BRIEF IN OMAHA GAS CASE. T. W. Blackburn Pushing Old Suit Against High Charge.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. Comparison of Prices State and Consumers Pay for Meals—Lincoln's Flag Day Not Successful.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. Through the name of I. J. Dunn two little ink lines are drawn, leaving Harry Burnham and John A. Rine attorneys representing the city, which has joined Blackburn in the suit. It will be recalled Dunn was disbarred from the practice of law recently by the supreme court for action unbecoming a member of the bar. Dunn is a part of the legal department of Omaha; but his name does not go with the courts of the state.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. The other reminder of old times is the description of the scene attending the passage of the ordinance when Mayor Moore kept a quorum of the council present by stationing police officers at the doors with orders to allow no member to pass out. It recites also an attempted fight on the part of Dave O'Brien and the mayor, and a skirmish between Zimmerman and a policeman, all of which happened back in 1885.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. Blackburn alleged the city was paying too much for the gas and therefore he demanded that the contract be set aside. He lost out in the lower court and the case is now in the supreme court and he is asking a reversal.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. O'Brien Gets Clean Bill. Labor Commissioner Maupin went to Omaha yesterday to investigate a complaint against T. J. O'Brien for employing an 11-year-old boy. He discovered O'Brien in the grill room.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. "You are charged with employing an 11-year-old boy in violation of law," said Maupin. "It is against the law, which provides that boys of that age shall not be employed, against the law employing boys where liquor is sold."

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. "I'm certainly in the clear on that last charge," sadly smiled O'Brien, as he gazed at his vacant bar.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. Maupin discovered that the boy was not now employed and had not been employed by O'Brien, though he had worked for the manager of the orchestra some time ago.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. He gave O'Brien a clean bill.

STIRRING SCENES ARE RECALLED. "You are charged with the state believes it is getting its supplies for the state institutions at very reasonable prices compared with what retailers pay and what the ordinary consumer pays. The following shows a comparison of prices paid in Lincoln:
