Mrs. J. E. Aughe Writes Letter to The Bee.

LOS ANGELES CHARMS OMAHA

Blowing Flowers and Ocean Plunges Help Make Life Enjoyable for Resident of This City Visiting in California.

How pleasant a trip to California is at this time of year and how pleasant California is after the trip is ended, is described in a letter to The Bee by Mrs. J. E. Aughe, who with her husband, is in the southern part of the Golden State for a month or more. Mrs. Aughe writes: REDONDO, Cal., Oct. 27.—To my many Omaha friends and readers of The Bee: Mr. Aughe and myself left Omaha October 15 over the Union Pacific in the third section of that great excursion. Next morning found us at Cheyenne for breakfast. We had a pleasant party of Omaha people in our sleeper, Mr. Will White and mother of Eighteenth and Corby streets; Mr. and Mrs. V. White, wife and daughter, G. Marian, Elder McLean and Mrs. McLean, Omaha pioneers, of Twentieth and Maple streets; Mr. and Mrs. W. Powell and daughter, Miss Fern and Master Robert, and six other Omahans.

"After a cool ride through the lovely, wild mountain scenery of Wyoming, we had supper at Rawlins, Wyo., and at 9:30 Sunday morning we sped lovely Salt Lake and pretty farms and gardens. Arriving at the city, we found we had missed the San Pedro train by two hours, so we took a street car for the First Methodist Episcopal church, just in time for the morning service. The pastor, who, after installing the officers of the Epworth league, introduced Mother Potter, president of Utah's Home Missionary society. She gave a good talk of how they were caring for frontier people in the mountains and distant points. She then introduced Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson, national president of the Women's Home Missionary society, who was on her return home to Detroit from the national convention at Los Angeles. At the close we had a dinner at a Japanese hotel, and then walked five blocks, ten Omaha blocks, to the great Mormon tabernacle, where we listened to several old-time Methodist hymns and solos by 500 trained voices to the accompaniment of the largest pipe organ in the world. There was an address by a young elder, a returned missionary from Hawaii, and also a sermon by an older elder from the Book of Judges. Thousands of residents, as well as travelers, attend this two-hour afternoon service.

"We walked to the great Union depot, the finest in the west, where we took a midnight train for the coast. No purer air nor clearer, sweeter water have we found anywhere than in Salt Lake City. "Awoke Monday morning in the sage brush of southwestern Utah and all day through there, and the rocky region of the Sierra Nevada mountains and through the six great tunnels. Supper time found us at Los Vegas, Nev., and then a dinner at a lively little place. Tuesday morning at daylight we were at St. Bernardino, Cal., and in the midst of the beautiful orange groves, what a contrast to the rocky region of the night before! Here we parted company with Mr. and Mrs. White and daughter, who have gone to Redlands to live.

"At 8:30 we were at our destination, lively, busy, great Los Angeles, and our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Syas and daughter, Miss Mae, formerly of West Ambler, Omaha, were at the depot in their double carriage to meet us. Then a pleasant drive of three hours through the busy business section of the city and the residence district and lovely Magnolia cemetery, where geraniums and fuschias run riot over walls, fences and houses, some six to eight feet high. The magnolia blooms shed their sweet perfume on all sides.

"We reached their flower bedecked home at 11:30, had lunch, then rested till next morning, when Miss Mae and I picked twelve varieties of lovely double roses before leaving for a month stay at Redondo beach, twenty miles distance, where they and we went to take advantage of the fine ocean baths, mackerel fishing and fine air. Mr. Aughe, Mae and I take the ocean plunge daily, while Mrs. Syas takes the salt baths at the great bathing house, the largest in the world.

"Redondo Beach is a great port for passenger steamers from San Francisco and other coast cities. We saw the 'City of Tokyo' and 'Santa Rosa,' come in Saturday loaded with passengers for Los Angeles and Pasadena, winter resorts. This is also a great port for lumber from Oregon and Washington, hundreds of lumber steamers coming in Sunday. We were invited to a baker's home at Mrs. I. Simpson's, formerly Miss Mabel Boyer of Eckerman and West Side, Omaha. We walked there, twelve blocks, through eucalyptus and palm avenues on every side. At 2 p. m., we left on the electric car for Pasadena, ten miles north of Los Angeles to spend a few days with our old neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bartlett, so long residents of Forty-second and Pacific streets, Omaha. They have a handsome seven-room bungalow on Franklin avenue, literally covered with flowers. There are three fine orange trees, one lemon and two fig trees, one large English walnut tree which has borne bushels of walnuts this year.

"Tuesday morning we returned to Los Angeles and took advantage of going to the market for fruit and vegetables, which we got for a small amount, especially the fine large Malaga white grapes, six pounds for 15 cents. We saw the beach before going to Pasadena or Geneva, where I will work in a private sanitarium through the winter. If the following week does as much for Mr. A's health, and mine, too, our hope will not be vain.

"Yours truly, "MRS. J. E. AUGHE."

ALTSTADT RIVALS SAVIDGE

Der Schudge Wins the Marrying Person Close Second for the Honors.

Judge Altstadt Wednesday evening transferred his judicial domain from his office in the Paxton building to his residence, where he pronounced the words that made Samuel Carney and Miss Kate Horning, both of Omaha, man and wife. "Der Schudge" continues to reap the honor as the marrying justice of Omaha. During the last two weeks no less than fourteen marriages have been performed by "his honor." He is running a close second to Rev. C. W. Savidge, the marrying parson.
