YOUNG WOMAN CARRIES HER BABY IN TELESCOPE GRIP

Finds it a Good Plan While Traveling on the Train from the Country.

Among the belated passengers who stepped from an eastbound train at Union station was a young woman who attracted considerable attention. She was closely bundled up and wore a vari-colored scarf about her head and shoulders. That she was from the rural precincts of the west was quite evident from her manner and dress. Health glowed in her cheeks, bespeaking of outdoor life.

She alone was a picture of country life, but in her hand she carried a small wicker telescope upon which the crowd curiously fixed its attention. From the innermost recesses of the telescope issued loud cries. But the young woman was not perturbed. She went to a seat in the waiting room and removed the well ventilated cover from the traveling case. She lifted from it, not a pet poodle, a fluffy kitten or a pink colored pig, but a real, live, hungry baby. "That's the best system I ever followed for taking a baby 'round the country," she said. "The little one never cried once until the train stopped in Omaha. It just lay in there as snug and warm as could be and wasn't any bother at all. We had a long drive through the country before boarding the train. It's cold too, out on the prairie."

"Another thing," she added, "The kid is a great deal easier to carry this way, because—well, because the basket has got a handle on it. Ain't that sensible?"

"Pride of Omaha" FLOUR

Choicest yield of sun and rain, Cream of old earth's golden grain, The housewife greets with loud hurrah Her joy, the "PRIDE OF OMAHA."

Omaha, Nov. 25, 1909.
Uplike Milling Co., Omaha, Neb.

Pursuant to your enclosed adv., I submit herewith three "Jingles on your 'Pride of Omaha' Flour." Permit me to say that after using one sack of "Pride of Omaha," I became so enthused over its general excellence and superior qualities that, with such a prospect for my name, I found it easier to write three "Jingles" on "Pride of Omaha" than it would have been for me to ever attempt such a task in relation to ordinary brands.

This will explain to you just why three "Jingles" are enclosed herewith, instead of one, as suggested in your advertisement. Thanking you in advance for your consideration of what I herewith offer, and hoping that they—one or all three of them—will result in my securing a sack of "Pride of Omaha," I remain, yours very truly,

MRS. AIT W. GIRD,
702 S. 24th St., Omaha.
