

CHANGES IN THE BURLINGTON

Several Officials Are to Be Promoted by Daniel Willard.

HOLDREGE TO HAVE AN ASSISTANT

Position Lies Between Three Men, Loomis, Who is Acting Assistant; Throop and Ed Bignell, Superintendents.

From Chicago comes reports of important changes in the personnel of operating officials on the Burlington route, on lines west of the Missouri river. Three important promotions have been announced, which are believed to be only the forerunners of promotions which may effect the Omaha offices of the railroad.

J. C. Birdsell, division superintendent at Alliance, has resigned his position and will devote his energy to private enterprise in Wyoming, where he is interested in irrigation projects. From the office of Vice President Willard comes the announcement that Mr. Birdsell is to be succeeded by W. M. Weidenhamer, division superintendent at Sterling, Colo., and that Mr. Weidenhamer's place is to be filled by F. G. Robbins, assistant at Galesburg, Ill. This order becomes effective December 1.

Back of the recent tour of inspection over the western lines by Daniel Willard, vice president in charge of operation of the Burlington, is believed to be a plan to promote certain officials. Owing to the increased traffic over the western lines and because of the many new branch lines in course of construction in Wyoming and through the west it has become necessary to announce changes in the heads of operating officials.

Assistant to Holdrege. George W. Holdrege, general manager of the Burlington, who has offices in the general headquarters in Omaha, has no official assistant general manager. George W. Loomis, whose title is chief clerk to the general manager, is really known as an assistant to the general manager, but has no title to that effect.

Talk is rife to the effect that an assistant general manager is to be appointed. It is generally conceded that this man will be selected from three officials in Nebraska. These three men are Mr. Loomis of Omaha, W. W. Throop, general superintendent of the lines west of the Missouri river, with headquarters at Lincoln, and Ed Bignell, superintendent of the Lincoln division, with headquarters at Lincoln.

The appointment of F. G. Robbins as superintendent of the Sterling, Colo., division, brings back to the lines west of the Missouri a man who is well versed in methods of operation in the west. He was formerly a trainmaster on the lines west and was drafted from the western service to his present position at Galesburg, Ill. He is well known among western railway men.

Highway Notes and Personalities. E. C. Griffin, will spend Thanksgiving day at Geneva, N. Y. C. A. Vance has gone to Lexington, Ky., for Thanksgiving day. D. Glenn Deaver, immigration and land agent for the Burlington route, has returned from Chicago, where he attended the United States Land and Irrigation congress.

C. E. Spens, general freight agent for the Burlington route, is again in duty. Mr. Spens and his bride have just returned from their honeymoon, spent at Honolulu, Hawaii.

L. B. Allen, general superintendent of the Burlington lines east of the Missouri river, with headquarters at Burlington, Ia., passed through Omaha en route to Chicago, where he will spend Thanksgiving day. He was in special car No. 97.

Road Will Make Large Exhibit

Rock Island Will Send Here Its Showing at Land and Irrigation Exposition.

John C. Bonnell, industrial representative of the Rock Island, is in Omaha making preliminary arrangements for installing the big exhibits of his road at the National Corn exposition. He says that the road's exhibits in the United States Land and Irrigation exposition, now open in Chicago, will be brought to Omaha in their entirety. "In order to have plenty of time to install our exhibit, we will attach the special cars to our Rocky Mountain Limited and thus make the best time possible from Chicago to Omaha," said Mr. Bonnell.

AMES COLLEGE SPENDS YEAR ON EXHIBIT FOR CORN SHOW

Iowa School Will Present Comprehensive Display of State's Scheme to Increase Farm Production. The Iowa State College at Ames has spent more than a year in collecting the exhibit which Iowa will make at the National Corn exposition, and the land and irrigation exposition, now open in Chicago, and in Omaha it will be the line and its constant edition. The Twentieth Century Farmer which stood back of the National Corn exposition and made it a success by work within its organization and by the large amount of space which both used in boosting for the show.

Omaha is for All the State, So is the Corn Show

Commercial Club Explains to Interior Towns, Correcting Some Wrong Impressions.

Attention has been called to the Omaha Commercial club by a circular, which was sent to the club, that the Norfolk Commercial club is protesting against the dates of the National Corn exposition, asserting that the thousands who will attend the show will draw trade away from the merchants of the smaller towns.

The Commercial club of Omaha has adopted resolutions on the subject, embodying the facts as set forth in the following letter. In the Norfolk Commercial club from Edgar Allen, chairman of the executive committee of the Omaha Commercial club:

OMAHA, Nov. 19, 1909.—Norfolk Commercial Club, Norfolk, Neb., Gentlemen:—Although the resolutions adopted by your body under date of November 9, are not directed against the Commercial club of Omaha, but deal with the action of the show will draw trade away from the merchants of the smaller towns.

This club has for one of its objects the furthering of the commercial development of the surrounding territory, and to the best of our ability this one feature is given careful and constant attention. The fact of our holding the Corn show here at a big expense to our people must be evidence of that.

We have nothing to do with the dates, however, and from investigation we ourselves have made, learn that the dates are arbitrarily established by the National Corn association, whose officers are not local people, in fact, the dates this year were announced over the protest of the business men of this city, who were plainly told by President Eugene Frank of Shelby, Ill., that if Omaha did not want the corn show, just following the International Live Stock show and prior to the short course of agricultural colleges, other cities would be glad to take it. It would then have been lost to Nebraska and would have gone either to Des Moines, St. Louis or Toledo, all of which were active competitors for it.

Inasmuch as the short course begins the first week in January, it left little choice in dates. We have been told time and again that the Corn association officers are not themselves free from these controlling influences, and it would seem to us that their reasons, with which you are already doubtless familiar, could be proven or disproven by consulting with the various agricultural societies of this state. We naturally assume that your resolutions were not adopted without having made some inquiry on this subject, and it would seem to us only fair that the responsibility for the dates announced be placed where it belongs.

We beg to assure you that we stand ready at any time to co-operate with your club or any other commercial body in this state in whatever way may be beneficial to the business interests of the state at large, and to that end invite further correspondence from you on this or any other subject. (Signed), EDGAR ALLEN, Chairman Executive Committee.

WHILE SEEING NELLIE HOME BEAU, SHE SAYS, ROBS HER Young Man is Accused of Taking Girl's Watch and Chain, but Denies It.

Charles Hittle was arraigned in district court on the charge of having taken a watch and chain from his sweetheart, Nellie Chambers, one night when he was "seeing Nellie home." Miss Chambers had been distrustful of Hittle for some time, because of something whispered by "the bird on Nellie's hat," but her suspicions were not confirmed until the time when she failed to keep watch and ward. Hittle pleaded not guilty.
