Some Things You Want to Know

King Edward's Birthday

Edward VII by the grace of God, of the united Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the Irish dominions beyond the seas, king, defender of the faith, emperor of India, is today 63 years old.

King Edward is far too wise to interfere in such a quarrel in behalf of either party. It is pretty well known that for the greater part of his life King Edward has been, at heart, a liberal.

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, came to the throne upon the death of his mother, January 22, 1901, under the name of Edward VII. He was then 42 years old, and, as the prince of Wales, had long held a position of commanding social prominence throughout the world.

Edward has accomplished the greater part of his diplomatic work by direct contact with the people of the continental European nations. He is "the uncle of all Europe," and he has tried to be like the good uncle of the fairy story.

Therefore, in spite of his long career as prince of Wales, Edward VII, as king and emperor, has furnished at more than half with one of the greatest surprises of modern history.

In this connection it is interesting to recall his early visit to America. When he was 19 years of age he was sent by his royal mother to Canada to lay the foundation stone of the Parliament House at Ottawa.

But from the moment that he became king, Edward has taken an influential part in the foreign affairs of his realm.

It was here that Counsellman Sheldon moved the referendum on the lower fare ordinance and the postponement of action for thirty days. The motion was seconded by Brucker.

During his eight years on the throne that war was brought to a victorious conclusion, and the South Africans have been granted a constitution which makes them one of the great self-governing and equal nations of the British empire.

It was here that Counsellman Sheldon moved the referendum on the lower fare ordinance and the postponement of action for thirty days. The motion was seconded by Brucker.

If England is saved the blood and treasure which will be spilled if there is war with Germany, it will be by reason of this system of sympathetic alliances and understandings which has been built up by the king.

It was here that Counsellman Sheldon moved the referendum on the lower fare ordinance and the postponement of action for thirty days. The motion was seconded by Brucker.

Very recently the king has, for the first time, undertaken to use his skill in diplomacy to prevent a great internal party battle which might have the effect of changing the British constitution.

It was here that Counsellman Sheldon moved the referendum on the lower fare ordinance and the postponement of action for thirty days. The motion was seconded by Brucker.

Bar on Professional Revivalists. CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—At a meeting of the pastors of fifty Baptist churches today resolutions were adopted barring professional revivalists from this field, so far as the Baptists are concerned. It was resolved that when revivalists are wanted the regular pastors will do the work, exchanging churches for the purpose.

LOW FARE ORDINANCE OVER

Postponed for Thirty Days and Is Sent to New Committee.

VOTE STANDS SEVEN TO FOUR

City Attorney Burrum, in Opinion to Council Holds Referendum Law Is Not Operative In This City.

Action on the six tickets for a quarter ordinance was postponed for thirty days and the ordinance was referred to the committee on railways by the city council committee of the whole, Monday afternoon.

This action was taken over the protests of Counsellman Berka, Bridges, Schroeder and Kugel, who other save motions present deciding for postponement, on a standing vote. Chairman Funkhouser of the committee was absent and in moving to refer and postpone Counsellman Sheldon said Funkhouser desired very much to be heard on the ordinance and the ordinance was referred to the committee on railways and viaducts and Kugel.

When the committee took up the ordinance for consideration, Counsellman Berka took the floor and read a letter from City Attorney Burrum. Therein the city's legal officer gave the opinion that the initiative and referendum law—Article 2, Section 24, Compiled Laws of Nebraska—was never legally accepted.

Talking with this opinion in mind, the First ward councilman said it was up to the council to give the referendum law, therefore, move the ordinance. He amended by striking out the sections providing for the sale of twelve tickets to school children, that it provide simply for six tickets for a quarter for all who cared to buy, and that it become operative ninety days after passage, instead of ten days, as originally provided.

When Judge Berka was instancing Cleveland as a city typical of the proper way to regulate street car fares, a councilman interrupted to inquire: "Why didn't the lower fare ordinance carry in Cleveland?"

"That was a 3-cent fare ordinance," Berka replied, "and now Cleveland has seven fares for a quarter, while here we are asking only for six. Let those who want the six for a quarter buy them, and those who do not want to, need not. This ordinance will not change the existing charge at all."

It was here that Counsellman Sheldon moved the referendum on the lower fare ordinance and the postponement of action for thirty days. The motion was seconded by Brucker.

It brought Berka out with another appeal for action, backed by Kugel, Schroeder and Bridges. The latter ignored the city attorney's motion, and it was Sheriff Burrum of Dodge county who turned in the alarm.

Counsellman Kugel said that if the absence of any one member of the council was to be made a cause for delay a post-buster could be started that would postpone action for a year or longer.

Berka appealed to Sheldon to withdraw his motion, but without avail, and the vote to refer then carried 7 to 4.

City Clerk Butler said after the meeting that he will be governed in his action on the referendum ordinance by the opinion of the city attorney. This means that he will pay no attention to it officially, unless ordered to take some action by the courts.

Health Commission Delayed. Health Commission Council on ordinance, to create the office of assistant city veterinarian and for ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection of all meat brought into Omaha for consumption, were laid over for another week, after Counsellman Bridges and Kugel had voiced their opposition to the measure. They have been charged from the original to reduce the fees that may be charged, and that the inspector's appeal shall be confined to the fees. The opposing councilman did not want any fee levied, but suggested if the new officer was needed he be paid from the city's general fund.

The health commissioner also asked that the ordinance which established a public dump at the foot of Jones street be repealed. The government engineer in Omaha has asked that this be done, to prevent further dumping at that point, and as the city now has a dump at another location.

False Alarm, No Couple Has Eloped

Warning Sent Out by Fremont Sheriff Proves to Have Been Merely a Scare.

It was a false alarm about Joe Lee and Martha Launer of Fremont eloping, probably to Omaha, and it was Sheriff Burrum of Dodge county who turned in the alarm.

The doctory sheriff issued a warning here Monday against the granting of a license and asked that the couple be arrested. They never came and for good reason. In sooth, they had not started.

Miss Launer's home is near Fremont and instead of coming home, Sunday night, she stayed with a girl friend in the town. When her mother had rapped three times at the door of her room next morning, without result, Mrs. Launer then entered and found that the room was empty and that Miss Launer had evidently not been there over night.

Soon the sheriff was notified and he immediately flashed over the long distance telephone his warning here, such as: "The name of Joe Lee was thrust into the game because—well, Martha's folks have been sort of guessing that young Lee fellow is hanging round Martha a good deal lately."

Here's New Way to Prick Your Memory

Strike a Match, Blow it Out and Put it in Your Pocket Match-case.

Memory and forgetfulness are opposing forces. Only one of each is assigned to any one person. Various means are employed to jog the memory, such as the proverbial string tied about the finger. A prominent official of the Burlington route has an entirely new innovation.

This official is an inveterate smoker. He also needs matches. From these two facts he developed a scheme. If his wife tells him to order something good for his Epicurean taste he strikes a match, blows it out and puts it back in his match safe. If a friend calls him up by phone and makes an appointment to meet him he strikes another match, blows it out and puts it back in the match safe.

Whenever he wants a match to light his cigar, if he has anything to remember, he finds the burnt match. It's easy, he claims, and never fails.

Mr. Frawley is a nephew of the late General agent for the Union Pacific in St. Louis, Mr. Lewis, well known in Omaha, as he was once in railroad work in this city.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

More Cement Ordered Placed in West L Street Work.

STUB LINES THINGS OF PAST

South Omaha Business Men Request Council to Demand One Through Yards, but the Council Says No.

The South Omaha city council called a halt on the National Construction company in Monday's session by adopting a report of the committee of the whole council ordering the company to lay additional cement in West L street to make the same conform to plans and specifications. This action was taken on the report of the city inspector, August Miller, who declared the work was deficient in cement. The committee of the whole council investigated with the above result. August Miller felt vindicated for his position in opposition to the company and took occasion to thank the council publicly.

The West L street car extension was again the subject of much concern. A lengthy petition was presented asking the council to do all in its power to have a stub line through the South Omaha yards and no through service. The petition was headed by A. W. Bradley and signed by nearly all the retail men of South Omaha. The council, however, threw cold water on the petition and it was placed on file. It is understood the council will not consent to a stub line. Counsellman John Larsen said he thought stub lines were out of date and the through line on L street would cause no more harm to the retail trade than the line on West Q or Albright. It is evident the city council will not interfere further in the present agreement.

Site for Drinking Fountain. Bids were opened for setting up the drinking fountain at Twenty-fifth and O streets. The Offerman Plumbing, Heating and Construction company had the lowest bid, but no action was taken because of a protest against the location by the property owners. The council is not disposed to force the location of the fountain at Twenty-fifth and O streets if a more suitable site is offered. It is planned to set up the fountain in an convenient location as possible. Twenty-third and O, Twenty-fifth and E, Twenty-fifth and M streets were suggested. It was hoped by the council that citizens who would not be offended by the fountain on their intersection would let this be known in some manner.

Board of Appraisers made its report of damages by reason of the grading of M street and found that lot 9 of block 139, South Omaha, would be damaged $100 by this grade. The other parties would not be injured, or had waived their rights.

Buttered Milk Unnecessary. The milk and dairy ordinance was recommended for passage, with the section stricken out requiring all milk to be sold in bottles and providing a penalty for pouring milk on the streets or exposing it to dust or other contamination. The point of the bottles was vital and it was thought that the general sanitary ordinance would cover the matter of cleanliness. The Alamo creamery interests sought to keep the bottling proposition in. They desired also to be permitted to pasteurize milk condemned under the tuberculosis tests and sell the same, which under the ordinance was to be destroyed. The council refused this proposition also.

A number of claims were allowed and several ordinances for sidewalks were introduced. The paving propositions were advanced in the regular order.

Miss O'Sullivan Honored. Miss Eva O'Sullivan, a member of the faculty of the South Omaha high school, it has been learned, is another South Omaha teacher to receive honors at the State Teachers' association. She was chosen president of the science department of the association work. N. M. Graham, superintendent of the city schools, was the other honored instructor. He was elected president of the association. Considering the fact that South Omaha had no representative delegation in Lincoln the election of two officials was considered a great distinction.

School Bonds Carry. The Board of Education of South Omaha met to canvass the returns of the recent bond election last night. It was found that the bonds carried by several hundred majority. The vote for the bond issue of $20,000 was $21. The vote against the proposition was $60. The bonds will therefore be issued as early as possible and the money turned to the purchase of school sites and play grounds as well as for the manual training department of the South Omaha High school.

Sewer Contract Finished. The first of the big sewer contracts of the city of South Omaha has been completed. This is the north branch of the N street gully main sewer. The work has been in progress for a year. The final estimates for this work will probably be allowed at the next meeting of the city council. The Highland Park sewer will be completed this week. The N street gully sewer will be completed in the course of three months. Hannon & Craig have all these contracts.

St. Joseph Man Coming. Anton Fotic of St. Joseph has resigned his position as general bookkeeper of the Merchants bank. He was advanced in years and had been employed for many years. At the completion of his long and faithful service his employer gave him a gold watch and it is probable he will be retired on an allowance which will keep him comfortable. He was one of the pioneers of St. Joseph, but intends to become a resident of South Omaha, where he has a son, V. V. Fotic of the Livestock National bank, and a daughter, Mrs. E. J.
