OMAHA, Nov. 4, 1909. OMAHA. Nov. 4, 1908.

The premiums for cash wheat have been well eliminated by the steady fall of over to from the recent high points. And it is evident from the action of the market lately that fallers have been well stocked, which will been then out of the market for some time to come.

The action of the form market was nervous, but finally showed some strength owing to a like added a demand, light receipts and small offerings.

Wheat broke rank today after a steady start on continued further legislation by holders of long a year. The cash demand is much weaker and the premiums paid a few days past howe been wiper out.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Wheat prices dropped to new levels today on renewed liquidation in the December delivery, but made a complete recovery and closed to lower to the previous session. Corn and oats closed steady and provisions firm.

Trading in the wheat pit was dull during the first hour and sithough sentiment was bearish no great weakness was apparent. The market then sumped sharply on general profit taking, prompted by liberal sales of the December delivery by a leading cievator interest. This selling brought out numerous top loss orders, the execution of which caused additional weakness. Late in the day, however, shorts covered freely, resulting in a strong tone at the finish. The range for the day on December was between $1.01% and $1.0%. The market closed at almost the top notch, with December at $1.0%.

Corn was affected by the late buige in wheat and closed moderately firm, with prices a shade to the close was a shade to the ligher.

Continued light receipts of live hogs throughout the west inspired a renewed buying of provisions. Total receipts of logs at principal western centers were more than 25,000 head-less than the figures for the corresponding day a year ago. Prices at the close were 25,215c lower.

Dun's Report of Clearings

DUN'S REPORT OF BANK CLEARINGS FOR OCTOBER.

Bank clearings for October maintain the steady increase which has been marked for several months, and though there was interference by holidays at several important points and one less business day, payments through the banks for October at many cities were larger than ever before; total bank exchanges at all cities in the United States, according to the statement issued by R. G. Dwn & Co., which embraces 116 leading centers, were $15,666,044,711, an increase of 29.5 per cent. compared with last year and of 7.6 per cent. compared with 1906, when business was very active. There are still lossess at a few points compared with 1906, notably at New Orleans and San Francisco, at the former because of the phenomenally active cotton market in that year and at the latter because of conditions following the great fire. The difference of one business day will more than account for the trifling losses at Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and some smaller cities, compared with 1906. Exchanges at New York City were very large, and though stock market operations were active, the increase is principally due to the enormous volume of business transactions. Cities in New England make substantial increases, especially Providence, Worcester, Fall River and Springfield, and at nearly all there are gains compared with 1906. In the Middle States Philadelphia and Pittsburg make larger returns than in last year, reflecting improvement in from and kindred traces, and practically every other city reports an increase over all preceding years. Bank clearings in the South Atlantic States were very large, returns being especially satisfactory at Baltimore, Richmond, Atlanta, Savanuah and Jacksonville. The active business in the Middle South is shown by the extremely large clearings at St. Louis, Memphis, Chattanooga, Birmingham, Little Rock and Fort Worth. Almost without exception cities in the Central West report increases, notable example being Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Detroit and Grand Rapids. The large increases, which have in most cases been maintained for months, are conclusive evidence of the business activity that prevails in that section of the country. Very satisfactory conditions continue in the Far West, where every city reports good gains. At some cities, notably Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph and Denver the increases are large. Comparison is made below of bank exchanges by sections covering three years; also the average daily figures for the year to
