

and me. God is ready to give us all the power in the world and if we would claim this gift and be filled with the spirit of the liquor traffic would not live twenty-four hours, but would go down before the power of the living God.

No Use for Baby Jelly Fish. "I want power and I don't think much of these baby jelly fish that are willing to die without wanting power. I want the power to empty the liquor into the sea. I would say 'God bless the fishes,' but I don't want to get away from them. The reason Jesus enjoined us to be filled with the spirit is to give us power. If God is in us we have power and the flesh and the devil are powerless before us. It gives us power to do what we ought to be done. If it is so important to be filled with the spirit, don't it important to know whether we are filled with the spirit or not?"

"Some people's idea of culture is that everybody should be out after their paterfamilias. That can't be. Everyone must be himself. You can't get the spirit by merely being like someone else."

"Let us put ourselves to the test this afternoon. I have no right to test myself by you or to test you by myself. There is only one thing to test ourselves by, and that is by the word of the eternal God. What does it say? 'The fruit of the spirit? Love, joy, peace, gentleness, long suffering, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance.'"

"It is not infidelity outside the church that is ruining the church today, it is the men and women inside the church that have not the spirit. The firm proof of the spirit is to be the nominal host of Mr. Taft, who is afraid of the truth because it might hurt your friend. If you loved men you would have the courage of David to say 'Thou art the man.' If you really love men you could not help standing up against the liquor traffic that is ruining men and women."

Would Give Life for Enemies. "I know the saloon keepers and the brewers and the distillers do not love me, but I can't keep me from loving them. If I could redeem them I would be willing to be nailed to the cross. That is love. I have known women's Christian Temperance union women who were jealous because they were not invited to a seat on the platform, or who are so sensitive the program committee that although Columbia is to be the nominal host of Mr. Taft, the city expects the state at large to pay for the president's entertainments. The letter in which Senator Tillman makes these statements is addressed to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who wrote Mr. Tillman asking if he would attend the luncheon. Senator Tillman says he received an invitation to the luncheon and with it an invitation to send a check for $10."

Mr. Tillman goes on: "This may be a new way of conducting entertainments in South Carolina that will find favor in the future, but it is wholly contrary to all the ideas of courtesy and hospitality that I ever heard of in this state and I do not propose to lend any aid or countenance to it."

By gentleness we do not mean that you should speak up loud enough to be heard in a convention like this. I am not ungentle because I get up here and talk like a house on fire. It means that you are willing to go down to the brother and take up a fallen sister and show her the way to go, and then say to her, 'Go, and sin no more.' You will be so strong if you have this gentleness; then the whole world can lean on you because you have the strength of God. "Long suffering—that's where we fall. If we had the spirit of God we would forgive seventy times seven times. It means continuance. In well doing. There's one class of people that try me more than all the brewers, distillers and rumblers in the world. They are the quitters. You quitters are contemptible. Goodness does not mean to be so good you are good for nothing. I know of some towns where women are so good they won't organize a Women's Christian Temperance union. Goodness means to go out and do things."

Senator Turns Down $10 Plate at Taft Lunch

Ben Tillman Declines Invitation to Banquet When Asked to Pay Price.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24.—Because he was asked to pay $10 for a plate at the luncheon which will be given to President Taft on the occasion of his visit to this city November 6 Senator B. Tillman has declined to attend and states that he may not serve on the reception committee.

Nebraska Democrats Are Dividing

Candidates for Supreme Bench Are Talking About Each Other. EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF

Fake Label Nominees Begin Knocking on Their Fellow-Governor's Chief Clerk Returns from His "Vacation."

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Democratic candidates for supreme judge who are running for office under the fake label of nonpartisan judiciary have commenced to talk about each other in dead earnest. It has been known for some time that trying to get ahead of the other, but during the last week it developed that they were even knocking on each other, each to boost his own candidacy. On the train several days ago Judge B. P. Wood, talking with an acquaintance, made this remark: "Judge Sullivan has been reduced."

This statement, being made just previous to the publication of the letters in which Judge Sullivan was soliciting retainers from corporations, appears as though Judge Wood knew what he was talking about and had in his mind the letter which was later published.

A party who heard the statement did not stop and listen to the remainder of the conversation, but his impression was that Judge Sullivan had entailed with the corporation and this weakened Judge Wood's chance of election. This remark may also indicate just why it is Judge Wood is sending out circulars boosting himself but neither of his colleagues on the ticket.

Judge Dean long ago discovered that both Sullivan and Wood are not for him on the ticket and were wasting no time in the hopeless task of electing him, so he too, is going it alone. He is appealing to the country papers in the west end of the state to boost him, and he is not asking them to boost any other candidate. He has informed the newspapers that he represents western Nebraska on the bench, which indicates that he is expecting few votes in the east and of the state.

In the meantime, Mr. Matthews, chief clerk to the governor, showed up in Lincoln this morning following the publication of the fact that he has been working in the campaign, and Mr. Matthews told all about it. He has simply taken his three weeks' vacation allowed employees of the state each year and therefore he is not entitled to front page space. The fact that he is taking his vacation at this time of the year and neglecting his duties as a democratic headquarters in Columbus is a chief clerk, for he wants to hold his job and therefore, his friends say, is not even reprehensible.

Sullivan Seeks the Job. The State Journal this morning prints the following letter, which shows that Judge Sullivan sought the job of attacking the corporation tax law in stead of accepting a retainer. The letter says: Omaha, Neb., June 30, 1909.—Gentlemen: On April 2, 1909, the legislature of Nebraska passed an act, with the emergency clause attached, requiring all corporations, both foreign and domestic, doing business in Nebraska, to pay by July 1 of each year, an occupation tax based upon the amount of their gross income. A schedule of said taxes is hereto attached. It is proposed to test the validity of this law in the belief that the law is unconstitutional, and should not stand in order that the content may be considered at the least. I have hereto attached a copy of the proposed test case, and that those most vitally interested may hear only their face share of the cost, which is $100.00. The necessary funds are raised as follows: Assess each corporation that will assist in bringing an action to test the validity of this law, one-tenth (1/10) of the amount of its first annual tax, as fixed by schedule of fees attached, and the balance to be paid now to the undersigned, and to be used in defraying necessary court expenses. I desire to have $100.00 further sum equivalent to twenty-five (25) per cent of the one annual tax shall be paid by each corporation assisting in this contest. This is to be the total expense. The tax for the year 1909 becomes due July 1, and delinquent September 1. We advise against paying the tax at this time, should this suit be successful. It will benefit all corporations doing business in Nebraska, and the cost to each corporation hereafter to litigate this matter will be compared with the amount to be paid in taxes in future years, should the law remain unconstituted. I will be glad to bring out to indicate whether or not you will join in this action, and if you desire further information, please write to me at the above address. My fee shall be to confer with you. If a sufficient number of corporations will co-operate with us, an action to test the validity of this corporation tax will be brought in the city of Lincoln, Nebraska, on or about the 1st day of November, 1909. Reply should be addressed to John W. Battin, 225 North Life building, Omaha, Neb. Respectfully, JOHN W. BATTIN, 225 North Life Bldg.

Newton Puts on War Paint. Immediately following election Felix Newton, bookkeeper at the Lincoln, Neb., promises to turn his batteries loose on Dr. Woodard, superintendent of the institution. And he promises dry bones will be made to rattle that have never rattled before. Newton said he would do this stunt against the superintendent now, but he does not want to have the distinction of causing the defeat of the democratic ticket, so he has decided to bide his time.

Feeling on the part of the bookkeeper against his chief is due to the keen humiliation Dr. Woodard made Felix undergo when several young men and women went to the asylum to inspect it. There being no usher around, Mr. Newton volunteered to show his friends through the institution and just after starting with them Dr. Woodard stopped the procession and hustled Newton back to his office and the guests, very much embarrassed, were told to wait for an usher. Naturally they came back to town. As several of them were employed in the offices of the state auditor and the state treasurer, it is possible the board of public lands and buildings may have its attention called to the way visitors are treated and Dr. Woodard may have to make his peace with the board members as well as his bookkeeper.

Newton probably will have the backing of the governor in his fight, because he is credited as the one man who delivered the Russian vote to the governor. Felix leads them all and if the governor does not stand by him, Mayor Dahlman may walk off with the foreign vote in Lincoln.

After Havelock Saloon Men. County Attorney Tyrrell is going after the three saloon keepers of Havelock and may get them out of business or make them so close at least. He announces his intention to file complaints charging them with having sold liquor to minors. His case was worked up by W. A. Bentley.

Nebraska Cornhuskers Are Preparing to Meet Jayhawkers Next Week.

These Were Not Used Saturday Because Kansas Coach Was in Stand—Aftermath of Game with Iowa.

LINCOLN, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—There is little disappointment in the Cornhusker camp over the result of the game with Iowa yesterday. Nebraska had hoped to win, believing it had a better team than the Jayhawkers but now is satisfied with the score, for there is little doubt in the minds of the local rooters that the score fails to tell the comparative strength of the two eleven.

This game is the first one the Cornhuskers have not won in years that they really believe they should have won. When Kansas defeated "King" Cole's players last fall it was conceded that the Jayhawkers had a superior eleven in nearly all departments of play. When Minnesota won at Omaha there was no attempt to deny the Gophers a deserving victory.

But the game with Iowa yesterday was entirely different from either of those contests. Hard luck in fumbling the ball at critical moments and a little faulty tackling on the Cornhuskers' part were the factors which their superior teamwork and organization entailed them.

Iowa's offense was helpless against the powerful Nebraska line, as is attested by the ability of the victors to make downs but once on straight foot ball. But for two or three costly fumbles and a few poor tackles the Hawkeyes never would have gained a point, and the chances are the Cornhuskers would have added another touchdown or two, for once the failure to hold the ball gave it to Iowa when Nebraska was on the opposing side's ten-yard line.

Nebraska Line Strong. Twice after faulty tackling had permitted the Hawkeyes to carry the ball to the Nebraska ten-yard line the Cornhuskers held the Iowa men for downs, and only the unusual use of Hyland's hand devices allowed the visitors to score. They never would have made a single point had their drop-kicker failed on the two goals he secured in the first half.

Nebraska's powerful charging gained them enough yards to have netted three or four touchdowns had luck favored the Cornhuskers in stopping the fumbling and in returning punts. In the opinion of local foot ball experts Nebraska never, for many years, has had as strong a line as the one which now represents the school. It is believed the tackles, guards and center are the equal of any in the Missouri valley. The Iowa coaches declared the two tackles to have no equals in the west.

"King" Cole is Confident. "King" Cole says Nebraska has a mighty good chance of defeating Kansas in two weeks if the line plays as good ball as it did yesterday. It looks now as though no eleven in the west can pierce it for consistent gains, and if the Jayhawkers win it will have to be through some costly fumbling or tackling on the part of the Cornhuskers such as marked their play yesterday.

The Nebraska coach has kept his hand covered for the Jayhawkers and has refused to allow his men to use any of the best trick plays so far this year. Preparation of new plays has been going on since the season opened, and all with the object of pointing the team for Kansas.

The Cornhuskers have several new plays, but even yesterday Cole refused to allow them to be uncoiled, for Coach Kennedy of Kansas was in the grandstand and it would have been foolish to have exhibited them. It is believed Nebraska's downfall last year at the hands of Kansas was caused by the fact that the Lawrence team knew all the Cornhusker plays. They did not know the signals, but had learned the plays from watching the Cornhuskers in action against four strong teams.

Hyland's Drop Kicks. In local foot ball circles there is the interesting story of how Right End Hyland failed to drop a foot ball device at the game yesterday and in the one year ago is being related.

Hyland is Iowa's drop-kicker, and in both games had an excellent chance to defeat Nebraska. A year ago at Iowa City he was ordered to drop-kicking after Kirk, the famous booter, was taken out of the game. He succeeded in making one goal from the thirty-yard line. This brought the score up to 10 to 3 in favor of Nebraska. The next time he had two minutes of play, with Iowa in possession of the ball on Nebraska's twenty-yard line, he tried another goal. This, if made, would have given Iowa four more points, or a total of 12, and the game. "Bill" Chaloupka, Nebraska's big tackle, broke through the line and blocked the kick and saved Nebraska's grace.

Again yesterday, Hyland, under nearly the same circumstances, had a chance to defeat Nebraska. The score stood 6 to 6, and there were but two minutes of the game unplayed. Iowa had the ball on Nebraska's ten-yard line, and Hyland fell back to the fifteen-yard line for a drop kick. He made a miserable failure, and left the score a tie.

Nebraska rooters are heaping up blessings for the rulemakers who reduced the value of field goals from four to three points. If the value had remained the same as last year Nebraska would have lost yesterday's game by a score of 8 to 4, for Hyland's two drop-kicks would have tallied two additional points for his team.

"King" Cole has ordered easy practice this week in making ready for Doane. The men will be out for work tomorrow, though, and will at once start to learning plays for the big game next week.

DIETZES OUTPLAY SHAMROCKS. South Omaha Team Defeated by Score of 6 to 0. At Vinton street park Sunday afternoon the 1909 football football devices at the tented double-header attraction and they were well satisfied, as two of the visitors, Orlan and Johnson, who were moon were played. The first contest, between the Americans and Continentals, resulted in a tie, each team scoring a point. The main attraction, between the Shamrocks of South Omaha and the Dietz club of Omaha, was won by the Dietz, score 6 to 0.

First Halfback P. Coak of the Dietz team kicked off to the Shamrocks, who advanced twenty-five yards. The Shamrocks started to rush things and by a series of line plunges a couple of punters, the Dietz, who advanced about twenty-five yards, were held for downs. The Dietz tried a couple of line plunges, gaining about five yards and then Koran kicked off to the Shamrocks.

The Shamrocks again gained steadily until they reached the thirty-yard line, but at this point a fumble was made and Quigley recovered the ball, making a spectacular eighty-yard run for a touchdown. The Shamrocks then kicked off to Quigley, who advanced about twenty-five yards, but was held for downs. The Dietz tried a couple of line plunges, gaining about five yards and then Koran kicked off to the Shamrocks.

When Minnesota won at Omaha there was no attempt to deny the Gophers a deserving victory.

But the game with Iowa yesterday was entirely different from either of those contests. Hard luck in fumbling the ball at critical moments and a little faulty tackling on the Cornhuskers' part were the factors which their superior teamwork and organization entailed them.

Iowa's offense was helpless against the powerful Nebraska line, as is attested by the ability of the victors to make downs but once on straight foot ball. But for two or three costly fumbles and a few poor tackles the Hawkeyes never would have gained a point, and the chances are the Cornhuskers would have added another touchdown or two, for once the failure to hold the ball gave it to Iowa when Nebraska was on the opposing side's ten-yard line.

Nebraska Line Strong. Twice after faulty tackling had permitted the Hawkeyes to carry the ball to the Nebraska ten-yard line the Cornhuskers held the Iowa men for downs, and only the unusual use of Hyland's hand devices allowed the visitors to score. They never would have made a single point had their drop-kicker failed on the two goals he secured in the first half.

Nebraska's powerful charging gained them enough yards to have netted three or four touchdowns had luck favored the Cornhuskers in stopping the fumbling and in returning punts. In the opinion of local foot ball experts Nebraska never, for many years, has had as strong a line as the one which now represents the school. It is believed the tackles, guards and center are the equal of any in the Missouri valley. The Iowa coaches declared the two tackles to have no equals in the west.

"King" Cole is Confident. "King" Cole says Nebraska has a mighty good chance of defeating Kansas in two weeks if the line plays as good ball as it did yesterday. It looks now as though no eleven in the west can pierce it for consistent gains, and if the Jayhawkers win it will have to be through some costly fumbling or tackling on the part of the Cornhuskers such as marked their play yesterday.

The Nebraska coach has kept his hand covered for the Jayhawkers and has refused to allow his men to use any of the best trick plays so far this year. Preparation of new plays has been going on since the season opened, and all with the object of pointing the team for Kansas.

The Cornhuskers have several new plays, but even yesterday Cole refused to allow them to be uncoiled, for Coach Kennedy of Kansas was in the grandstand and it would have been foolish to have exhibited them. It is believed Nebraska's downfall last year at the hands of Kansas was caused by the fact that the Lawrence team knew all the Cornhusker plays. They did not know the signals, but had learned the plays from watching the Cornhuskers in action against four strong teams.

Hyland's Drop Kicks. In local foot ball circles there is the interesting story of how Right End Hyland failed to drop a foot ball device at the game yesterday and in the one year ago is being related.

Hyland is Iowa's drop-kicker, and in both games had an excellent chance to defeat Nebraska. A year ago at Iowa City he was ordered to drop-kicking after Kirk, the famous booter, was taken out of the game. He succeeded in making one goal from the thirty-yard line. This brought the score up to 10 to 3 in favor of Nebraska. The next time he had two minutes of play, with Iowa in possession of the ball on Nebraska's twenty-yard line, he tried another goal. This, if made, would have given Iowa four more points, or a total of 12, and the game. "Bill" Chaloupka, Nebraska's big tackle, broke through the line and blocked the kick and saved Nebraska's grace.

Again yesterday, Hyland, under nearly the same circumstances, had a chance to defeat Nebraska. The score stood 6 to 6, and there were but two minutes of the game unplayed. Iowa had the ball on Nebraska's ten-yard line, and Hyland fell back to the fifteen-yard line for a drop kick. He made a miserable failure, and left the score a tie.

Nebraska rooters are heaping up blessings for the rulemakers who reduced the value of field goals from four to three points. If the value had remained the same as last year Nebraska would have lost yesterday's game by a score of 8 to 4, for Hyland's two drop-kicks would have tallied two additional points for his team.

"King" Cole has ordered easy practice this week in making ready for Doane. The men will be out for work tomorrow, though, and will at once start to learning plays for the big game next week.
