DEMOCRATS BLAME GOVERNOR

Flynn and Heafey Say Shallenberger Caused Party's Defeat.

HE REPUDIATED HIS PLEDGES

"Governor Shallenberger's Action in Going Back on All His Promises Discredited Us with the People," They Say.

Coroner Heafey is a member of Governor Shallenberger's staff, but that does not prevent him from coinciding with Tom Flynn, boss democrat, in declaring that Governor Shallenberger's repudiation of personal and party pledges is to blame for the overwhelming defeat of the democrats in Douglas county.

Flynn, former county chairman, boss of the Democrats and street commissioner of Omaha, is vigorous in his assertion of this fact and Heafey insists that the smallness of his vote in South Omaha is ample proof of Flynn's discreditable Heafey expected at least 1,000 majority in South Omaha, but got 500.

Nor are Messrs. Flynn and Heafey the only democrats who are making these declarations. Every democrat in town who is standing up and telling his right name is doing the same thing. It's a beautiful chorus of anti-Shallenberger anvil in this great metropolis of Nebraska today. And these brave and luminous democrats are not trying to conceal their belief that the same cause which led to their downfall in Douglas county will, coupled with the records of the last legislature, encompass their humiliating defeat in the state in 1910.

Right Off the Reel.

Governor Shallenberger's action in going back on all democratic promises discredited us with the voters," said Mr. Flynn. "In last year's campaign we went out and made certain definite promises, the governor also making similar promises. Then when the test came he went back on us. You can't fool the voters unless you deliver the goods. In politics just the same as in business, a man must keep his word, and when the governor threw us down we had all chance to promise the people anything this time and have them believe us."

Chairman Heagan of the democratic county committee was not to be found and the secretary had also gone to bed. One outspoken leader in the committee rooms said, "Reason was that soon going north at 4:30 a. m. out beyond Ames avenue. He is probably still going."

Chairman of the Campaign Committee "Bob" Wolfe was on hand. "We're coming up smiling," he said. Defeat never "worries" a good man. The cause of our defeat? Look at the figures on sheriff. Where Holland ran 2,000 votes, behind his ticket. Without any particular reflections on anybody, in my judgment, if we had been fortunate enough to have picked a strong man for sheriff, we would at least have had a chance. We'll know more next time."

Will Herr Ebeling Wed the Star of Graustark Here?

He Says Ask Miss Beveridge, She Disclaims that the Event is at Hand.

"Married on a one-night stand? Heavens, no," exclaimed Miss Ray Beveridge, star in the "Beverly of Graustark" company, at the Her Grand hotel. "When I do marry it's a long, long honeymoon for me and not one of these one-night affairs."

There's a wealthy young German in Omaha who seems exceedingly attentive to this pretty actress, but she disclaims any knowledge of approaching nuptials.

"I know there are rumors afloat," she continued, "but I guess I ought to know whether they are well founded or not."

Viktor F. Ebeling—Herr Ebeling is more explanatory—arrived in Omaha on an early morning train. He registered at the Her Grand and there was an early tele-telegram breakfast served at the hotel.

Herr Ebeling hails from Hanover, Germany. He is interested in mining ventures in Der Vaderland and came to America to study American mining methods. He has been to California and to Colorado, and has delved into the golden recesses of the Sierras and the Rockies. He calls America a grand domain.

"Miss Beveridge is an old-time acquaintance of mine," he said. "We met last winter in Bavaria and it was quite natural that I should look her up when I heard that she was playing in Omaha."

"You'll have to ask her about a marriage," he continued, "usually the girls have more to say about it than the men."

SURRENDER SELVES TO COURT

Burnam, Dunn and Rine Go to Lincoln for Execution.

TO FACE CHARGES OF CONTEMPT

Dunn Shoulders Blame for Writing Brief that Offended Official Dignity of Judge Rose of the Supreme Bench.

City Attorney Burnam and his two assistants, J. J. Dunn and J. A. Rine went to Lincoln last evening to deliver themselves up to the state supreme court Thursday morning.

All three have been cited to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court in having filed a brief on behalf of the city that is held by the high judges to have fractured some of the most solemn rules of legal etiquette.

Some of the fractures are diagnosed as compound and of the most dangerous character, so serious, in fact, that the offending brief was plucked from the files of the court, disinfected and flung over the transom into the dark room where things not popular with the court are interred, or, at least, may be forgotten.

Assistant City Attorney Dunn has shouldered the blame for the brief that shocked the judges' sense of decorum, and maintains that it sets out the truth, as he sees it, and in language only sufficiently strong to convey to the court his idea of the merits of the case. Therein Judge Rose is named a great many times, and at no point in his erudite and legal learning alluded to in a manner remotely touching the bouquets.

On the contrary, Mr. Dunn has put into print a good many intimations in vigorous combinations of words that Judge Rose is not even a side-walk expert in cases like the one before the bar, and that it is just a hint here and there that he is not the best judge known to the city attorney's office.

The decision with which Mr. Dunn takes issue was written by Justice Rose in upholding a decision against the city of Omaha, wherein the jury, save to Anna J. Robinson a verdict for personal injury, alleged to have been sustained by reason of a defective sidewalk. The city went to the supreme court for a rehearing and in preferring the request by way of a brief the first assistant city attorney let go a broadside of sarcasm that was not even lightly concealed under a pretense of diplomacy. Legal amenities were forgotten, the supreme court thinks, and as the upholder of the dignity of the highest judicial tribunal in Nebraska it has called for explanations.

TAFT STILL WINNING SOUTH

Executive is Given Ovation at Points in Mississippi.

HOME OF SECRETARY DICKINSON

Official Says Taft Understands People of South Better Than Grover Cleveland Did—First Barbecue of Trip.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3.—President Taft's campaign for "winning the south to closer union with the states of the north" was in full swing when the chief executive reached here at 7:35 o'clock tonight. At his various stops in Mississippi, culminating in Columbus, the home of Secretary of War Dickinson, the president had called out the cheers of the people by his declaration of friendship to the south by the repeated statement that his visit was without political significance.

"It is not that we want to make you republicans," said the president, "but that we want to become democrats. We all have our views and our tastes in that regard. It is that you shall come to believe that you are as near the heart of the central government, as now administered, as any other people in the nation."

The old rebel yell was heard in Columbus as the president spoke today as it has not been heard in years.

Catches Fancy of Crowd.

The pretty little town was crowded to the bursting point with excursionists. President Taft's address from a stand on Main street seemed to catch the fancy of the crowd, and nearly every sentence of his talk was punctuated with cheers. In speaking of his desire to bring the southern people closer to their neighbors of the north and west, President Taft declared that the cordial reception he has thus far had convinced him that the southern people are willing to come more than half way in the encouragement of that sentiment.

Secretary Dickinson, in a speech at Columbus, declared that as a judge of the federal court with a jurisdiction extending into the southern states, President Taft came to know much of the characters, the aims and ambitions of the southern people and was nearer to them in this regard than was Grover Cleveland, who was elected by their suffrage.

The president is to be the guest of Birmingham until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. His entertainment began with a banquet presided over by United States Senator E. F. Johnston, and at which the speakers included Governor Comer, James Bowen, R. N. Rhodes, J. B. Babb, Secretary of War Dickinson and the president.

When he arrived in the city this evening, Mr. Taft was met by Mayor O'Brien and a committee of citizens. The citizens about the depot and leading from there to the hotel were thronged.

Tomorrow the president will breakfast at the Country club, will participate in and review a parade, will lunch at the Southern club and in the afternoon make an address in Columbus. The president has entirely recovered his voice he lost in Texas.

Address at Girls' School.

In addition to declaring his good will to the people of the south, he had a few words to say with reference to marriage and woman's suffrage, when he was surrounded on the campus of the Mississippi Girls' School by a large and college by 500 as pretty girls as could be found in all the south, and who afterwards helped to serve the president's party and the citizens of Columbus the first barbecue of the president's tour.

"I wish that every woman in the world was so situated," the president said, "that she should not think it necessary for her to marry if she did not want to."

"I venture to think," he went on, "that the best legacy that can be left to a young man is a good education and a good character by training in a family to good moral standards and nothing else."

"The same thing is true with respect to the young women who are given a fair chance in life in saving and carrying out their own futures. The great trouble has been that we have not given the women a fair show. We have not opened all the avenues to livelihood that they are quite as well able to fill and, in certain respects, better able to fill than we are."

Suffrage for Women.

"I am not in favor of suffrage for women until I can be convinced that all the women desire it, and when they desire it I am in favor of giving it to them, and when they desire it they will get it, too. But I do believe that one of the advantages in giving them that kind of influence will be more certain to open avenues of self-support to them than has heretofore been done."

"I shall be glad that I shall not have any property to leave to my boys, of whom I have two, but only a good character and a pride in themselves and a good education, but for my daughter, I am going to scrap the ground as much as I can and give her a good education as I can, so that she shall take in the lesson which I first sought to announce as the text of my discourse, that she shall marry only when she chooses to marry and not because of circumstances."

In his personal address at Columbus, after paying a tribute to Secretary Dickinson, President Taft said:

"I am glad to be in the city of your great general, Lee. I am indeed sorry that it was not given to me to meet him in person and receive that kindly, gentle influence that he shed wherever he moved."

"Now, you southern people are an efficient people and you have some emotions in the north, too, but if there is any difference your hearts expand more easily and you are more sensitive possibly than we are. In order to understand the southern people, especially with respect to issues of the war and what grew out of it, you must understand their present position—some question that your hearts and emotions are broad enough to entertain entire loyalty to the issues of the past, which you fought so nobly to sustain, and entire loyalty to our present government for which you would be willing to lay down your lives if occasion required it. Now, that is what I know the southern nature to be, and that is why I come and appeal to you, if appeal is necessary, and I don't believe it is, to uphold the hands of an administration that is just seeking your votes, but is asking your support and sympathy during an administration already begun."

"I cherish your cordial reception and I cherish it the more because you had so

Wouldn't a Used Piano do YOU?

A reputable make—a rehabilitated instrument—a retuned, refinished, rejuvenated piano that LOOKS new, SOUNDS new, IS new to all intents and purposes, will do you, will it not?

We are EXCEEDINGLY careful in recommending used instruments; we don't play up the "truck" that piano dealers must necessarily "trade in" in the course of business—Following instruments are the very "cream of used goods"—pianos which we will not only RECOMMEND, but rigidly GUARANTEE!

Wade through page after page of piano braggadocio—you'll tire of shouts—stereotyped claims will pall upon you—it's PIANO VALUE you're looking for and you'll FIND it in the very "half dozen" instruments mentioned below.

for a fine built "Cramer" $235 when new

Full sized, seven and one-third octave "Cramer" in an oak case. Has three pedals and repeating action, continuous music desk and folding fall board. Received but very little use—and less another liberal discount because of its being used slightly. New price, $300; less discount and money paid by former owner, $110. Now $190. Stool and scarf free. $6 per month.

$190

for a well made H. P. Nelson $300 when new

Here is an excellent, large-sized mahogany cased piano that was sold by us a year ago—partly left the city—lost the amount paid on the instrument. Tomorrow we offer the piano less the amount already paid on it and less another liberal discount because of its being used slightly. New price, $300; less discount and money paid by former owner, $110. Now $190. Stool and scarf free. $6 per month.

for a sample Hallet & Davis a $350 Piano

This is practically a new instrument. It has served as a sample, but we will not carry the style in stock, in mahogany case; rolling fall board; new repeating action; ivory keys and ebony sharps. Has new style top and trusses and is equipped with third pedal, soft stop and tone sustaining pedal. A stool and scarf included free and terms will be arranged at $7 per month.

for an exceptional Cable-Nelson it's worth $350

In walnut case, full extension automatic music desk. Empire top and rolling fall board. Was used merely one year in a refined household, but was traded in to us last Saturday on one of those irresistible "Apollo" player pianos. Its price when new was $350 and it's actually worth that today to any player. A scarf and stool included free and terms arranged at $7 per month.

for fine conditioned Knabe cost was $750

This "Knabe" is in a remarkably fine playing condition, though the case shows some of its five years' wear. A large instrument in a rosewood case, and will make a welcome piano for some musician or student. Last owner traded it in on one of our inimitable grand pianos. Will be sold with stool and scarf and payments will be arranged at $8 per month. See this instrument.

for an Ellington Player Piano cost was $750

Large sized "Ellington" player piano in walnut case with standard, 65 note player inside. The "Ellington" is a good player, but does not come up to the standard set by the "Apollo," and was traded in on an instrument of the latter make. Comes with bench, stool, scarf and 24 rolls of music. In perfect condition. One of the best player bargains we've offered. $16 per month.

Here only—The Mason and Hamlin (the Stradivarius among pianos); Kranich & Bach, Krakrauer, Kimball, Bush & Lane, Hallet & Davis, Cable-Nelson, Cramer and Imperial Pianos, and the Apollo Player Piano.

Suppose Steel King Donates Three Hundred Thousand for Library, with the Bonds Lost?

President F. L. Haller of the library board and his confreres are in something of a quandary. Mr. Haller received word Wednesday that Andrew Carnegie probably will be able to take up the matter of making a $300,000 donation to Omaha for a new public library within thirty days.

"Coincidentally with this encouraging information came the word to Mr. Haller that the bond issue of $500,000 voted on at the election Tuesday has failed to carry, by probably a very few votes.

"Of course, in the final result the bonds may be carried," said Mr. Haller, "but if they are not, it is simply because the voters generally failed to pay any attention to the proposed bond issues. I understand the Park board bonds have carried by a very small margin, but that the bonds for new engine houses are in the same boat as the library bonds."

MACHINERY COMPILER RETURNS

Voting Devices, Aided by Wales Adders, Get Election Figures Out Quickly and Accurately.

With voting machines at the polls and the Wales Visible Adding machines in the Bee editorial rooms, compiling election returns becomes a simple process. This is a combination that works with great facility and unerring precision, with the alert human mind at both ends of the wire to direct the operations.

These adding machines, like the voting machines, are vital cogs in the great wheel of industry that is revolutionizing the system of compiling election returns all over the country. The exigencies of the times demand them. People no longer are willing to wait indefinitely even for the detail of their returns. Beside all this, human skill and energy are conserved by the employment of these mechanical devices.

AWARDS TO STUDENT JUDGES

Prizes Are Given by Stock Yards General Manager for Live Stock Contests.

General Manager Buckingham of the Union Stock Yards company has been notified by Prof. Smith of the Nebraska School of Agriculture of the awarding of valuable prizes for stock judging.

A. R. Bigelow of Lincoln plucked a rich plum in the shape of $250 in cash, and William W. Strope of Venus and Otto E. Werner of Falls City each captured prizes of $125. Mr. Bigelow's prize is good for the long term scholarship at the agricultural school and the others for the short term.

Special stress is placed at the school upon breeding and feeding of stock. The stock yards company has become interested in the work and offered the prize inducement for thorough study in expert stock judging.

War Renewed on Importers' Graft

Fruit Men Charged with Abusing Privilege of Deducting for Decay.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—"Break up the importers' graft" is the slogan of the Treasury department and its customs collectors just now, and the acting secretary today contributed another chapter in the government's fight against the abuses of the privilege of allowance for decay while fruit is being held subject to entry.

Investigation has shown that the rules governing the allowances are being trifled with and that the importers in many cases leave the fruit at the government docks until they are ready to deliver it, then enter it with a claim for allowance for decay, and sell the same goods regardless of the government's allowance for impairment of the goods.

Collector Loeb is advised in today's instructions that where no entry is made by the importer for perishable fruit, such as lemons, etc., within forty-eight hours after the entry of the vessel, such fruit should be treated as unclaimed and not being entitled to warehouse privilege under the law, should be sold forthwith on giving public notice for three days.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Councilman Berka Introduces New Revenue Ordinance PROVIDES FOR TAX ON SUBWAYS

Halt is Called on Custom of Private Parties Intruding on Streets and Sidewalks Contrary to City Charter.

Councilman Berka introduced an ordinance at the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening which is designed to bring a revenue to the city from private parties building subways under the streets or alleys or bridges across alleys.

It provides that in every case where parties desire to build subways or bridges they shall first obtain permits from the city council. They must also file a bond in the sum of $5,000 to exempt the city from any claim for damages or injury because of such construction. The payment to the city shall be based on 1 per cent of the assessed average value per square foot of the property and building for which the subway or bridge is to be built and in no case is the payment to the city to be less than $20 a year.

The ordinance was referred to the committee of the whole.

The ordinance providing for the establishment of the office of assistant city veterinarian and slaughter house inspector, at a salary of $18 a month, providing the fees amount to that sum, was reintroduced. It was accompanied by the companion ordinance for ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection of all meat killed in Omaha or killed elsewhere and brought into the city for sale. Both ordinances again went to the committee of the whole.

Must Keep Inside Lot Lines.

When Councilman Sheldon introduced a resolution Tuesday evening to permit the Norwegian-Danish church to build its steps three feet beyond the lot line, there was an immediate pause. The councilman introducing the resolution said he had done so by request, but understood the city engineer objected to such permits. The city building inspector had, however, granted a permit for the construction of the steps and the church people had innocently proceeded to build them.

City Engineer Craig said the resolution was but one of many put through in times past that had brought about a very serious condition which his department was trying to rectify. He did not believe such a resolution would stand the test of the courts and said 200 cases of a similar nature are now listed in his office.

Nearly every councilman spoke against the custom of intruding on the sidewalk space and on the street space and the resolution was referred to the city attorney, city engineer and city building inspector.

The county commissioners presented a resolution calling for a new sewer on Howard street, made necessary by the new court house, and asked that the council pay half of the total cost, which will be $2,000.

Frank Mayne and W. J. Malstrom were confirmed as rodmen in the city engineer's department, as long as they may be needed, at a salary of $40 a month each.

A resolution was passed directing the street railway company to pave between its tracks on Cumine street, from sixteenth to twenty-fifth avenue, with vitrified brick blocks, the same material being used for paving the street.

ARRESTED FOR OLD CRIME

Boone Barrender Charged with Murder Committed Over Three Years Ago.

BOONE, Ia., Nov. 3.—(Special Telegram)—Jack McFarland, a bartender in Finnigan's saloon here, was arrested today, charged with the murder of Edward J. Morse on April 26, 1906. The man was found then with his skull crushed in a dying condition under the Sixth street bridge. The case at the time was shrouded in a mystery the police were unable to unravel. They now claim they have conclusive evidence against McFarland. He was arraigned today and entered a plea of not guilty. He is in jail, as the offense is un-bailable.
