Fitchett Has Two Black Eyes

Aged Citizen of Dundee is Pummelled by His Neighbor, He Says.

Once again has the holy calm of a Sunday morning in pretty Dundee been rudely disturbed. Frank E. Fitchett, the septuagenarian resident of Dundee, who is famous for building a "pete fence," appeared in county court wearing an angry expression and two perfectly black eyes. He swore out a complaint against Henry Baird, his next-door neighbor, and said that Baird had given him the discolored optics. According to his story, a chicken got away from Fitchett Sunday, and he pursued it into the yard of United States Marshal Warner. On his way back, he says, Baird waylaid him and struck him. Two months ago Mr. Baird complained of Fitchett in county court for firing off a revolver one night when Mr. and Mrs. Baird were entertaining guests. Fitchett pleaded guilty and received a fine of $10.

OMAHA RECRUITS FOR NAVY

Twenty-Five Enlisted Here in November to Go Sailing on the High Seas.

The Omaha naval recruiting depot contributed twenty-five "rookies" to the United States naval establishment during the month of November, 1909. The recruits were largely for apprentice seamen and coal passers, although there were several re-enlistments. There is a strong tendency to re-enlistment throughout the country. There were thirty-one re-enlistments during the last week of November, with a relatively corresponding number of re-enlistments for several preceding weeks. The Navy department is doing all that it can to secure re-enlistments, as it takes at least half of the first enlistment to mould the recruit into a good seaman.
