was deemed essential. In addressing the Republic State's Attorney Eckhart of Bureau said: "I want you men to consider the gravity of this situation, to comprehend the feelings of these poor people and to explain to them the necessity for perfect order."

"If anyone attempts to break through the line explain and argue in a gentle, manly way. Do all you can to dissuade them and under no circumstances resort to violence or lose your temper. Should occasion require it call for assistance." The deputies were stationed around the enclosure, waited with humanity.

"I'm ready," said Inspector Taylor as he tucked on his helmet. Williams and James also stood prepared in the shaft cage.

"Are the signals understood?" asked Newham of his assistants, who nodded assent. The automobile horns carried by the explorers which were to give the signals, were tested.

"Let go," shouted Newham, and the cage was lowered. Down deep it went, until the bottom was reached, the signals were soon received for an ascent.

Several thousand people leaned forward eagerly as the experts emerged from the shaft. A conference with the officials followed and a report was spread that bodies had been found. This later was denied by the investigators.

A few minutes later the cage was lowered again. This time the horns tooted signals frequently to the men above. The cage was raised and lowered alternately until eventually the bottom of the shaft was reached. Prolonged anxiety was intense.

No signal came. It was apparent that something important had been discovered. Fifteen minutes passed and the exploration continued. Then the blast of the horn signalling the ascent echoed through the shaft. Slowly the cage was raised.

Nobody living or dead. This time the explorers reported that they had been walking in one of the veins of the mine for 150 feet from the base of the shaft and that they had found no living man or dead body.

INSANE PART OF EACH YEAR

James White of Jasper County, Iowa, Makes Annual Trip to Asylum.

THREE MONTHS SPENT THERE

Marshalltown Men Demur to Indictment Charging Them with Throwing Federal Officers in Jail.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—James White, a prosperous farmer living in Jasper county, was arrested here for insanity and taken to the state hospital. His case purported to be one of the queerest on record. He was klocked in the head thirty-five years ago and so injured that he became insane. He is sane for about nine months out of each year and then for three months it is necessary to keep him confined. His insanity is said to recur each year near the anniversary of his injury. His wife has managed the farm and each year has him sent to the hospital for three months and each year his home coming is made the occasion for a joyful reunion of the family. This time his insanity developed a little ahead of time.

Attorneys for Mayor Ingelous of Marshalltown and four members of his police force today filed in federal court demurrers to the indictments against them and asked that the cases be ended because there is said to be no such crime as that described in the indictments. They were accused of obstructing an officer, having thrown some federal officials into jail because of a riot at a saloon incident to an effort to secure evidence of illegal sales of liquor. It is expected the cases which will be heard this week will be of great interest because of the prominence of all persons.

Constable Pierson Raids the Windsor

Anti-Saloon League Secretary Was Instigator of Raid—Two Men Arrested.

As the result of a raid at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon led by officers of the Anti-Saloon League and Constable H. D. Pierson, two wagon loads of gambling paraphernalia were secured from the alleged gambling rooms of Dick Berlin in the Windsor hotel, Tenth and Jackson streets. Two men, alleged dealers, were taken into custody. Between fifteen and twenty other men caught in the raid were let go.

The anti-saloon delegation was led by Harry A. Stone, secretary of the league, who immediately afterwards dispatched a telegram to Governor Shallenberger, telling of the successful haul. The charge is made to the governor that the Berlin place has been run wide open since early in September.

When Constable Pierson and the anti-saloon league entered the alleged gambling den they found the room crowded. Although actual gambling was not in progress, having already declared, been stopped but a few minutes. As evidence of this he cites the fact that the money drawers were well filled with currency and chips were lying in plenty.

The booty secured in the raid consisted of a roulette wheel, faro bank, card tables, two pillow cases of various colored chips, many decks of cards and considerable currency and a little silver.

The men arrested were Billy Donnelly and C. E. Silvers. It was at first intended to arrest everyone in the place, but there being so many of them a decision was reached to allow all to depart excepting the two named above.

Natives May Share Rule in India

New Constitution Giving Them Voice in Legislation Goes Into Effect.

SIMLA, British East India, Nov. 15.—The plan for the reform of the British administration of India, which was outlined by Lord Morley, secretary of state for India in the House of Lords last December, and which is designed to give India an embryo constitution admitting the natives to an important share in the legislation of the country, came into effect today.

The bulk of these lands is in Alaska. Approximately 100,000,000 acres of public land are now included in the national forests, and to care for them properly costs a great deal of money, the appropriation for the current fiscal year for that purpose amounting to $424,000.

WILSON ASKS FOREST FUNDS

Four Hundred Thousand Dollars Needed for Alaska Reserve.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Four hundred thousand dollars, in the judgment of Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, will be necessary to administer properly the 25,000,000 acres of public lands set aside to national forests by President Roosevelt during the last six weeks of the Roosevelt administration.

SUGAR CHARGES ARE DENIED

Former Secretary Resents Story that He Hampered Investigation.

MOTIVE BACK OF REPORT

Former Inspector Parr Wishes Share of Reward Offered for Detection of Crime—Not Eligible Under Ruling of Mr. Reynolds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—James B. Reynolds, formerly assistant secretary of the tariff board, today declared that there never had been any attempt on the part of the so-called "sugar trust" to influence any action of his and no influences had been issued by him having any object in view beyond good administration and fair dealing to all concerned.

Mr. Reynolds' statements were made as the result of publications to the effect that the treasury department under the administration of President Roosevelt displayed apparent indifference in procuring evidence in connection with alleged "sugar trust" frauds and that Richard Parr, a special agent of the department in his investigation had encountered obstacles from the outset.

"It should be remembered," Mr. Reynolds said, "that it was while I was assistant secretary of the treasury that the investigation of the sugar trust was made and the trial held, which resulted in the conviction of the company in court. During all the time I held that office there never was to my knowledge a single effort made to influence my judgment in any way by the sugar trust."

"So far as I know, the first specific information in regard to such fraud was in September, 1907, when a letter came from a New York man stating that he could prove that the government was being swindled. I at once wrote to him that the department would be glad to do anything in its power to see that such a condition of affairs as you describe is stopped. It was once, and if once in guilty anywhere along the line, to see that there is proper punishment."

"The gentleman who sent the letter came to the department later and gave information which was at once sent to the special officers at New York for investigation."

"There is one thing to keep in mind in order to give proper weight to the statements that have been made. Mr. Parr is now and has been for some time a claimant for a share of the $2,000,000 turned over to the department by the sugar trust. A rule which I made as assistant secretary, and which I rigidly enforced, stood between him and the money reward he desires for his services as a government agent."

"Mr. Parr knows that should the orders be rescinded in this particular case he would still be compelled to prove that he was the original informant on which the department acted in making investigation, with the subsequent results. He naturally does not minimize, to say the least, his own part in the proceedings."

to have been had with Shipp. "The people of Hamilton county were willing to let the law take its course until it became known that the case would not probably be disposed of for four or five years by the supreme court of the United States," it quoted Shipp as saying. "But the people would not submit to this, and I do not wonder at it."

Shipp guilty said that this reference to "people" of Hamilton county was a candidate for election and had been told that his saving the prisoner from the first attempt to mob him would cost him his place, and he had answered that he wished the mob had got him before he did."

The court held that Gibson must have believed a mob would attack the jail the night Johnson was lynched, but although he was in charge of the jail more than two hours before its arrival, he made no effort to summon assistance to repel the attack. The testimony of Mrs. Baker, a white prisoner, to the effect that Gibson told her before the mob arrived that it was coming for her to go to her cell, was referred to.

Williams and Nolan participated in the lynching, the court held upon the strength of direct testimony to that effect. Statements made by Parr and Mayes were held as evidence of their guilt.

Kansas City Man Held Guilty of Wrongful Use of Mails.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15.—John C. Humes, president of the defunct Humes Crockery company of this city, one of the largest concerns of the kind in the west, with branches in a dozen western and southern cities, was convicted in the federal court on the charge of using the mails to defraud. He will be sentenced later.

Humes' first serious financial trouble began when Edward J. Richards, a long time friend, sued him for $100,000 for the alleged falsification of checks of Mrs. Richards. This was followed by the bankruptcy of the firm and a federal grand jury indicted him. Humes then disappeared for several weeks. He was finally located at Birmingham, Ala., where he was arrested.
