

MODEL THANKSGIVING MENUS

Good Things to Eat and How to Prepare Them.

TIPS FROM SOME CONNOISSEURS

Dishes Suggested by Women Who Know How to Please the Palate of the Most Fastidious Epicures.

There is no menu of the entire year to which the housewife devotes the care and the preliminary attention that she gives that of the Thanksgiving dinner. In the olden days it was the feast day of the year and in proportion as the family had prospered the Thanksgiving dinner was abundant. Preparation began days before and the consequences were often felt for days after. With the advent of scientific cookery has come a new order of things and the table no longer "groans" under a burden of viands that exceeds even the inclination of the family. In place of this the modern housewife provides an abundance, but she has a thought for the stomachs as well as the palates of her family, and the result is a much more satisfactory meal from every standpoint.

Luxurious Bust Easily Obtained

French Method is Explained For The First Time to American Women By Madame Du Barrie

"How to obtain a luxurious bust development seems to be little understood in this country," says Madame Du Barrie. "The French method on the contrary, is much more effective, the results more prompt, and the bust becomes more firm, symmetrical and luxurious than by any other method known."

HOBBED AND NEARLY DROWNED

Tramp Then Finds, After Several Days, Jaw is Broken.

LE BEAU, S. D., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Beaten up, robbed and thrown into the river by a companion is the experience of John Nolan, who tramped into this city with icicles hanging from his worn and tattered clothing. His story to the authorities seemed too preposterous to believe, but as the man was sorely in need of assistance he was allowed to sleep in the jail and given some light work to do. Today the man told the marshal he was in such pain he could not work. His face was badly swollen and he asked permission to rest. He was taken to a physician, whose examination disclosed the fact that Nolan was suffering from a fractured jaw. The lower part of the jawbone hangs limply and the man speaks only with the greatest difficulty. He was given immediate treatment and sent to the prison, where there are better facilities for a surgical case of this character. Nolan refuses to tell where his home is.

It isn't healthy to stuff so with some chickens or a turkey—a nice dressing and cranberry sauce, turnips, sweet potatoes and gravy—a nice dinner snuff. Then while we eat apples and nuts for a finish, let some one of the company tell of the origin of this national holiday and why our hearts are filled with thanksgiving for the blessings continually enjoyed.

Such a dinner, properly eaten, should leave us in a condition to enjoy another the next day and continue to have a feeling of thankfulness in our hearts for the gift of life. MRS. W. G. WHITMORE, President Nebraska Home Economics Association, Valley, Neb.

For four medium sized potatoes use one cup sugar and one-eighth pound butter.

WICKERSHAM ON COMMERCE

Attorney General Discusses Rate-Making—Anti-Trust Laws.

AMENDMENTS IN LAW NEEDED

Special Court Should Be Created and Commission Should Have Power to Suspend New Rates for Thirty Days.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19.—Modification of the interstate commerce act, in order to secure reasonableness of rates to all and fairness of practices in the operation of interstate railroad lines, was suggested by Attorney General George W. Wickersham in an address here tonight at the annual banquet of the Commercial club, given in commemoration of the signing of the John Jay commercial treaty.

Mr. Wickersham responded to the toast, "The Interstate Commerce Commission." Other guests were Charles S. Denison, governor of Illinois, who spoke on "Inland Waterways," and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York City, who spoke on "Municipal Reform."

Mr. Wickersham said that one of the fundamental objections urged to the present organization and function of the Interstate Commerce commission is that it contains legislative, administrative and quasi-judicial functions. The present system, he said, involved constant reversal by courts of orders by the commission, conflict of decisions between the different courts and much uncertainty in the law. Other objections which have been made were mentioned.

"The president," said Mr. Wickersham, in a speech delivered at Des Moines, Ia., in September last, enumerated certain suggestions which have been made to meet these objections. For the purpose of preventing the conflict of decisions and of appeals of the United States with respect to the enforcement or review of orders and decrees of the Interstate Commerce commission; and that all applications for injunctions to restrain orders of the commission be heard by all the judges of the court, whose orders and decrees shall be final, except that an appeal may be taken to the supreme court of the United States from final decrees in cases where a constitutional question is involved. For the purpose of removing the commission from the position of prosecutor or litigant it is proposed that all proceedings to enforce or defend orders of the Interstate Commerce commission shall be conducted by the Department of Justice.

"The further suggestions are that the interstate commerce act be amended, as follows: 'By providing that the commission be specifically empowered to review classifications, both as to item and grouping. 'By providing that whenever a new rate or classification shall be filed the commission may by order postpone the date when it is to take effect, provided that, within thirty days after the date of such order (a) a complaint can be filed that such rate or classification is unreasonable or unjust or (b) the commission itself shall institute an inquiry into the reasonableness or justice of such rate or classification. 'By providing that the commission may

By order suspended, modify or annul any changes in rules or regulations which impose undue burdens on shippers. 'By providing that the commission may proceed either on its own motion or upon complaint filed with it and that in proceeding on its own initiative it may exercise like powers to those which it may exercise in proceedings based on complaints of third parties. 'By specifically empowering the commission, on the application of one carrier or of an individual, or at the instance of the commission itself, to compel connecting carriers to unite in forming a through route and fix the rate and the apportionment thereof among the carriers. 'By providing that it shall be lawful for carriers to unite in fixing a rate or rates, provided the same be filed and published; the question of the reasonableness and justice of such rate to be subject to the other provisions of the act in like manner as any other filed and published rate; the agreement, however, not to amount to a contract to maintain the rate for any given time, but each party to have the right, independently of the other, at any time, to withdraw from or alter such rate in conformity with the other provisions of the statute. The purpose of this provision is to protect the carriers from the penalties of making an agreement to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman act. 'By specifically empowering the commission to prescribe rules and regulations under which shippers shall have the privilege of designating the route over which their shipments shall be carried to destination. Penalty for Wrong Rate. 'By providing that an agent of a railroad company shall be compelled, on written request, to state in writing the legal rate over the line of the carrier, including any joint rate to which such carrier is a party, and imposing a fine as a penalty for stating an erroneous rate in pursuance of such request. 'By providing that after the passage of the amending act no railroad company shall acquire stock in any competing railroad company; and possibly, that from and after some date to be fixed in the act, no railroad company engaged in inter-

Many specimens far excel those now offered for sale in the eastern cities at much higher prices. The lecture will be held in our Oriental Rug Department at 2 p. m. Don't Experiment With Old-Fashioned Hair Dyes. I Want to Prove the Truth at My Expense. If your hair is partly gray or faded, just tell me in a letter. Then I will send you, without charge, a clear, pure liquid—enough for you to completely restore the original color to a lock of your hair. And so that you may apply it easily, I'll send you a special fine toothed comb, also free. Each application will bring back a little of the color to the gray hair in a mild, beautiful manner until in a few days every gray hair will be restored to its original color—a color which will be especially pleasing to the eye because of its natural appearance. Then to test the color, take the lock of hair and wash it in any way you wish—even curl it with a hot iron. Give it the most severe test you can, and you will find that the color is in the hair through and through, and really is lasting and natural. But don't confuse this preparation for an instant with the troublesome Two Bottle Dyes, or the poisonous sugar-of-lead preparations having the thick, heavy sediment. They are greasy, sticky and disgusting to use, and rub off on everything they touch. If you will make this test on a lock of hair at my expense, you will know that my preparation is as different from everything else of its kind as day is from night. It is revolutionary in its scientific perfection. I am going to great expense to prove this. The sample is free, the comb is free, and I even pay postage. If I knew of any fairer way to prove my claims, I would do it. This free trial offer is made for a short time only, so attend to the matter at once. Address your postal or letter to Mary T. Goldman, St. Paul Minn. Please state plainly when your hair started to turn gray and what color it was. SHERMAN & McCONNELL DRUG CO., 16th & Farnam Streets, Omaha.
