and Hanna.

"The Union Pacific has let the contract for additional double track work between Rawlins and Hanna, making 144 miles of double track work now under way between Omaha and Ogden," said A. L. Mohler, vice president and general manager of the Union Pacific, who has returned from a trip over the road.

Mr. Mohler says that double track work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, as the company needs it all the way to handle its business.

"Our business is very heavy," added Mr. Mohler. "One example may serve to illustrate what business we are doing. Two days ago sixty-four trains passed over the hill between Cheyenne and Laramie within twenty-four hours. We are still able to take care of all the business and have no car shortage to date. Business may let up a little about December 1, but the indications are that it will keep moving for some time."
