WANTED-Girl to do general house-work; good wages. Apply XYZ, this of-

This advertisement ran for at least a week in a big daily, which had a circulation of over 40,000, without bringing in a single reply.

The man who wrote the advertisement was a business man, and the paper that ran the classified advertisement had up with him at that very time the question of display space for his business advertising. Naturally the prospect of landing it was

The advertising manager of the paper called on the man and was told that he, the business man, had good evidence that advertising, in that paper at least, would not pay him, the "Help Wanted" ad being cited as evidence. A copy of the advertisement was shown to the newspaperman, who said he knew what the trouble was and offered to bet the contract that not one but a dozen replies could be had through his papers.

The advertisement was rewritten in this fashion;

WANTED-Neat, capable girl for maid in family of two; no washing; large, bunny, private room and good wages. Apply XYZ, this office.

The day following the insertion of the advertisement twenty-seven replies were received. The faith of the business man in advertising was restored and, needless to say, the paper got the display contract.

Announcement!

Owing to the fact that I have left the railroad service and entered into commercial business, I wish to announce that I have disposed of my interests in the steamship business to W. E. Bock, Passanger and Steamship Agent, C. M. & St. P. Ry., 1824 Farnam Street, Omaha, and bespeak for him the patronage and good will shown to me in the past.
