Exploration of Second Vein Shows that Portions of Many Tunnels Have Collapsed.

ONE MAN TAKEN OUT ALIVE DIES

Total Number of Survivors is Now Reduced to Nineteen.

RESCUE PARTY IS OUT

Twenty-five Men Who Had Been Stopped Temporarily by Fire

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 23.—Here might still be alive some of the men known to be entombed in the mine was practically abandoned today.

An exploration into what is known as the second vein, where it was thought probable many miners had barricaded themselves and had managed to exist on oats and corn provided for the mine showed that great portions of the tunnels had collapsed.

"What little hope we had was given up when we penetrated to what is called the overcast," said W. Taylor, general manager of the mine.

"Two men were seen to run from the vicinity of the building two minutes before the explosion.

"The blast shook every building and residence in the downtown section. Hundreds of people were aroused, believing there had been an earthquake.

One Survivor Dies. Meantime Cherry continues to be a village of mourning. The death today of one of the survivors brought to the surface last Saturday reduced the total number of those saved out of the 110 lost in the disaster, to nineteen.

Down in the mine the rescuers met with great obstacles. In one instance fire broke out in a tunnel, temporarily cutting off the escape of twenty-five men who had returned 400 feet from the hoisting shaft.

Following a telegram sent to Governor Vandenberg by the executive board of the miners' organization asking that some one be designated by the state to take charge of the mine, Mine Inspector Hector McAllister was placed in charge.

Second Gallery Blocked. Fire in the second gallery resulted today in heavy cavings of earth, blocking the rescue work to the east. In this section will be the best chance of finding survivors.

It is found that the passage is so badly blocked that it will be impossible for many days to make an entrance. Meanwhile men now alive may starve. The news spread gloom throughout the village, relieved only by the faint prospects of exploring the 500 foot or bottom shaft.

After experiencing all the terrors of his long imprisonment and the joy of being brought to the surface alive, David Holschek, one of the twenty survivors rescued Saturday, died today. Death was due to general exhaustion.

Pure Air in Lower Vein. At midnight yesterday boy miners had forced their way into the vein, preventing the way for a rush of their comrades to the same vein gallery. They degraded the air in the gallery stagnant, but capable of sustaining life, the water but a few inches deep and all indications favorable to the prolonging of life to those imprisoned in the depth.

The youths, Robert McFadden and Barney Dougherty, had scarcely emerged from the shaft when things were spread that the fire in the second vein had broken out anew.

All preparations for the further exploring of the vein were halted while Chicago firemen attacked the blaze which threatened the main shaft. The contest with the fire continued several hours, during which the rescuers threw themselves on coils, blankets, or the floor of the boiler house to be awakened when all was ready for them to descend.

That scores of men are alive in the lower level was the almost unanimous assertion of miners who listened to the story of McFadden and Dougherty. The two penetrated 120 feet into the vein and shouted, but no response came. Then they hurried back to the cage. "There is no reason why they shouldn't be alive," said Dougherty.

After learning that the lower shaft contained air, not too impure to sustain life, the hope of those above was increased in mighty measure. Many reasons were advanced to show that the men still may be alive.

Passengers on Steamship in New York Declare Nourmahal is in Harbor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The steam yacht Nourmahal, with Colonel John Jacob Astor on board, arrived at San Juan, P. R., from Mayaguez, on Sunday, November 14, and was still there on the evening of November 17. All were well on board and the Nourmahal was planning to leave soon for Ponce and from there to some Cuban port before its departure north.

These tidings of the Nourmahal's safety were brought here by the Insular life steamer Harry Luckenbach, which arrived this afternoon from Porto Rican ports.

The news brought here by the Luckenbach makes it positive that no harm came to the yacht in the storm earlier in the month.

The Nourmahal has by this time probably proceeded to Ponce, where it would have been reported had cable communication been re-established to that point.

OIL COMBINE MAKES ITS PLANS

General Solicitor Announces that Corporation Will Not Seek Amendment of Sherman Law.

IS PERFECTING ITS APPEAL

No Further Steps Until Court Says the Last Word.

NO FOREIGN HOLDING COMPANY

Mr. Elliott Says Plan Suggested is Not Practicable.

FURTHER DISCUSSION OF DECREE

He Thinks There is No Reason to Fear Any Forced Liquidation of the Securities of Any Subsidiary Companies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Reports, rumors and legal propaganda to the contrary, the Standard Oil company announced authoritatively today that it had no intention of seeking to procure an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, but will proceed with the appeal to the United States supreme court, which as already announced through Mortimer P. Elliott, its general solicitor, is to be taken from the decree of the United States circuit court at St. Paul. Until the supreme court has rendered a decision, the company will consider no other plan of doing business than the method now in use.

Mr. Elliott's authority for the foregoing. He discussed the case with a representative of the Associated Press at the Standard Oil building, 25 Broadway, this afternoon, after a conference with William G. Rockefeller and John D. Archbold.

"There is to be no effort on the part of the company to procure an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law," said Mr. Elliott. "We shall await the verdict of the supreme court before we take any steps looking toward either re-organization of a new statement of our case to the public. The court has first rights.

No Foreign Holding Company. "It seems highly improbable to me that there will ever be a foreign holding company organized as you tell me has been suggested. The complexity of control exercised by the several states shows too many difficulties in the way.

"Such comment on the case as I have seen misses the fact that the Standard Oil company is not a holding company pure and simple as the Northern Securities company. For instance, it owns outright at Payne, N. J., the largest refinery in the world. There is nothing in the decree to prevent the company from continuing to do business although I admit that it makes doing business more cumbersome.

"Although the decree enjoins the Standard Oil company from voting its share holdings in subsidiary companies or receiving dividends from them, there is no reason why the individual holders, among whom such shares would be divided under the decree, should not elect their own officers in the subsidiary companies and receive their own dividends from those companies. A proxy system among our 6,000 shareholders would certainly be no more unmanageable than the same system as now used by railroads and industrial companies with, say 50,000 shareholders.

No Fear of Liquidation. "In brief, there is no cause for the market to fear a forced liquidation of the securities the Standard Oil company now holds. I disagree with the gentlemen who think a redistribution is necessary, other than of the sort I outlined in my first statement."

Mr. Elliott in that statement said he understood the court to order that the Standard Oil holdings in subsidiary companies be apportioned among Standard Oil share owners in ratio to their holdings in the parent company.

DE ARMOND BURNED IN HOME

Congressman from Missouri and Grandson Victims of Flames.

BOTH TRAPPED IN BEDROOM Mrs. De Armond Has Narrow Escape and Son Almost Loses His Life in an Effort to Rescue Father.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—Representative David A. De Armond, one of the democratic members of congress, and his grandson, Waddie De Armond, aged 5 years, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the De Armond home at Butler, Mo., early today.

Bones believed to be those of the congressman were found by searchers in the ruins this morning. It is believed both congressman and the boy were burned to death without being able to leave their rooms.

The other occupants of the house at the time of the fire escaped. They are Mrs. De Armond and Mrs. Hattie Clark, wife and daughter, respectively, of the congressman, and a woman servant.

Mrs. Clark suffered a slight burn to one hand. Mrs. Clark believes that her father sacrificed his life in a heroic effort to save his grandson. She thinks that Congressman De Armond was aroused in time to save himself, but that in awakening the boy and attempting to carry him from danger he became confused in the smoke, which was momentarily growing denser, and was overcome before he was able to find the way out.

The fire started at about 4 o'clock in the morning. The De Armond home was a large frame structure, set well back from the street. On two sides of the house, equal with the second floor, four rooms, or outdoor sleeping apartments, had been constructed, and at the time the fire broke out the occupants of the house occupied these rooms.

Congressman De Armond and his young grandson occupied one room on the south side of the building, while Mrs. De Armond and Mrs. Clark were in separate rooms on the opposite side of the house. Nettie Holes, 20 years old, a servant girl, had a cry and the west end of the house.

Mrs. Clark was awakened by a rory and, going to the door, saw smoke issuing from the part of the house where Congressman De Armond and Waddie slept.

Heard Voices Through Flame. "Get me out of here," she heard Waddie cry. "Never mind, son; I'll save you," Congressman De Armond answered.

Those were the last words either victim uttered. A moment later the smoke increased in great volume and Mrs. Clark fled downstairs to the telephone. Within a minute she had given the alarm to the telephone office and hurried back to the room of her mother.

By this time the entire second floor was flooded with smoke and flames were leaping from the windows. Groping her way to Mrs. De Armond's bedside she hurriedly awakened the congressman's wife and dragged her from the room.

There was no time to think of aiding the others. Urging her mother down the stairway the younger woman with difficulty succeeded in reaching the street door and opening it. The two had scarcely reached the ground when Mrs. De Armond fainted and it was necessary to carry her from the scene to save her from the flames.

By this time the entire second floor was flooded with smoke and flames were leaping from the windows. Groping her way to Mrs. De Armond's bedside she hurriedly awakened the congressman's wife and dragged her from the room.

The flames by this time entirely enveloped the big house, shooting from every window, and to have entered the building would have been certain death. James De Armond, however, dashed for the front door, frantic in an effort to save his father and the boy. He had already been lost in a cloud of smoke before neighbors could get to him and prevent his entering the street.

Alone in Bank, He Attracts Passers-by by Throwing Shoe Through Window.

Lake Steamer Helpless in Heavy Storm Near Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The steamer Puritan, which lost its rudder in yesterday's storm and after perilous hours in which it was dragging anchors, drifted down the east coast of Lake Michigan to a point off New Buffalo, Ind., where the anchors held, rode out the night safely and today it was expected, would be towed into Chicago harbor, which it left twenty-four hours ago.

In the night the heavy winds died down and the waves subsided in some degree so that, although there is a heavy swell running, there is believed to be little danger to the crew and passengers of the vessel.

Captain Carlund of the Chicago Life Saving station, remained on duty through the night with the crew which braved the storm yesterday in a trip to the stranded freighter, Boston, off Wilmette, fifteen miles north of the city harbor. On the

CURTIS TO AID MACVEAGH

Boston Man is Appointed Assistant Secretary of Treasury.

MORE CUSTOMS HOUSE GOSSIP Statement from Washington that Successor to General Clarkson Will Be Man Recommended by Senator Root.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—James Freeman Curtis of Boston, now United States district attorney and once intercollegiate golf champion of the United States, has been chosen assistant secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Curtis is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1891. His appointment is in some respects similar to that of Lee McClung, United States treasurer. Mr. McClung gained fame in college as a halfback on the Yale gridiron. Mr. Curtis now practices as a champion on the intercollegiate golf links. Mr. Curtis is an old friend of Secretary MacVeagh, has often visited Dublin, N. H., where the summer home of Secretary MacVeagh is located, having friends among Mr. MacVeagh's neighbors.

He has practiced law since setting his degree from Harvard. He was assistant attorney general of Massachusetts under Attorney General Malone, and resigned to become assistant to United States District Attorney Hill. Mr. Curtis' appointment was decided upon some time ago, but announcement was deferred because of his engagement with what are known as the steel combination cases in Boston to which Mr. Curtis has devoted the last few weeks. These cases involve charges of combination of bidders for municipal contracts.

Mr. Curtis is unmarried and is about 33 years old, which, as secretary MacVeagh expressed it, is a little older than Alexander Hamilton was when he became secretary of the treasury. He will take charge of his new duties next week.

Parr Will Not Succeed Clarkson. Collector Loeb of New York left for home today, after concluding his conferences with President Taft and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and other officials here regarding the customs conditions at his port. Mr. Loeb took luncheon with Mr. MacVeagh and had an opportunity to go over the matter in detail with him at that time. The names of Richard Parr, chief of the weighers' division of the New York customs house, and of George W. Aldrich, collector of New York, have been mentioned in connection with the surveynership of the port of New York, which will be vacated by General J. S. Clarkson on January 1, but it can be stated authoritatively that neither one of these men are to be considered.

KNOX WORKING ON NICARAGUA CASE

Department Having Trouble in Fixing Political Status of Americans Shot by Zelaya.

VICE CONSUL IS ASKED FOR FACTS

Were Men Planting Mines on Their Own Responsibility.

NAVY DEPARTMENT IS READY

Marines Can Be Sent South Any Time After Tomorrow.

SALVADOR ARMY IS ACTIVE

Rumor that Government is Preparing to Invade Nicaragua—Number of Americans Reported Missing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The delay on the part of the United States in taking any action with respect to the killing by order of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, of the two Americans, Grove and Cannon, is developed today as occasioned by the inability of the government up to this time to fix the exact status in Nicaragua of the slain men.

It was explained today that every effort was being made through government agencies to determine whether these men were in fact, members of the revolutionary army or whether they were acting on their own responsibility at the time they were captured. If it can be proven, as seems very doubtful, that they were really responsible for planting of mines for the purpose of blowing up troop ships of the Nicaraguan coast is occasioned by the inability of the government up to this time to fix the exact status in Nicaragua of the slain men.

It was explained today that every effort was being made through government agencies to determine whether these men were in fact, members of the revolutionary army or whether they were acting on their own responsibility at the time they were captured. If it can be proven, as seems very doubtful, that they were really responsible for planting of mines for the purpose of blowing up troop ships of the Nicaraguan coast is occasioned by the inability of the government up to this time to fix the exact status in Nicaragua of the slain men.

The American vice consul at Nicaragua, Henry Caldera, has been instructed to obtain a plausible information on the subject and it is believed that other agencies have also been employed for the same purpose and until this information is received it is extremely doubtful if the United States will take any steps looking to the chastisement of Zelaya beyond putting itself in a position to act promptly should occasion require it.

It is believed that plans for the concentration of warships and marines on the Nicaraguan coast will continue and it may be that this show of force will have a marked effect in stimulating the energies and hopes of the revolutionists and result in large accessions to their army from the disaffected portions of the country led by Zelaya's army.

Navy Department is Ready to Act. The Navy department is preparing for any eventuality in Nicaragua. Overtone work has resulted in putting the troop ship Prairie, now at the Philadelphia navy yard, in a condition to sail at any moment after Thursday of this week, which is expected to be immediately available for transportation to Nicaragua. If necessary, this number can be increased within a few hours' notice to 700 or even 800.

It is known that the naval officers are hourly in expectation of receiving orders to direct the Prairie to sail and they would not be in the least surprised if other warships were ordered to the Nicaraguan coast.

Since prevailed at the State department today, Secretary Knox and Assistant Secretary Wilson are particularly expert in and Assistant Secretary Adze stated that nothing had been received by the department that changed the Nicaraguan status in any degree.

At the end of a two hour and a half session of the cabinet today, it was announced that neither the Nicaraguan situation, the Standard Oil decision, nor the sugar tariff situation in New York had been considered.

Salvador May Take Part. NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—A dispatch from Port Limon, Costa Rica, says that passengers arriving at Punta Arenas report a great movement of troops in Salvadoran ports. It is said General Prudencio Lara is at the head of 1,000 Nicaraguans. This expedition is said to be well armed and equipped.

The arrival of Don Luis Alonzo Barahona, the ex-ambassador for the presidency of Salvador, is expected at the department and he will join with Alvaro and Figueroa as one of the revolutionary chiefs.

The revolutionists are said to be in possession of Castillo Viejo. In a San Jose paper it is predicted that the invasion of Nicaragua may precipitate a general uprising in Central America.

Following is the situation as seen in Salvador. If Alvaro is beaten the troops of Salvador and Guatemala will march through Honduras to attack Zelaya. If Alvaro succeeds, a revolution in Guatemala will be assured.

Scores of applications from Americans for service in the Estrada army in Nicaragua are being received by his office, according to Consul General Sussman, representing the provisional government in New Orleans. None of the offers has been accepted on account of the neutrality laws. Most of the applications are from the Gulf states.

A cablegram from Colon to the Playmate tonight says: "The steamer Puritan, which lost its rudder in yesterday's storm and after perilous hours in which it was dragging anchors, drifted down the east coast of Lake Michigan to a point off New Buffalo, Ind., where the anchors held, rode out the night safely and today it was expected, would be towed into Chicago harbor, which it left twenty-four hours ago."
