Mr. McKeen has had his new carburetor at work for some time on the large motor case, manufactured by the McKeen Motor Car company, but did not try it on an automobile until Tuesday, when it was found that it would work just as well there as on the larger car. This carburetor will use 60-proof gasoline just the same as an ordinary carburstor does 72 proof. It gives an explosive mixture independent of the speed of the engine, an attribute that is of great value, capecially in cities with hills where slow speed 200 must be maintained to conform with the laws and where an engine must still maintain enough power to help the car up the hill and out of the road of street cars. This new invention gives power no matter how slow the car goes. It takes a down feed instead of an up-feed.

Mr. McKeen has done away with atomizing jet spray nozzle and is using the evaporation principle of mixing gasoline obtained in most carburetors by the jet

The new device was tested by Mr. Mc-Keen and some of the experts of the Mc-Keen Motor company and the Union Pacific shops. It was found to work splendidly and the bucking of the engine so common on ordinary starts, was done away with. It was found that the engine was fed just as well climbing a hill as going down hill, and that power could be developed while the car was still going at a
