

New Comfortable Christmas Slippers

There isn't a slipper we cannot supply, either in men's or women's styles. Slippers that are easy and affording comforting relaxation. Immense Christmas stocks. We illustrate four leading styles.

No Uncertainty About Linens as Gifts

Bennett's linens are dependable kinds. Fancy and staple lines imported by us specially to meet the holiday demand. Don't let the last few days catch you unprovided; make purchases now, assortments are best today.

Fancy Linens

We shall show tomorrow two lots of beautiful embroidered, drawn and hemstitched pieces such as shams, centers, scarfs and lunch cloths. They are all choice, new goods, and at a third under value.

Table Linens

We feature for Monday these gift suggestions: Table Damask Sets—Cloth, 2x2 1/2 yards, and 1 dozen 20-inch napkins to match; handsome $7.50 sets, at $5.95.

Christmas Baskets

THREE LINES UNDERPRICED MONDAY Sewing Stand—Satin lined or plain, worth $6.85, for $4.85.

Be Early for Christmas Handkerchiefs

You recall your resolution last year to buy earlier next time, don't you? Why wait and miss the choicest selections when the lines are fresh and new and crisp. We are making it worth while tomorrow, with striking value in men's and women's handkerchiefs.

Christmas Waists

Handsome plaids and Persian silks—advance 1910 models, fuller sleeves with cuff—$10, $12 and $13.50

BENNETT'S SHOP EARLY—17 More Shopping Days to Christmas.

Specials in Furs River Mink Scarfs, blended, $5 $6.50 and $7.50.

Low R. R. Rates to Omaha Corn Show. Come

Union Pacific, 1c per mile; other roads, 1 1/2c per mile—A great national exposition that attracts many thousands of visitors to Omaha. Come and combine your holiday shopping with other pleasures.

The Christmas Sale of Cut Glass

The reputation for cut glass supremacy, which Bennett's has acquired, has been tremendously augmented in this holiday exhibit and sale. Preparations for this event have been systematically under way for months.

Stephens & Williams and Austrian Rock Crystal Glass. TABLE 1 CUT GLASS Worth to $2.50, for $1.00. TABLE 2 CUT GLASS Worth to $4.50, for $2.50.

Bennett's, Greatest of All Holiday Book Stores

Practically everything in the book field of note has been covered by our Christmas preparations. Books that appeal to all tastes and temperaments, arranged for easy choosing. Walk in and look around. See the west's greatest exposition of gift books.

Repeating a Liberal Offer

With Women's Suits at $25.00 or More

A $5.00 Silk Petticoat FREE

The unprecedented favor with which these offers are received tempts us to repeat it again tomorrow. Much more attractive than this, however, are the wonderful low prices of the suits themselves.

- $25.00 Suits - $15.00 $29.50 Suits - $19.50 $35.00 Suits - $25.00 $40.00 Suits - $29.50

The petticoats are in colors to match the suits, and the best $5.00 quality money can buy.

Simplex Typewriters for Christmas

The Simplex Typewriter is not a toy, but a practical and instructive machine that writes perfectly. Three sizes at $25.00, $35.00 and $50.00.

Christmas Gifts In the Hardware

Coffee Machines, Percolators and Chafing Dishes, form one of the strongest holiday lines of the basement store. We have wide assortment in each line representing the best known makes.

Bennett's Big Grocery

Tea Settings, one day only, our 15c quality, 1b. $1.00—15c Bennett's Breakfast Coffee, 2-lb. can, 4c. and 5c. stamps.

FLUFFY, SHINING LOCKS

Relief for Heads Made Top Heavy by Fashion.

POMPADOUR WITHOUT THE RAT

Shampoos with Gaoiline, Corn Meal and Hot Towels—Just Suggestions of Waves—Christmas Bride's Coiffure.

I've been spending two hours upon the hair of a Christmas bride. Her intended told her that her locks were sun kissed, and now I've got to spend two hours a day upon them to keep them shining. It costs her a pretty penny and me any amount of anxiety.

stances. All women are not beauties nor young. The majority need a few soft waves near the face, and the wise woman who has seen her twenty-sixth birthday will insist that her hair be waved.

compelled to accomplish some difficult feat. The bridegroom-to-be, enamoured creature, is sure to think her locks slightly different from what they really are.

MIDNIGHTS IN THE ARCTIC

Dr. Cook's Account of His Christmas in Santa Claus Land.

POLAR COLORS OF THE LONG DAY

Certain Events and Experiences in the Quest for the Pole—Agony of Travel on the Polar Sea.

Two Christmases in the Arctic, 1907 and 1908, the first full of hopeful anticipations, the last one of distress approaching despair, presented to Frederick A. Cook a sharp contrast to the childhood ideals of Santa Claus land printed in entrancing colors at this season of the year.

tude, the uttermost horizon would become a bank of indigo rising vapourously to meet a pale-purple sky, or it would present a wall of orange, or, again, and most frequently, an unlighting cloud of smokiness.

winds. The great fields of ice extending out from land also are affected by ocean currents, tides and the winds. This latter body of shifting ice separated into enormous floes, the low temperature instantly freezing the opening spaces of water between, is carried by these disintegrating forces until met by the relentless swing of movement the new ice in the leads is the polar ice cap and forced back upon themselves and upon the land.

weakness reached the stage where the body would not contain its moisture, but coaxed out from every pore, to be instantly turned to frost. Before that the slightly warmer portion of the body—the waist line, wrists, and below the knee, where foxglove were worn for greater protection—were marked by rings of snow. The chronic ailment of the eyes reduced the pupils to pinholes, and the steady blast of icy particles forced blither drops that congealed as soon as freed. The vapor of the breath dropped into my beard and rose to the eyelashes, which became soiled. It is to prevent this torture that the Eskimos pull all facial hairs out by the roots, though they grow their hair long so as to cover the face with it at times of extreme need. But our breath, even floated before us and became a crystal mask, extending to the foxglove worn about the hood to shield the face.

The unrelenting agony of the daily routine was frequently increased tenfold by the terrifying storms that sweep the icy plains. Blinding snow, cutting frost, and a blizzard of ice, were wholly without mercy to the accompaniments. Even the dogs in their weatherproof pelts howl and rebel, and in more than one instance we dug them from the drift that hid them, a mass held completely by bonds of ice. The temperature rises during such storms, but falls swiftly afterward.