

BURKETT BOOSTS FOR GENOA

Senator Finds No Provision for Nebraska Indian School.

BILLS IN TO ENLARGE SCOPE

Senator Warren Introduces Measure to Provide for Disposition of Surplus Water Under Reclamation Act.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14.—(Special Telegram)—Senator Burkett is determined that the Genoa Indian school, instead of being wiped off the map, financially speaking, and abandoned, should be maintained and made a real vital non-reservation school and one of the very best in the country. It will be recalled that the Genoa school was recommended for discontinuance by the secretary of the interior last year, but that the secretary's report on the part of the Nebraska senators an appropriation was made for its continuance this year.

In the letter of estimates from the Treasury department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, the Genoa school is again unprovided for. The secretary of the interior has expressed a mistake and an effort will be made to restore it to its old status. Senator Burkett is not satisfied with this condition as is evidenced by bills he introduced today for new buildings at Genoa on a building a new, general workshop $1,000, appropriating $5,000 for a new set of employees' quarters and $2,000 for a new superintendent's house.

When Senator Burkett inspected the school at Genoa, he found the employees crowded with pupils in the dormitory and he takes the position that employees should be wholly removed from the school. He maintains that Indians must be educated along practical lines and must largely in trades. There is continuous to the Genoa school a splendid agricultural section and he contends that there are enough Indians in the immediate territory to raise the complement of the school from 200 pupils to 250, and he proposes to increase it to that capacity, if possible.

Genoa's Location Excellent.

The reservation schools, Nebraska's senior senator contends, cannot keep up a regular attendance of Indian pupils and even parents seem to prefer to send their children's attendance upon neighborhood schools. Reservation schools lack facilities for teaching practical things, such as a central school provides. In this instance Genoa is a reservation school. The senator believes farming should be taught at the Genoa school, together with trades like blacksmithing, wheelwrighting and kindred occupations, and it will be his effort to make the Genoa school second to none in the country.

Senator Burkett was advised today by letter that a delegation of Omaha Indians is enroute to Washington to take up matters of legislation pertaining to their interests. Senator Burkett has today passed a bill through the senate giving the Omahas the right to go into the court of claims and settle an old time controversy between them and the government with reference to lands taken by the government, for which payment was never made, those lands having been taken when the Omaha Indians were removed from the northern portion of the state to their present reservation in Thurston county.

Senator Burkett will appear before the judiciary committee of the senate tomorrow in support of his bill to prohibit the transmission by telephone, telegraph or mail of race track and other gambling information across the boundaries of states.

Warren's Water Measure.

Senator Warren today introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to provide for the disposition of the surplus waters of the projects under the reclamation act to irrigation systems operated under the Carey act or under laws of any state or territory, the water herein provided for to be delivered to such person or association of corporation operating said system for delivery to individual water users under said irrigation system, who shall have the same qualifications as are required of persons having lands in private ownership under reclamation projects.

NEW POSTMASTERS.

The president today nominated postmasters as follows: Nebraska: Robert E. Douglas, Clarke, W. W. Cole, Nellish, South Dakota: Peter J. Rodge, Sioux Falls; Lawrence E. Armstrong, of Rawlins, Wyo., was admitted to practice before the United States supreme court today.

Hermann P. Orath was appointed postmaster at Riege, Cherry county, Nebraska; vice J. M. Blahaw, resigned.

Wesley J. Masters was appointed rural carrier for route 2 at Mapleton, and Frank Hoffer for route 6 at Sac City, Ia.

The comptroller of the currency has approved the conversion of the First State bank of Morristown, S. D., into the First National Bank of Morristown, with $25,000 capital.

The senate today confirmed Leonora Snyder as postmaster at Battle Creek, Henry Snyder at Plattsmouth and Henry Hink at Sterling, Neb.

John A. Fox, special director of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, left Washington yesterday for Omaha to address the Missouri Navigation convention.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN LISTED BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Christmas Stories and Illustrated Volumes Listed in Pamphlet Now Being Distributed. "Christmas books for children" is the title of a pamphlet being distributed from the children's department of the Omaha Public Library. This list is intended as a help to people in their selection and contains picture books and books for little children, myths and fairy tales, poetry for children, Bible stories and stories of the saints, books suitable for boys, books for girls and books suitable for both boys and girls.

The pamphlet points out that books which children own are read again and again, therefore the greatest care should be taken in their selection. The first class are the fables and Mother Goose, for they give children who have not yet formed the habit of concentration a whole story in a few words. Then come the fairy tales, myths and legends—the great dramatic and ethical stories which we inherit from our primitive ancestors. After those the boys like adventure and the girls stories of home life and of romance. There are many such books which are of value. Some of them are by great authors, as Charles Lamb and Kingsley, as well as others by such writers as Mrs. Ewing and Howard Pyle, whose reputation rests chiefly upon their stories for children. However it may be, only genius can write a fine book for children, and it is well to avoid the most recent publications, for many of them are very poor.

Next in importance to the choice of the books is the choice of the edition. The books must be clear and the binding attractive and durable. The pictures should be especially considered. Picture books for the little children should be refined in thought and good in color and drawing, and the illustrations for the older children should be not only artistic, but in the spirit of the story. Many of the editions in the list are inexpensive, but a few fine ones are given, for every child should own one or two beautiful books.

TAFT INSPECTS BREAD LINE

Visits Mission and Addresses Typical Bowery Audience.

GOES SHOPPING WITH WIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Taft Visit Jewelry Store on Fifth Avenue and Purchase Presents for Their Children.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—After speaking last night in Carnegie hall at the diamond jubilee of the Methodist missions in Africa, President Taft motored through a driving rainstorm to the Bowery mission, where he made an address to a typical Bowery audience. He afterward inspected the "Bread Line" room, where each night hundreds of the unemployed are given food.

The president in immaculate evening clothes, presented a striking contrast to the men of the mission who rose to their feet and cheered him as he entered the long, church-like room, from the rear.

In his talk to the men, delivered in an earnest conversational tone, the president urged his hearers not to be down on their luck, but to struggle on in the belief that the future would be brighter for them.

Address of Mr. Taft.

The president was introduced by Dr. Louis Kloppsch, who established the mission.

"My friends," said the president, "I am almost as surprised at being here as you are to see me. I am invited to come by your good friend, Dr. Kloppsch, whom I know, as you know him by the things he has done. I was glad to accept the invitation to come to the Bowery. Not having lived in New York, I had always been curious to see it. I know that where the Bowery and Dr. Kloppsch met that there would be the best part of it, so I came here. As I look in your faces I see you to be earnest American citizens. Some of you are down on your luck, perhaps, but you are responding in every fibre to the same sentiments of loyalty and decency, love of country and the same aspirations for better ideals that I hope every man in this country has.

"I am glad to be here if being here and by saying so, I can convince you that the so-called chasm between you and those who seem for the time to be more fortunate is not so much of a chasm after all and that there is between them and you a deep feeling of sympathy on their part and an earnest desire that you shall have that equality of opportunity of getting on your feet, of earning a decent livelihood and of supporting your families, which we hope every man who lives under the stars and stripes enjoys.

Words of Encouragement.

"I am glad to testify in my interest in the work of this mission, which I hope will always help you and others over the hard places the times when the Lord and everybody else seems to be against you, to help you at such times to believe that there are people in the world who sympathize with you and hope you will achieve all that an equality of opportunity will give you and to help you to better things. I know it is difficult for you to believe that I who am receiving a large salary from the government and am living in comfort, can understand or take to my heart the feelings you have of desperation and that you have not had the chance that other men have. But in spite of the seeming differences your fellow citizens are not all greedy and grasping. Their hearts are more open today and they are more ready to help the needy out of their difficulties than at any time in the past, and that

MAN WHO DISCOVERED MURDER WANTED FOR TRIAL

Frank Williams, Colored, Will Be Taken to Salt Lake City for Trial.

Detective George Burt of Salt Lake City arrived in Omaha Tuesday morning armed with a warrant for Frank Williams, colored, who is wanted in the Mormon city on the charge of burglary. The officer went to Lincoln for extradition papers and will start west with his prisoner Wednesday.

Williams is the man who found the body of Henry Frankland, whose murderer Johnson, has just been convicted in district court. Wanted as a witness in the case, Williams was locked up as a suspicious character, and after a day or two it was learned he was wanted in the Utah city.

Editors of Northwestern States Given a Private View.

One Thousand Prominent Citizens of Minneapolis at the Opening Dinner.

Minneapolis, Dec. 15.—Hotel Radisson, just completed at a cost of $1,500,000, was opened last night for a private view to members of the press from all over the Northwest, who were present to the number of several hundred. Today the hotel was formally opened to the public, a dinner being given in the evening for which one thousand seats at tables were reserved.

Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis

The hotel is of reinforced concrete construction throughout, absolutely fire-proof and completely up-to-date in point of modern hotel equipment and management. It has three hundred and fifty rooms, nearly all with bath, with circulating ice-water in every room. More floor space, it is claimed, for the Radisson, is devoted to the use of commercial travelers than any other hotel in America of its size. It is to be conducted upon European plan, in a style which will challenge comparison with hotels of the highest class in the East. Rates are $1.50 and $2.00 without bath; $2 rooms have toilet; $2.50 and upward with bath; suites $10 per day and upward.

The Minneapolis Commercial Club has leased the two upper floors of the hotel building, which have been fitted up at an expense of $100,000 for equipment and furnishings.

The house is under the management of Charles J. Owen, formerly manager of the famous Hotel Astor, New York.
