

ONE OTHER TRAIN ROBBERY

De France Got Life, but Term Reduced to Fifteen Years.

ONLY ONE MAIL TRAIN RAIDED

Judge Baker Recalls Case of the Man He Prosecuted When Judge Dundy Was on the Bench.

There have been other train robberies in Nebraska during the last thirty or forty years, but this one for which five men have just been convicted, is the only one in which the United States mails have been thus interfered with.

The other mail robbery in this state where the accused party was brought to trial and sentenced was in the case of Ed De France, sentenced for life for robbing messenger at Gordon, along in 1892.

He was tried and convicted under one section of the United States statute that the Omaha robbers have just violated, which is a readiness of arraignment where the robber puts on having custody of the United States mails in jeopardy of his life.

De France and Two Boys. De France, with two boys, about 15 and 16, respectively, held up the mail carrier, carrying the mail from the postoffice at Gordon, at the pistol, held him up and then took the mail away from him.

Dundy's Death Prevents It. I suggested to Judge Dundy at the time that I would join in an application to the president to have De France's sentence reduced to five years on account of the smallness of the amount of money that he got from the robbery and Judge Dundy agreed to join in the application with me.

However, in my recommendation to President McKinley, while he refused to reduce the sentence to five years, he did reduce it to fifteen years.

De France has been out of jail now for many years and became a good citizen. I have lost track of him for many years.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12.—A warrant was issued today for the arrest of Miss Maude Geck, charged with being an accessory to the murder of R. D. Gannon, whose dead body was found on the roof of a ten-story building Sunday afternoon.

KEPT PRISONER BY AVIATOR

Whole Body Covered and Head So Bad She Could Not Comb Hair—Sight Affected—Neighbor Begged Her to Use Cuticura—It Cooled the Itching Flesh and Brought Rest, Sleep and a Perfect Cure

Words cannot express the awful skin disease I suffered with. My whole body was covered with it. My head broke out so that I could not comb my hair.

For a month or more I suffered with a terrible sore throat. When I should lie down at night my eyes would stick together and I would have to bathe them before opening them each morning.

I tried three doctors, but they gave me no relief and then I tried all kinds of things that I thought would do me good but I could find nothing. I was a perfect prisoner with the awful humor.

One of my neighbors begged me to try the Cuticura Remedy, and I made up my mind to try them but not thinking that I would ever be cured, I would take a hot bath with Cuticura Soap and then apply the Cuticura Ointment.

I found relief in a few days and in a month you could scarcely see a spot on my face. I felt like a new person. When I first began to use the Cuticura Remedies they cooled the itching flesh and brought me real good sleep and rest at night.

I had suffered fully two years with the skin disease but now I am a well woman and in good health. I beg every skin sufferer to use the Cuticura Remedies. I cannot praise Cuticura enough because I thought that I would never get well again.

Keeping the Hair

To prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, allay itching and irritation and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and occasional dressings with Cuticura are usually effective when all other methods fail.

Cuticura Soap (24c), Cuticura Ointment (30c), or Cuticura Tablets (50c), for 50 cents, sent by mail. Cuticura Soap and Ointment made by the Cuticura Remedies Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

here that Miss Geck is there. The warrant was sworn to by J. A. Stimmel, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, of which Gannon was a member.

PASSING OF THE BROOKLYN

Effective Warship in 1898, and Others, on Way to the Junk Heap.

A trifle over eleven years ago the cruiser Brooklyn, as the flagship of Admiral Schley, in the battle of Santiago led the van in the pursuit of the flying fleet of Admiral Cervera, and it was shot from its guns which did the greatest damage to the Spanish navy.

The Navy Department has ruled, however, that it was out of date, and it is allowed to go into decay, while a more modern and more expensive vessel will take its place in the line of the Atlantic squadron of the United States navy.

Junk dealers of the world have been suddenly elevated to a high place for the admiration of the people of activity. Any junk dealer may for a day at least win more fame in the public print than the discoverer of the North pole and a great name than the conqueror of a disease.

The Turkish government has appealed to the junk dealers to come to that troubled country and buy and take away five battleships that are good for nothing but the scrap heap.

Incidentally American iron and steel manufacturers are also invited to make bids for the second-hand stuff. Also, incidentally, the world is reminded that battleships are big heaps of scrap most of the time.

These five have been owned by the Turkish government for a long time, some of them since 1864, but they have been good for nothing as fighting craft for many years. They have been listed as the Turkish navy and have been one of the great bluffs of the red devil who was knocked off the throne a few months ago.

FIGHT WITH A WILD BOAR

With Only a Small Hatchet Hunter Succeeds in Killing Fierce Beast.

John Benham, an Adirondack guide, who won distinction for several years in canoe paddling contests in sportsmen's shows in New York, had a thrilling fight with a wild boar a few days ago at Big Tupper lake.

He succeeded in killing the beast with a woodman's hatchet only after a fight that threatened to end his own life. The boar was one of a horde imported from the Black Forest and placed in an inclosure near Big Tupper lake.

Benham, who lives in Saranac lake, has a hunting camp on one of the smaller lakes. One day recently he went to Tupper lake on business. He did not take his rifle, as he had to carry his canoe several times during the eighteen-mile journey and did not wish to be hampered with the weapon.

While carrying his canoe over one carry near Big Tupper lake, Benham saw a couple of young fawns lying on the ground. He laid the canoe down and went over to where they were. Both were dead. Proceeding a little farther, he found their mother, who had just died defending her fawns, and had just died.

Benham heard a noise in the bushes and turned just in time to avoid a wild boar that rushed at him. Benham stepped quickly aside, drawing his hatchet from his belt. The boar turned with remarkable agility and again rushed at the guide, who once more sidestepped.

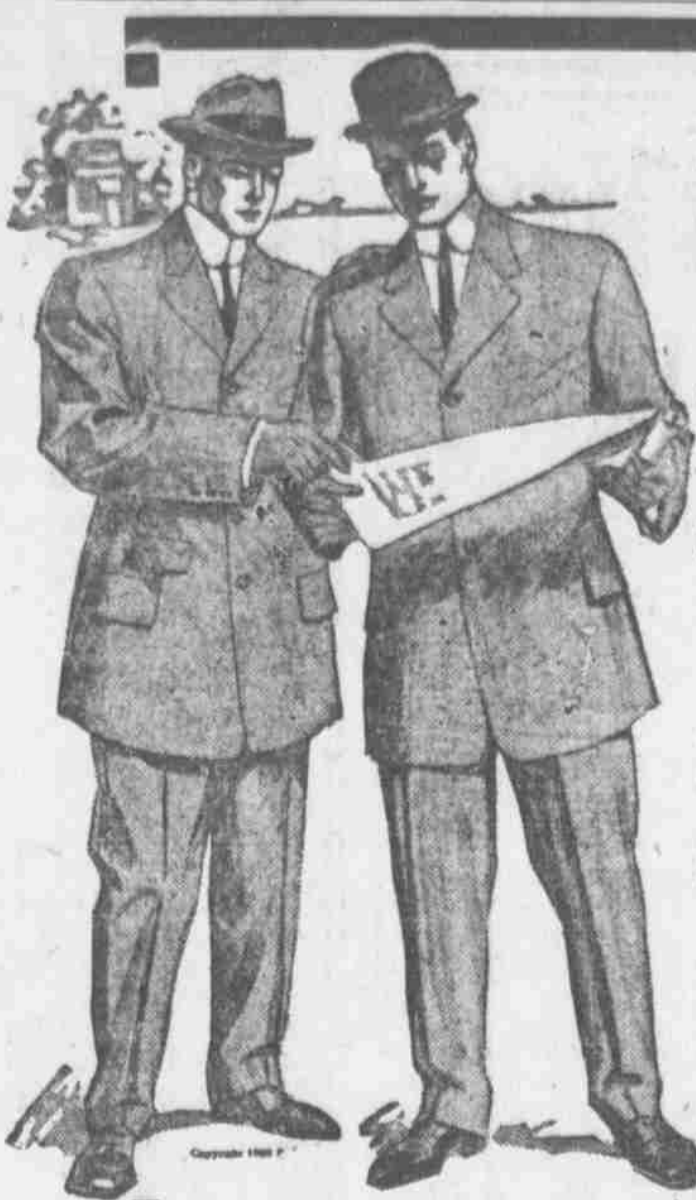

As the boar rushed past him Benham struck him with the hatchet, drawing blood, but doing him no permanent injury. The wound seemed to infuriate the brute and his attack were renewed with startling vigor and swiftness.

Geneva Misses Laundry. GENEVA, Neb., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—On complaint of the waste water nuisance at the City Electric laundry and the city council taking up the case, Mrs. Charles W. Shockey decided to give up the business rather than to go into a legal fight.

Unless some party buys the business and removes it to a proper location, Geneva will be without a laundry for the first time in many years.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE

Markets Are Being Readjusted to Higher Prices Prevailing.

STEEL TRADE IS SLACKENING

Good Reports Come from Nearly All Retail and Wholesale Dry Goods Centers—Good Trade in Leather.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say: Further progress is made in the readjustment of the markets to the higher prices which are inevitable in a period of big gold production, reviving industry and active speculation.

While some slackening of demand is reported in a few departments of iron and steel, this is not surprising in view of the recent pace at which consumption was expanded. In other lines, however, greater activity is reflected and practically all mills find it increasingly difficult to make deliveries.

The recent quiet in the structural division has been followed by the appearance of several important contracts, and it is estimated that new projects contemplated will call for over 10,000 tons of steel. Buying of rails is well maintained, much of the business extending into next year, and orders for bridge steel are being placed. Activity in pig iron is centered chiefly in the east, but demand continues brisk in all leading centers.

The break and subsequent recovery in the cotton market served to make buyers more cautious, but at the same time led manufacturers of cotton goods to be more free in discussing terms of new contracts. Prices are being adjusted steadily to the higher cost of production. Higher prices on linings, openings of knit goods for the fall season, the preliminary shipments of men's wear samples for fall and a continuation of good reports from jobbers and retail centers were some of the important features of the dry goods week.

Footwear conditions continue to improve and trade in all varieties is more general and of large volume. The price question still restricts trade to some extent, but buyers are becoming broader in their views. Shipments from Boston show a slight increase over former years, and are also larger for the year to date than during the corresponding year of 1908.

SOME LAW FOR HIGH FLYERS

Airships Are Trespassing When in Flight, According to Blackstones.

When the railway, the telegraph and the telephone began to come into general use a new lot of special laws, born of the changed conditions that these great inventions brought about, sprang into existence.

Now, to meet the new conditions that have arisen from the solving of the problem of aerial navigation, it seems more than probable that before long the laws of civilized countries will have to be modified in many respects. The first hint of this has just come from a recent lawsuit in a London court, in which it was decided that an aeronaut could be held for trespass on a man's property simply because he passed over it in a balloon.

The balloonist's grappling iron did a little damage in this case and the owner of the property got judgment for $125. Balloons or aeroplanes passing over land at a great height without letting more than their shadows fall upon it cause no injury to the property beneath, yet, according to the laws as they now stand, they are guilty of trespass.

Until these laws are changed any man who has a grudge against an aviator can undoubtedly start a lawsuit against him for flying over his property, and get damages. "This legal view of the case is sound," said a New York attorney yesterday, when questioned in regard to the matter. "It is all based on Blackstone's ancient dictum, which is one of the corner stones of real estate law in America and England."

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE THEATERS

Every line of the new play, "The Man from Home," which is to be seen at the Burwood this afternoon and evening, was written on the beautiful terrace of the Hotel Regina, Margherita at Sorrento, Italy.

A rare distinction, and one bespeaking high praise, is accorded Will M. Cressy and Blanch Payne in the extension of their engagement for the second week at the Orpheum. Next week they will offer for a change of program one of their most pronounced successes, "Bill Birfin's Baby."

The attraction at the Burwood Sunday matinee and night will be William Macaulay in "The Little Homestead," a delightfully refreshing and sweetly simple story of New England life, with strong situations and an abundance of the other requisites which go to make up a wholesome and interesting play.
