

BILL AND GWYNNE ABOARD

W. B. Heart in "Lower 5" and Van derbilt in Private Palace.

REACH OMAHA ON SAME TRAIN

Neither knew other was there—Underhill Goes to Cheyenne. Heart to Pale Alto to spend Christmas with Mother.

The return of two prominent American families reached Omaha Wednesday morning on the Grand Limited of the North-western. One of them traveled in the private car "Warbler" of the New York Central line, one of the most comfortable coaches on wheels, and the other occupied a berth in the ordinary Pullman car "Blossom."

The man in the private car was Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt and brother to Consuelo Vanderbilt of railroad fame.

The man in "lower eight" of the Pullman car "Blossom" was William Randolph Hearst, of newspaper reputation and once defeated for mayor of New York and since for governor.

Apparently neither of the prominent New Yorkers knew of the presence of the other on the train. "There were few passengers who knew that Mr. Hearst was traveling among them as an "ordinary" passenger. Mr. Vanderbilt's private car was attached to the rear of the train and was, of course locked at both ends.

Witness in a Secret

Mr. Vanderbilt declined to make known his business in the west. His car was routed through Cheyenne, Wyo., by the Union Pacific and according to railroad instructions will leave that point for New York on Saturday.

"I have received a personal notice for publication," said Mr. Vanderbilt, "I am going to Cheyenne, then I shall turn around and go right back again. It's pretty hot out here in the west and a man doesn't want to linger long at any point, you know."

"Christmas? Yes, I might say a few words about Christmas. It won't mean a great deal to me this year as I shall be as my private car. The chief may get up a special table for us but that's about all there'll be in it. Christmas morning I'll probably be rolling over the plains between Cheyenne and Omaha. My husband if the west does not concern anyone but myself."

Mr. Vanderbilt's private car is a model of the Pullman craft. It is handomely finished in Cuban mahogany and is equipped with observation platform, dining room, private drawing room, kitchen and servants' quarters.

Agent a Little Palace

The sponsoring of a special service, instead of the ordinary red or blue or green coach, the chairs and seats are finished in white with crimson trimmings. The car is one of the most beautiful that has appeared in the union stations.

Mr. Vanderbilt is accompanied by a small retinue of servants. He did not leave his car while in Omaha. As the North-western train was three hours late upon arrival in the local terminal the private coach was attached to the Union Pacific Mail train No. 3, the fastest train west.

The Pullman car in which Mr. Hearst arrived in Omaha over the North-western was made up as a part of the Overland Limited on the Union Pacific, which is a slower train than the one taken by Mr. Vanderbilt.

Mr. Hearst left his car at Union station and walked up and down the platform for ten minutes for a breath of fresh air.

There were few people aside from the Pullman conductor and the porter, who knew him. He is bound for Pale Alto, Cal., where he will spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Hearst.

CAN MOVE OLD COURT HOUSE

Constructors Say It is Possible to Relocate the Building in Street.

F. L. Haller has addressed another letter to the Board of County Commissioners, asking if the old court house building can be removed intact and if so, when is a new location if it can be used for a public museum.

It is agreed by building men that it will not be impossible to move the old building as a whole. The question of its relocation and its future use or uses has not been considered by the Board of County Commissioners.

Mayor's Boyhood

Dahlman Reminded by Christmas Card from Big Brother of Pair of Incidents of Long Ago.

Mayor Dahlman has received a Christmas card that, from a puzzle for a moment, developed into a source of much satisfaction.

The card shows a very tall, regular man, with a heavy black beard, standing among a bunch of boys playing out from a basket. The man has all the earmarks of a Texas rancher, from the battered old western to the battered pants. He wears neither coat or vest, nor suspenders, and carries very little cash.

The mayor looked at the card with some interest, because of the Texas postmark, but could not recognize the man as known to him. Finally he discovered some very small writing on one side and found the man in the picture is his brother.

"I haven't seen him for almost thirty years," said Mayor Jim, and here he recalls an incident that happened when he was very young. Ah, He Can Talk in Money Terms

Peddler Who Assumes Spanish Tongue Melts into English at Mention of "Seventy-Five Cents."

The dark, swarthy foreigner stood waiting patiently. At last E. J. Lester looked up from his busy desk in the street railway company's office.

"Well, what do you want?" "Some cigars, Massachusetts, first and best, please."

"Nothing doing," replied the official, starting aside the agent with the Hispano accent and the real imported Hispano accents.

The agent pushed his way back to the office of Louis Nash, where the performance of visible Spanish and delicious foreign cigars was repeated.

"Magnificent, Colorado maduro—una pena, please," he pleaded.

"Offer him 75 cents," suggested Arthur Gross of the claim department, with a shrewd air of certainty.

The real imported Spanish cigar peddler went up with a satisfied smile.

"Say, mister, but just see that six bits and see if I take 'em," he exclaimed in the jargon of Americanism.

CATTLE ARE NOT INJURED BY THE HEAVY SNOWS AND COLD

Live Stock is Handled Today so as to Get Around Such Elements.

"Cattle in our country are not bothered much by the snow and cold," said G. M. One of Board, S. D., president of the One Land company, who is in Omaha. "The cattle business is worked on a different basis from what it formerly was. In former days cattle were allowed to range for themselves and if the snow was too deep for them to dig through and get some feed they were pretty apt to go hungry. Now it is different, every acre put up a supply of hay for just such emergencies as this and the cattle are well taken care of and do not lose the flesh they have been taking on all fall and summer."

"While the snow and very weather have practically put a stop to feed sales in the winter, we are looking for a big run of business in the spring. The corn show has done a large amount of good and the general desire of the people to secure farms will crystallize in the spring and lead for a big run. South Dakota has the largest number of farms in the country. The last year by near settlers who have moved in and we look for next year to show a larger increase."

CHURCHES AND CHRISTMAS

Various Sunday Schools Are Holding Their Annual Exercises.

SOME BIG PROGRAMS PRESENTED

Many of the Congregations Will Observe the Great Festival on Sunday. While Others Will Wait Till Sunday.

Christmas exercises in the Omaha churches began Wednesday night. The holiday programs in the churches will continue through the week. Many of the churches will hold special programs on Christmas day while others will hold them on Sunday, the day following.

The churches have adopted a plan of Christmas charity, which gives each of the Sunday school classes a share in the helping of the poor. Each class is this week supporting one member of the holiday dinner so that the whole body has a share in the Christmas gift to the needy.

The Macedonian class at Hartford United Brethren church will present "The Prodigal's Return," a dramatic story of the Christmas season in three acts, at the church on Christmas eve.

AT 11-SCENE I. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hawkins at Home, Tuesday Night of December 24, 1929. Scene II. Village manager and scholars of Hartford, by way of Christmas celebration practice.

LATER IN THE EVENING. The village people on way home from singing school.

Christmas Eve. Scene I. Jaded travelers home from village with their sleds. Scene II. Jesus and Simeon hang up their stockings.

SCENE I. Prudential asleep by campfire. The awakening. Scene II. The morning. ACT III. Christmas morning. Unexpected arrival of children. Merry-making of the holiday. An act of charity. Stranger tells his story. Recognition. A happy home.

Cast by Fifty Voices. Walnut Hill Methodist. Forty-first and Sprague, will present a chorus of fifty voices, accompanied by an orchestra of eight pieces, in a dramatic musical "Glad Tidings" Friday night.

The program for the evening is: Program—"There's a Joy in the World" Today. Christmas Club. Introduction—Rev. E. E. Hansen. Christmas Club. Responsive Reading. Prayer—George T. Lindsey, Sup. Response.

POSTMEN CARRY BIG LOADS

Holiday Business Now at Its Height—Good System in Omaha Avoids Congestion.

Christmas mail business is at its height in Omaha. There is a perceptible increase over that of last year, but there is but little congestion or confusion in the local postoffice. Several weighers are located near the stamp windows and handle and weigh the packages as rapidly as they come in and indicate the amount of stamps required on the packages, thus materially expediting the work.

The registry department is worked to the limit, and the registry room is constantly piled up with a mass of packages of all descriptions. The extensive influx of mail is being handled with almost perfect system, which is a credit to the postoffice force.

The incoming mails are usually heavy with Christmas packages and all the substitutes and extra carriers are at work helping with the city distribution. The carriers are loaded down like pack horses on each delivery, some of them starting out with over forty pounds of mail. The mail will continue up to Saturday noon.

BEER SALES AFTER HOURS

Employees at Murray Hotel Accused of Dispensing Supply of Bottled Goods After Eight O'clock.

Selling bottled beer at the Murray hotel after the closing hour, by using messengers, was discovered by the police Wednesday night when Arthur Schultz, a bell boy, and Ray Hayes, the elevator boy, were arrested.

The police allege the two were conducting a good sized beer business, with the aid of messengers, after the closing hours. Schultz, the bell boy, is alleged to have kept a supply of bottles beer under the counter at the cashier's desk and Hayes, the elevator boy, is said to have hidden his supply in a closet on the fourth floor.

The police encountered a messenger boy last night as he was leaving the hotel with a number of bottles wrapped in paper which they took away from him. They made a search of the hotel and found evidence which they say will be enough to convict the two men.

Hayes' messenger was set for Saturday morning while Schultz, who is but of years of age, has been turned over to the juvenile officers.

STEAL JUST FOR EXCITEMENT

Clifford Coleman Says That's What Actuated Him and Burgers.

RELIEVES FIVE NIGHT CLERKS

Confession of Lunch Counter Thief Removes Burden from Kind of Men Who Felt They Were Suspected.

"Just for excitement," Clifford Coleman and James Burgers robbed the Beacon Lunch cafeteria on Farnam street, the Omaha restaurant, the Ivy Leaf and the Omaha Quick lunch place.

Coleman pleaded guilty and made a clean breast before Judge Burger in district court and is imprisoned in all the early morning hold-ups of recent occurrence. Five night clerks will be glad that Coleman has confessed for they felt under suspicion of being accused of having "traded in" themselves.

Coleman was not suspected, a being desired to investigate his record before the case when he says he began a life of crime. Burgers is under indictment for the same offense.

Harry Roy was another arrangement of the day. Roy, who is a descendant of a Seneca Indian, worked at the Armour plant and two weeks ago was tried in district court for robbing a pay check. A jury acquitted him and Roy went back to the same game, according to the evidence against him. This time Gus McLain, also colored, but of Ugandan extraction, got in the game, according to the complaint.

Both pleaded not guilty.

Clifford Christopher Kelly was a co-defendant. He got a check payable to his employer and one day while in the cup he signed his employer's name. The employer said it would be all right if Kelly made it up, but the employer stopped payment on the check and the bank had Kelly arrested.

He pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred.

GOOD BOYS GET BEST JOBS

Jobby Department Chief Puts Great Faith in Work of the Y. M. C. A.

There are seven boys employed in the telegraph department of the Omaha Telephone plant at South Omaha and all of them are members of the Young Men's Christian association," states H. E. Ellis, the head of the department. "We find that the class of boys usually turn out to be the best men for the job 'higher up.'"

It has been learned, too, that there are a large number of men employed at the Omaha plant who are members of the Young Men's Christian association, many of them having joined years ago, when the association headquarters were located on Lodge street.
